Kansas City Partly Submerged and Greatly in Danger.

SEVERAL LIVES ALREADY LOST.

Grand River 20 Miles Wide—The Mission Above the Danger Line.

THREATENED BY THE RIVER KAW.

Factories Shut Down—Depot Undermined—Acres of Wheat Land Washed Away.

KANSAS CITY, May 13.—Additional news of the damage of the flood is coming in. The Grand river is twenty miles wide at its mouth. Nearly all of Saline county is under water. Fences are carried away and railroads are washed out. At Arrow Rock, 100 miles south of here, several houses were washed away. The family of Peter Embry, numbering five, are missing, and it is believed all are drowned. James Galvin, a railroad boss, was drowned last night. Heavy rain has been falling all over the Missouri valley for the last twenty-four hours, and shows no sign of cessation. The Missouri river is nearly a foot above the danger line. Owing to a rain storm, amounting almost to a deluge, yesterday on the river above, it is expected that the water will continue to rise for some time. Harlem, a small town across the river, is flooded, but its inhabitants are all prepared. Many establishments in Kansas City are flooded, and were obliged to suspend business. In Lawrence, a heavy rain has been falling for the past twenty-four hours. The Kaw river continues to rise, and the city is almost flooded. The water is too high to run water wheels, and the factories are shut down. The Union Pacific freight depot is in danger of being undermined and thrown into the river. If an expected further rise of six feet occurs, the northern portion of the city will be flooded.

Struck by Three Tornadoes.

WICHITA, Kan., May 13.—The formation of three tornadoes struck here about 6 o'clock this evening. Two were about six miles south and another about the same distance northeast. A dispatch from Augusta, Butler county, says a northeastern twister struck there about 6 o'clock, demolishing fifteen houses and wrecking the Santa Fe stockpens. W. S. Elsworth had a leg broken and Frank Marsh was slightly injured. Nearly all the people in town saw the storm approaching and sought safety in cyclone caves, which it is thought prevented great loss of life.

The telegraph wires are down and the details are unobtainable. Towards, a few miles north of Augusta, was also visited by a tornado and half a dozen houses were demolished. Towanda was totally wiped from the face of the earth by a cyclone in March, and a number of people were killed and injured. Citizens who had courage to remain rebuilt their houses, and these buildings were blow down this evening. Inquiries at several points south of Wichita fail to reveal the track taken by the other two storms.

The Missouri Rages.

OMAHA, May 13.—The Missouri river is ten feet above low-water mark and is rising rapidly. It has cut away a hundred acres on the west bank above the city. It is within fifty feet of Florence lake, and if it should rise another foot it would break into the old channel and sweep down through to Omaha, and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage will be done. It would leave the manufacturing suburbs of Omaha on an island. At Independence much valuable farming land is under water, and all chance to raise a crop this year has gone. The river is changing its course to the south. Last night a strip over half a mile long was taken off.

Money Got the Best of Him.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 13.—John Boettcher of this city, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the breast with an old army musket. He was 72 years old. Some weeks ago he sold a farm for $3,000, and since then had carried the money in gold about his person. Every night he would retire to his room and spend hours counting his money.

Finally he became so avaricious and so afraid of his wealth being stolen that he would not associate with the members of the family, and kept to himself day and night. Boettcher learned today that coal had been discovered on the farm he had sold, and that it was now valued at $10,000. He became frenzied at the news and the thought of his lost opportunity of being rich, and finally shot himself. His $3,000 was found on his body.

Col. John McCracken Rewarded.

PORTLAND, May 14.—The treasury department has accepted the offer of Col. John McCracken, and will take his block at $180,000 as the site for the new custom house building in this city. Other bids were far below him, and the gift of a fine site in Albina, tendered by J. B. Montgomery, was rejected. Col. McCracken purchased the block which he sold to the government from Burnside & Ripley for a mere trifle in 1857. The deed to the property is dated November 12, 1857. The surrounding country was then a wilderness. The block was as far distant from town as some of the present suburbs, and many thought that Col. McCracken's speculation was not a wise one. At that time the block was covered with pine trees and brush. Col. McCracken kept the property, however, and it steadily increased in value. Burnside & Ripley, who sold the block to Col. McCracken purchased it from Capt. John H. Couch.

In 1872 Col. McCracken obtained a deed to the property from Capt. George H. Flanders and wife, and the other heirs of John H. Couch. The deed was written on a large double sheet of foolscap paper, and is almost numerously signed as a free-bridge petition. In 1880, Col. McCracken's present residence was built in the center of the block, and he has lived there ever since. In 1880 he built a large frame warehouse on the northwest corner of the block, and in 1889 two brick warehouses were built on the southeast corner. He has a large quantity of goods and merchandise stored in the warehouses, and hopes that the government will give him sufficient time to remove them.

For an Open River.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Oregon and Washington senators and representatives feel very well satisfied over the amended river and harbor bill, the bill being increased something over $1,123,000. Oregon and Washington together have $728,000 of this increase. The boat railway was a good thing for both Oregon and Washington. There is an important amendment providing for the improvement of the Columbia river, so that deepwater ships may reach Vancouver. This improvement will be a benefit to Washington. The proposed opening of the Columbia river to the international boundary line, for which $10,000 is appropriated, is also important to both states.

Kentucky Base Ball.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—At Calhoun, on Green river, on Saturday night, there occurred a drunken row over a game of base ball played at Calhoun that afternoon between the Calhoun club and the club made up of Green river raftsmen. The participants were members of the two clubs. In the melee a raftsman, a barber and a fruit-tree salesman and George Irving were shot and mortally wounded.

Horrible Accident.

WHATCOM, Wash., May 13.—Joseph Riggie was instantly killed by falling against the cut-off saw in the Decan shingle mill at 4 o'clock. The body was almost severed in twain from the right shoulder to the hip, every rib being cut off. He was standing on some shinglebolts, handling the bolts, when the pile gave way.

Telegraphic Flashes.

The tracklayers working from Kalispel, Mont., west, and from Sand Point, Idaho, east, have met. This completes 437 miles of the Pacific coast extension of the Great Northern, of which 381 miles were built in 1890 and 1891. A gap of about 45 miles remains to be completed between Sand point and Spokane.

The "Christian saloon keeper," Ed. McAvoy, one of the characters of Chicago, who, if the country had more of them, would cause the bar room to lose its curse, was adjudged insane yesterday. He has kept a bar on South Halsted street 21 years.

PENNOYER NOT IN IT.

Says He has no Political Aspirations Whatever.

HIS RECENT SPEECH AT ALBINA.

The Possibility of Throwing the Election into the House.

HIS VIEWS ARE PURE DEMOCRACY.

Wishes to See Weaver Nominated at the Omaha Convention—Fifty Talk—Etc.

PORTLAND, May 14.—Governor Pennoyer's Albina speech has caused so much comment, coupled with some speculation as to his motive, if any, that did not appear on the surface, that a Telegram reporter was detailed to interview his excellency yesterday.

After saying that "it is freely intimated that it was made as a prelude to a big scheme, the outcome of which might be your nomination for president at Omaha by the third-party convention;" the governor quickly replied: "Oh, there's nothing in that; nothing whatever, it's all moonshine; why, nobody knew till last Saturday that I was going to make that speech. No, I am not a candidate for president, or vice-president, or senator, or anything else. I am not a candidate; that speech was made with no reference to any such event. It is not a supposable case. Weaver will probably be the candidate, and he is entitled to it." "Do you think an out-and-out free-coinage man, with that the main plank in a platform not overburdened with too many others, could gain some electoral votes, and thus throw the election into the house?" "In the event of the nomination of Harrison by the republicans and Cleveland by the democrats," the governor responded promptly and emphatically, "such a man would carry the electoral votes of a number of states and be elected, because all the South would vote for him in preference to Cleveland."

"Well, governor, don't you see that the Omaha convention, seeing that in all probability you could carry Oregon in addition to all the other states that Weaver or any other candidate could, is likely to make you the nominee?"

"Oh, I don't know about that; that speech will never be heard of outside of Oregon. No," he repeated, "Weaver is doing splendid work, and I think he ought to be and will be the nominee."

The governor expressed himself freely and fully as to his political position, but did not care to be quoted further. He believes his views on the coinage question are the true and right democracy; he has no political aspirations, but is determined to stick to what he believes to be sound democratic principles.

Suit for Damages.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., May 13.—John Cureton, the young man brought here from Heppner, Or., for shooting Brake-man C. Carley in this city last month, was released today after the preliminary examination, in which the prosecution failed to secure positive evidence of his guilt. His father, a Fresno real estate agent, is here, and now threatens to bring a heavy damage suit because of the prosecution.

Perhaps a Jay from Wakefield

BRIDGETOWN, Me., May 13.—About 100 Bridgetown citizens were insured lately in the Fidelity Assurance Company of California, by a stranger who said he was S. S. Wakefield, of Jay, Me. The policies have just arrived and each contains the following clause: "This policy is and shall be in full cause and effect provided the insured shall be located not more than fifty miles north of the Gulf of Mexico." Wakefield left town a week ago.
