Fight Between Shark and Whale. On the trip to Fiji and back of the steamer Ovalau, just concluded, Cap W Cameron and his officers tain A. saw a strange encounter The steamer was going along at about ten knots in midocean, when a commotion was served in the water ahead and the body of a huge marine animal or fish, with what appeared to be great dippers, was to be seen rising and falling Captain Cameron steered direct for the stranger On approaching close the commotion was found to be caused by a whale, over thirty feet long fighting with a thrasher shark. The latter apparently was having the best of the combat, as the whale kept on the surface of the water comparatively quiet, while the shark ever and anon threw itself out of the water and brought its tail down with a terrible blow upon the whale. The Ovalau was so close to the animals, which were too much occupied to heed the vessel, that either could have been touched with a pole. The captain could not stop his ship long enough to observe the result of the conflict. - New Zealand Herald.

OPEN, TIME.

Open, Time, and let him pass Shortly where his fest would be! Like a leaf at Michaelmas oning from the tree.

Ere its hour, the manly mind Trembles in a sure decrease, Nor the body now can find Any hold on peace.

Take him, weak and overworn; Fold about his dying dream Boyhood, and the April morn, And the brawling stream.

Weather on a sunny ridge, Showery weather, far from here; Under some deep lvied bridge Water dancing clear.

Water quick to cross and part (Golden light on silvery sound), Weather that was next his heart All the world around.

Soon upon his vision break These, in their remembered blue; He shall toil no more, but wake Young, in air he knew.

He has done with roofs and men. Open, Time, and let him pass, Vague and innocent again. Into country grass! -Louise Guiney in New York Independent.

An equivocal compliment is perplexing a young man of Hallowell, Me. A fascinating girl, to whom he had been paying considerable attention, has named a pet calf after him.

Bad Blood. Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, drastic mineral "potash." The potash theory is old and obsolete. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble. It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels to health ful action, and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels. Try it and note its delightful action. Chas. Lee, at Beamish's Third and Market Streets, S. F., writes: "I took it for vitiated blood and while on the first botthe became convinced of Its merits, for I could feel it was workand everything is now working full and regula :"

Few people know that the bright bluish-green color of the ordinary teas exposed in the windows is not the natural color. Unpleasant as the fact may be, it is nevertheless artificial: mineral coloring matter being used for this purpose. The effect is two-fold. It not only makes the tes a bright, shiny green, but also permits the use of "off-color" and worthless teas, which, once under the green cloak, are readily worked off as a good quality of tea. An eminent authority writes on this subject: "The manipulation of poor teas, to give them a finer appearance, is carried on extensively. Green teas, being in this country especially popular, are produced to meet the aper black kinds by

He Can't Belleve the Court. Public Administrator Murphy filed a notice of publication of notice to creditors in the matter of the estate of Zima A. Short, the man who turned up alive a few days ago. The court also made the order that sufficient notice had been given to creditors. The fact that Short is still alive cannot stop Mr. Murphy from continuing the administration of the estate. He holds that as sufficient notice had been given of the applica-tion of letters of administration of the estate of the supposed dead man, and there being no answer or objection thereto. Short is forever stopped from appearing and asserting that he is not dead. The law has declared him dead. and dead he therefore should be.-Butte Cor. Anaconda (Mon.) Standard.

A literary man was in Boston the other day and was surprised to find a cab driver who reads Herbert Spencer. That cabman is a type here and ought not to surprise any one from New York or Phil-adelphia. If he had seen the electric car conductor who reads Dante in the original and discusses him with women of the New England club on their way to their Dante class, he would have had an emotion worth while.—Boston Tran-

A Pretty Tall Tarm. Near Olympia, Wash., is a well that is coming gradually to the surface. It is between twenty and thirty feet in depth. For some time the brick wall of the well has been protruding through the ground, until now it sticks up into the well has been protruding through the ground, until now it sticks up into the air like a funnel to the height of ten or fifteen feet. The bricks are undisturbed, and the wall is intact. The bottom of the well, too, is rising with the wall.

the information that Clement Scott, the dramatic critic of the London Telegraph, is to visit America this winter. Mr. Scott is one of the best known first nighters in the English capital. He is stout, gray haired, has a gray mustache, wears eyeglasses and is rated the best authority on the drama in England. He has many friends, but an army of enemies. He has made and unmade many playrights and actors. His dramatic column is still regarded as the standard authority, and his article is nervously awaited after the performance of a new play. His judgment is usually good. He finds a good deal of fault, but is lavish in praise for good work.

A nice paragraph from him will sometimes mean five pounds more a week on the salary of some deserving actor or actress who is little known and not appreciated, and his condemnation of a new play is usually the end of the venture. Taken all in all, he is regarded as eminently fair and just. He has never used his position to injure any one. What he has done has been from conscientious motives.

Mr. Scott is a patient student of the drama. He has the best theatrical library in England. He will be warmly welcomed in America, for he has been particularly agreeable to American actors and actresses, and many dinners and receptions will be given in his honor.-Foster Coates

Carry Flaxseeds for Cinders in the Eye One of the simplest and most effective cures for that often serious affliction to a traveler, a cinder in the eye, is that of a common flaxseed. One or two of these may be placed in the eye without injury may be placed in the eye without injury; they shortly begin to swell and erude a glutinous substance that covers the ball of the eye, enveloping any foreign sub-stance that may be in it; then seed and irritant may be washed out. Keep a dozen of these seeds in a compartment of your purse, and they may prove an invaluable accessory. — Her Point of View in New York Times.
