

The Dalles Daily Chronicle. THE DALLES - OREGON MONDAY - MAY 16, 1892

Telegraphic Flash. The anti-Harrison men are now trying to impress the people that there will be a row between vice-President Morton and the president.

The fifth attempt to elect seven representatives to the Rhode Island state legislature, who failed of election at previous trials, was held Saturday and resulted in a choice of six. All are democrats.

The Utah democratic territorial convention last Saturday elected delegates to the Chicago convention, and adopted a platform denouncing the system of government forced on Utah, by the nation, demanding home rule at once, if not statehood, and the remonetization of silver.

Miss Jessie Keene, daughter of James R. Keene, was married on Saturday to Talbot J. Taylor, of Baltimore, in New York. The bridegroom is a well-to-do Baltimore man. The wedding was a modest one, and there were no bridesmaids. A number of well-known society people were present.

A deal was closed at Sault Ste Marie Saturday, by which the Perry lumber company obtains possession of nineteen square miles of pine, spruce and cedar lands on the Canadian Indian reservation, forty miles north of the Soo. The deal involves millions, and will result in logging operations on a vast scale.

According to Saturday's primary elections, Kentucky will probably send an un instructed delegation to the national convention. The result is believed to be due to the position taken by Henry Watterson in regard to Cleveland. The instructed counties are about evenly divided between Carlisle and Cleveland. Thirty out of the fifty-nine counties so far reported have endorsed Watterson's suggestion.

A Black Cat in a Courtroom. Toward the close of the trial of M. F. Kerr, of Crawfordsville, Ind., for forgery, an incident occurred which, while amusing, demonstrated that the average American still believes in the efficacy of "signs." During a lull in the proceedings a strange black cat, with fierce, glaring eyes, appeared in the doorway, causing a solemn silence to fall over the assembly. It patted, looked about, and slowly swishing its tail to and fro advanced toward the space between the prisoner and the jury's box. The silence became oppressive, and the judge, lawyers, jurors and prisoner craned their necks and with open mouths gazed at the creature.

"Would the apparition approach the prisoner to be touched?" If so the man was innocent and would be freed. After standing as if transfixed for seconds it approached the prisoner, who with a superhuman effort stretched forth his hand and touched the glossy fur. Immediately the cat gave a joyous "meow" and disappeared. All were convinced that Kerr would go free. He was acquitted.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Real Babes in the Wood. The two pretty little children of David Wismer, of Quakertown, figured in the role of the "Babes in the Wood" a few days ago, but were rescued before the birds had occasion to cover them up with leaves. They suddenly took it in their heads, while playing in the street, to make a pilgrimage, and set out with no further preliminaries than the prince in the fairy tales. They came at last to the road at Perkasie, several miles away, but still were unwearied, and kept on their journey over the hills. Wondering farmers gaped at them as they passed.

The little ones soon struck the woods and wandered around among the trees until dusk deepened into evening, when they composed themselves complacently for slumber beneath the overhanging branches. Meanwhile the frightened father had spread the alarm and was fast on their heels. He traced his babes to the woods, where he awoke them, and took them home with him half-frozen.—Philadelphia Record.

A Curious Clock. A novel clock is now being exhibited by the Watchmakers' union in London. It is of wood, beautifully carved and stands six feet in height. The case is a perfect fort in miniature, and instead of a bell and striking hammer the hours are announced by a bugler, who emerges from a door at one side of the fort and blows the call to assemble and march.

Almost instantly doors open on all sides. A regiment of automatic soldiers, six abreast, march out, wheel to the left, stop a few seconds to "mark time," and then march through another part of the fortress to the barracks. These marches and countermarches occur each hour. If they come out to announce the hour of 1 o'clock, one soldier fires his tiny gun. At 2 o'clock two soldiers fire their pieces, increasing with the hour until the twelve leaders fire their guns, the rear ranks bowing their heads and pointing with their bayonets toward the dial of the clock.—Chicago Press.

One Regiment's Colonels. Among the strange fatalities of the year there are none more noteworthy than those surrounding the colonelcy of the Twenty-first infantry. In less than a year the regiment has suffered the loss of three colonels—Morrow, O'Beirne and Conrad. We trust that the fated three break the spell, and that Colonel Jewett will continue in command until his retirement, March 31, 1892.—Army and Navy Journal.

A New Lifeboat.

A new kind of lifeboat has been constructed to the order of the Boulogne Humane society on a model designed by one of its members. The construction of the new boat is simple and economical, and could be adapted to any sea-going rowing boat. The invention consists in the introduction of air tight copper chambers, broad at the gunwale and diminishing at the bilge, placed on the outside of the boat, where they are equally distributed, so as not to interfere with the sweep of the oars. The tops of the chambers shelve down outward, forming a smooth gunwale, ten inches broad amidships and tapering away fore and aft.

These compartments are protected from injury by a casing forming double bulwarks, inasmuch as the shape of the hull preserves perfectly its boatlike appearance. It means really a little more beam and consequently more stability. The proposed new feature does not at all affect the speed of the vessel. In addition to these compartments chambers can be fitted fore and aft. It has been usual to place the air or cork lined chambers inside lifeboats, especially on board of ships' lifeboats.

The outward application of these air cases gives greater solidity to the boat's side in the event of being staved in, and will tend to prevent accidents such as happen through people bringing their weight to bear on one side of a boat when pulling a person out of the water. A boat fitted as described has been tested with the combined weight of six persons assembled on one side. All this weight failed to overturn the boat, the water tight compartments brought into contact with the water resulting only in giving the boat a partial list and so far proving its resisting power and buoyancy. The new boat is 17 1/2 feet long, is built of elm and cost $125.—London Graphic.

Old People.

J. V. S. is the only Sarsaparilla that old or feeble people should take, as the mineral potash which is in every other Sarsaparilla that we know of, is under certain conditions known to be emaciating. J. V. S. on the contrary is purely vegetable and stimulates digestion and creates new blood, the very thing for old, delicate or broken down people. It builds them up and prolongs their lives. A case in point:

Mrs. Beiden an estimable and elderly lady of 610 Mason St., S. F. was for months declining so rapidly as to seriously alarm her family. It got so bad that she was finally afflicted with fainting spells. She writes: "While in that dangerous condition I saw some of the testimonials concerning J. V. S. and sent for a bottle. That marked the turning point. I regained my lost flesh and strength and have not felt so well in years." That was two years ago and Mrs. Beiden is well and hearty to-day, and still taking J. V. S.

A Severe Law.

The English people look more closely to the genuineness of these staples than we do. In fact, they have a law under which they make seizures and destroy adulterated products that are not what they are represented to be. Under this statute thousands of pounds of tea have been burned because of their wholesale adulteration.

Tea, by the way, is one of the most notoriously adulterated articles of commerce. Not alone are the bright, shiny green teas artificially colored, but thousands of pounds of substitutes for tea leaves are used to swell the bulk of cheap teas; ash, sloe, and willow leaves being those most commonly used. Again, sweepings from tea warehouses are colored and sold as tea. Even exhausted tea leaves gathered from the tea-houses are kept, dried, and made over and find their way into the cheap teas.

The English government attempts to stamp this out by confiscation; but no tea is too poor for us, and the result is that probably the poorest teas used by any nation are those consumed in America.

Beech's Tea is presented with the guaranty that it is uncolored and unadulterated; in fact, the stem-curo, tea leaf, pure and simple. Its purity insures superior strength, about one third less of it being required for an infusion than of the artificial teas, and its fragrance and exquisite flavor is at once apparent. It will be a revelation to you. In order that its purity and quality may be guaranteed, it is sold only in pound packages bearing this trade-mark:
