Miss Anna Peters & Co., 112 Second street, invites the ladies to call and inspect the latest and most complete stock of millinery goods in the city. A guest of the Umatilla house sat down to dinner last Saturday and the waiter, as usual, came forward and announced the menu, beginning with "split pea soup," but mumbled so that the guest thought it was speckled trout, "yes," said the guest, "How are they cooked; I like mine fried." "Sir," said the waiter, "we don't fry the soup." "Oh! pardon me," answered the guest,

"I thought you said speckled trout." There is another case of diphtheria in this city. This time it is the seven-yearold son of Louis Blank. The boy was at the picnic yesterday and was taken so ill on the way home that he had to be carried from the boat up to the house. He has been attending the public school and Director S. B. Adams assures the CHRONICLE that the school building will be fumigated and every precaution taken to stop the spread of the disease. If it becomes necessary to close the schools, this will be done,

It is no reflection on the hospitality of the Gesang Verein picnic to say that some of the nearly 400 excursionists got very hungry before lunch time. The air of the Mosier country is liable to make a man feel that way anyhow. This was particularly the case with Julius Fisher and Shorty Henderson, and their teeth fairly watered at the sight of a lunch basket, which they had not the courage to steal. Meeting Judd Fish they pointed out the basket and asked him to help, them out. Judd, nothing loth, picked it up, while Shorty, leading the way into the bush, said "Come on." Scarcely had they gone twenty yards when the owner of the basket met them and said "If you please, I'll take that basket. This is the second time today, it has been stolen." The feeling of the trio can be better imagined than described.

A special meeting of Columbia Alliance No. 1, will be held at Eight-mile school house on next Saturday, the 14th inst. The meeting is called for the purpose of arranging for holding a picnic in the near future and at some date to be agreed upon. A full attendance is requested. George H. Riddell, President. James B. Teller, a Crook county stockman, committed suicide in a Kansas hotel on the 24th of last month. Teller had gone there with a band of horses. Shortly after his arrival he fell in love with a widow, named Mrs. Jennie Boxwell, and got married to her. Four days after the wedding Teller was a corpse. During the temporary absence of his bride Teller had gambled away $250 of her money and not daring to face her again he took his life. HURRAH FOR HERMAN.

The Appropriation Bill Passed the Point of Danger today.

The following telegram was received by Col. N. B. Sinnott, from Representative Herman, this afternoon:

WASHINGTON, May 9 .- The river and harbor bill has just passed the house. A contract is required for the Cascade locks completion. Accept congratulations for this great victory.

The editorial fraternity, and delegates o the Washington democratic state convention at Vancouver, from Eastern Washington, have been tendered the courtesy of passes by The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company, in order that they may have an opportunity for gaining such information as may be desirable to enable them to form an intelligent idea, by personal observation, as to what the state of Oregon has done and The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company is doing, pire to the open sea. This arrangement gentleman who had received one of the whaleback souvenirs.

The second Eastern Oregon District Fair Association will hold their annual fair this year, commencing on Tuesday the 11th of October and ending on Saturday the 15th. This will be about a month later than the date on which the fair has been held for the past two years and it is, beyond question, a change that ought to make the coming fair the most successful of any yet held. The great they occurred at a time when the farmers were busy threshing, or if through with this work, were engaged in hauling grain, ordinarily, the throng of this work will be over by the time fixed for the present year. Another change has been decided on that ought also to contribute to the fair's success. No race horses will be allowed to compete for premiums, that do not belong to Eastern Oregon or to Klickitat county, Wash. These changes have been made entirely in the interest of the farmers and stock raisers of this district and we hope they will be fully appreciated.

A Good Day's Find.

Some years ago a plowman at work in Cornwall had the good fortune to strike a kind of urn and scatter a number of coins, which on examination proved to be Roman, many of them of the time of the first emperor. They were of various sizes, and generally in a state of good preservation. The man collected about 1,600 of them, and, as he was ignorant of their value, disposed of them at a penny apiece; but undoubtedly at that rate he would be well satisfied with his day's work .- London Tit-Bits.

How the Galify Lays Its Eggs. An insect known in the west as the gadfly attacks horses, laying its eggs on the animals. The horse licks itself and conveys the eggs to its stomach, where they are hatched, the worms clinging to the stomach walls. Very often they bore through the stomach and kill the horse.—Washington Letter.

THE PICNIC AT MOSIER.

An Extra Fine Day Enjoyed in an Extra Fine Way.

The number is largely increasing in America who find picnic amusements in the parks, and suburban vllas of large commercial centers, a suitable method of rest, and that this system is spreading to Oregon in the average ratio, one has but to notice the parks and subin town today on his way to the United urbs of Portland, Astoria, Salem and The Dalles, on the fine sunny Sundays of spring. Yesterday, the fast and reliable steamer Regulator, Capt. John McNulty, of The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company, made two round trips between this city and Mosier Park, thirteen miles, carrying the Gesang Verein Harmonie, and about 400 invited friends on a picnic to the matchless groves, green, grassy fields, and rippling mountain streams, for a musicale of remarkable excellence in the open air, interspersed with music of The Dalles brass band, and numerous innocent games and athletic sports. Lively scenes followed in quick succession, and the programme, which was long, varied, and of fine character, was carried out to the letter, without one unpleasant incident to mar the happy day. In the footraces, sack-races, pole climbing, etc., etc., many valuable prizes had been offered, which stimultated a good natured rivalry among the participants, young and old, and many were the practical jokes perpetrated and enjoyed, each individual being actually entertained in his or her efforts to make the event interesting to some one else, and where everybody did so well it would seem invidious on the part of the reporter to make any special letter addressed to his wife explaining allusions. "Once in several generawhy he did the deed and asking her for-giveness. He also requested that she startled by actually being entertained at one of its entertainments." Such was surely the case yesterday. Refreshments were furnished in abundance, of all kinds, and the true hospitality of all is illustrated in the case of the writer, who was so pressingly invited that refusal was impossible, and in company with five other gentlemen, joined Mr. and and Mrs. H. C. Nielsen in a bountiful meal nicely spread on the grass, in the park, under the pine trees, surrounded by at least fifty similar camps, all doing justice to the repast in hearty and social converse. The greased pig, and the men who caught it, seemed to be the only living thing on the grounds that was tired and at 6 o'clock, the last boat rule will leave the consumer liable to left for home enlivened with music and song until the whistle sounded for the wharf at the foot of Union street, where only living thing on the grounds that wharf at the foot of Union street, where the happy throng was greeted by nearly 5-6-2t. as many people who had remained "at home" for the day, and thus ended the long to be remembered Harmonie picnic.

MÖSTER PARK.

A Liberal Proposition From the Pioneer Owner.

Yesterday, as J. H. Mosier looked over the active scenes at his park, the for an open river from the Inland Em- old gentleman seemed to realize that it was a blessing to the children, and to was brought about by Mr. Linus Hub- many of the older ones, particularly tired bard, through the request of a Pomeroy mothers and fathers, to be able to so congregate in a healthful locality and recuperate their energies for continuance of the duties allotted to them with the recurrence of labor day, and thinking over the matter, he made a proposition to a representative of THE CHRONICLE, that if any reliable company would in corporate, under the laws of Oregon, and assume the responsibility, he would donate a considerable tract for the purposes of a public park, and a permanent pavilion, hotel, etc., could be erected trouble with the last two fairs was that and make of it as fine an outing resort for The Dalles, Walla Walls, Portland. and intermediate points, as can be found on the coast. THE CHRONICLE would suggest, that in case no other corporation should assume the responsibility, this being the natural home of the horse, and our people being more or less interested in fine roadsters, a gentleman's driving club could be profitably incorporated, with a capital of $10,000 to $15,-000, and by judiciously expending the money, make a drive and park combined that would eclipse anything of the kind on this continent. The subject is worthy of consideration.

Mount Hood Takes a Smoke.

All day Tuesday a steady column of smoke and steam ascended from Mt. Hood. Parties living only twelve miles from the mountain tell us the column was as plainly marked at times as the 134 Second St., next to Dalles National smoke from a chimney. It is possible the recent disturbances in California have reached the underpinning of the old volcano and stirred it up to the grumbling point. At any rate, dozens of people living in the valley noticed the steady all day smoke, and as our informant was almost at the base of the mountain, it is not probable he was mistaken .- Glacier.
