A Clever Collie.

Sidney Cooper, the English animal nter, says that he often made valua-studies in Cumberland at places are Scotch drovers halted with their le for the side cattle for the night. On such occasions he often had a chance to see illustrations of an animal's intelligence as well as of its physical perfection. One day when there was a pouring pain a man consented to sit for me at the an where I was staying. He brought were dripping wet, so he put off his plaid and laid it on the floor by the dog. I made a very successful sketch of the man, but before I had finished it the dog grew fidgety with the wet plaid, and his master said, "Tak' it awa' mon; tak' it awa'l"

The dog took the end of it between his teeth and dragged it out of the room. After I had finished the drover's portrait I asked him if he thought his dog would lie quiet for a time, as I wished to sketch him.

"Oh, yes, mon," he answered, "he'll do anything I say to him. Watch! Watch!" he called, and then "whustled" for him, as the Scotch say.

As the dog did not appear we went to-other to look for him, and found him sitting before the kitchen fire with the end of the plaid in his mouth, holding it up to dry. I expressed my admiration of his intelligence, and the master replied:

"Ah, he's a canny creature, sir! He knows a mony things, does that dog, sir. But come awa', mon; the gentleman wants to mak' your picture."

So we returned to my room, and the andsome collie sat for his portrait.-Chicago News

Mrs. Astor's Lingerie.

The cedar chests in the Astor mansion which contain the superb underwear of he queenly Mrs. Astor are perfect household ornaments in themselves, with deep engraven gold lockers with the initial "A" wrought in finest carving upon its surface. Inside the chest, neatly folded in webs of choicest linen, are the dainty garments of society's queen. Each week, as they leave the ironing sheet, they are laid within the chests to await the bidding of the owner. Every article of this superb wardrobe is stitched by hand, and no materials but the purest and lest of linens and cambrics are used. They are all elaborately trimmed with lovely point and duchesse laces, and the initial "A" is daintily embroidered on every article.

In the same orderly manner Mrs. Astor arranges her footwear, which is equally as exquisite; only the cedar chests have apartments molded in which each slipper and boot fits perfectly and keeps its shape.

By the way, Mrs. Astor has a very pretty foot for an old lady. Her ankles are small and shapely and her toes are extremely narrow. Her daughters, Mrs. Coleman Drayton and Mrs. Orme Wilson, have neither of them such pretty feet, and they are eternally envying their mother her beautiful feet and adorn-ments.-New York Cor. Opening Letters by Law.

"I noticed a short time ago," said a Washington official, "that some objec-tion was made by a Mr. Pell, of the San Domingo Shore Line road, to the open-ing of a private letter by the chief of the secret service bureau. It is not generally known that the rules of the postoffice denortment aunowar inspectors to men department empower inspectors to open suspicious letters at discretion. The public appear to be very much astonished at this proceeding mentioned, but I assure you that it is carried to a greater extent than even those who know all about it suppose. In fact, under the rules of the postoffice department almost any private letter can be opened and read. This will surprise some people, I presume, but it is nevertheless true, and a reference to the private instructions to postoffice instors, which are in printed form, will spec convince anybody of it. Whether such secret privileges are ever used illegiti-mately would be difficult to find out. It is a good deal like arresting a man on sus-picion. As a matter of fact, therefore, you will see the United States mails are no more sacred than the mails in Russia or any other country so far as govern-ment espionage is concerned."-New York Herald.

Giving Wood a Good Color.

Many hard woods of superior color and grain may be greatly improved by treatment. The graining or marking of the wood is always a beautiful feature, and it can be greatly improved and ac-centuated, if faint, by giving the entire piece one coat of raw oil, and then with a camel's hair brush going over the various lines and veinings several times. Each coat increases the color. A slight coat of varnish will help to keep the color.-New York Tribune.

women. The common afflictions of women are sick-headaches, indigestion and nervous troubles. They arise largely from stomach disorders. As Joy's Vegetable Earsaparilla is the only bowel regulating preparation, you can see why it is more effective than any other Sarssparila in those troubles. It is daily relieving hundreds. The action is mild, direct and effective. We have scores of letters from grateful women.

years ago Charles Dickens gave a read-ing in Carroll hall. Dan was on hand to look after the hall, rigged in a dress coat out of deference to the great occasion. He had forgotten the dog, but the dog was on hand.

"In one of his readings the great nov-elist came to this passage, ' "Bow-wow-wow," barked the little dog.' He gave it a realistic rendering, and almost with his words came a responsive and lifelike 'Bow-wow-wow.' There stood Dan's little yellow cur, directly in front of Chief Justice Chase, and before the great men of the nation, mocking their est. Dan dragged the dog out, terribly mortified, but Dickens said it was one of the finest compliments he ever received."-Washington Post.

No Excuse for Late Hours.

There would seem to be no excuse for the late hours which society prescribes for its ceremonies. Late evening parties for children are admitted to be injurious. But we are all children or ought to be, so far as the laws of health are concerned. We do not, as many sist, if forced into them by fashion, apon taking them out of time that ought to be given to rest of mind and body. The day must all be given to business, up to its latest available hour, and then we take from hours that should be given to sleep time for social duties.-New York Ledger.

Glacier Ice.

Glacier ice is not like the solid blue e on the surface of the water, but consts of granules joined together by an intricate network of capillary water filled fissures. In exposed sections and upon the surface of the ice can be obrved "veined" or "banded" structure a of a denser blue color alternating hose of a lighter shade containing bbles. The cause of this peculiar air mubbles. The cause of this peculiar structure has been the subject of much incoving among investigators, but hitherto the greatest authorities con-sider that the explanation of the phe-nomenon is yet wanting.—Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

The consumption of tea largely increases every year in England, Russia, and the principal Euro pean tea-drinking countries. But it does not grow in America. And not alone that, but thou-sands of Europeans who leave Europe ardent lovers of tea, upon arriving in the United States gradually discontinue its use, and finally, cease it

Itogether. This state of things is due to the fact that the Americans think so much of business and so little of their palates that they permit China and Japan to ship them their cheapest and most worthless tess. Between the wealthy classes of China and Japan and the exacting and cultivated tea-drinkers of Europe, the finer tess find a ready market, The balance of the crop comes to America. Is there any wonder, then, that our taste for tes does not appreciato? In view of these facts, is there not an im-mediate domain for the facts.

We think there is, and present Beech's Tea. Its purity is guaranteed in every respect. It has, therefore, more in-herent strength than the cheap teas you have been drinking, fully one third less being re-quired for an infusion. This you will dis-cover the first time you make it. Likewise, the flavor is delightful, being the natural fla-vor of an unadulterated article. It is a revela-tion to tea-drinkers. Sold only in packages bearing this mark:
