LOCAL BREVITIES.

If you want the news, You want THE CHRONICLE. If you are not a subscriber, please read this and hand in your name.

The good road builder is a bigger man than the politician. Now they are at home in Minneapolis, and futures may be considered reliable.

From yesterday morning, until this morning at 8 o'clock, the river had fallen eight-tenths of a foot. Miss Ella and May Booth of Portland, once residents of The Dalles, are visiting friends in the city.

The vote on the silver bill in the senate has been deferred until after the Minneapolis convention. Congregational prayer meeting this (Thursday) evening at Mrs. Myers' on Third street at 8 o'clock.

At the late meeting of the prohibition club in this city Mrs. Dr. Ingalls read a very instructive address which may soon be given to the public. The business of shipping fish from The Dalles by express has fallen off considerably the past week, but fruit shipments are frequent and liberal.

Mrs. J. D. Lee, on the eve of her departure for her new home in Portland, was the recipient of a testimonial from her co-laborers and friends in the W. C. T. U., assembled at the house of Mrs. S. B. Adams, which will long be cherished.

in Portland, and besides the ties which bind her to The Dalles through the sisterhood of the union, has a legion of other friends who wish her happiness in the new field.

Nature has been lavish with her endowments for the perpetuation of the beautiful in this grand and superb northwest, and it does offer good to gather an original idea descriptive of it. Such, for instance, as this, from the Frankfort Chronicle: "One more glance at the shore which we have left, and we see the house dotted hills becoming less and less distinct, and we turn our attention once more to what is going on around us, and to the thickly wooded shores of the north side of the river.

CHRONICLE BREVITIES.

Matters of Interest Reduced to Suitable Proportion. The cyclone blows furiously in Kansas, but it has not yet succeeded in lifting a single farm mortgage.

There are seven lady candidates for school superintendents on the peoples party ticket in Oregon. The counties are Multnomah, Lane, Benton, Union, Umatilla, Morrow and Douglas.

The commencement exercises of the state university in Eugene, have almost been lost sight of in the excitement of election talk. The faculty are devoting their time to preliminary arrangements and the usual interesting exercises may be expected.

Salem is preparing for a grand exhibition of roses and strawberries. As a result of last year's show thousands of new rose bushes were set out. A fine show now will make it a hundred thousand next year. Then, suggests the Journal, Salem may be called the rose city.

Anyway, we've had free and unlimited discussion of silver. Although Bill Nye, as a professional humorist, is not expected to say serious things, the following paragraph extracted from a recent article by him, fairly glistens with pearls of common sense: "Our wagon roads throughout the country are generally a disgrace to civilization, and before we undertake to supply Jaeger underwear and seal-skin covered bibles with flexible backs to the African, it might be well to put a few dollars into the relief of galled and broken down horses that have lost their health on our miserable high ways.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

Spokane Review. The Great Northern has been presented with the freedom of the city.

Eugene Guard. The mining interests of Lane county will receive considerable attention this year. There are large bodies of ore in the Blue river and Bohemia mining districts that will receive development work.

Salem Journal. While cyclones and waterspouts continue to devastate other states Oregon marches on to a grand grain and fruit crop with fine weather, no heat, no storms and abundance of the good things of earth.

Townsend Leader: The Princess rhododendron seems to be the popular state-flower. There is no more reason for choosing the red clover than to select an Irish potato blossom,—both are too common and domestic.

Pullman Press: If the absent-minded gentlemen who carried away our office towel under the impression that it was a walking-stick, will return it we will feel very grateful toward him. It is the only thing we had to drive nails with.

Enterprise. The large number of samples of ore from the new mine in Clackamas county have been assayed by the chemists at the Oswego iron works, and the average is 56 per cent of metallic iron. The Oswego mines do not exceed an average of 35 per cent iron. Next week a large quantity will be taken to the Oswego furnace, and the results of practical reduction will be observed. There is no question that the ore is very high grade.

Fourth of July.

A rousing meeting was held at the common council chamber last night, and a committee appointed to carry out the wishes of the people for a grand Fourth of July celebration in The Dalles. Both bands of the city have been engaged today, the fire department enlisted, and all plans perfected for a real big time. The whole arrangement will be consummated Saturday night, at a meeting of the executive committee.

The Dalles will have a BIG CELEBRATION. July 4th, 1892.

The Great Northern.

At 12 o'clock yesterday the first train of the Great Northern reached Spokane. It was drawn by engine 172, and stopped at the Union Pacific track in Dennis & Bradley's addition, the work of joining the Great Northern and Union Pacific tracks not being quite completed.

The Blaine Programme. A Washington dispatch yesterday says the Blaine men have arranged a programme, which is calculated to capture the Minneapolis convention. It may be that Blaine's name will be presented, but this is not essential to the scheme. An earnest effort will be made in the committee on credentials to have the anti-administration delegation from Alabama recognized, in which case its leader, who has a resonant voice will rise, when the first ballot is called, and with a flourish of words, will cast the vote of his delegation for Blaine.

The Arkansas delegation has already been seen, and while it is not certain that its entire membership will vote for Blaine, there will be enough votes to keep the ball rolling. The votes in the delegation will be divided about equally among Harrison, Alger and Blaine. Then will come California. Senator Felton, a delegate-at-large, and the entire delegation will vote for Blaine. When California has cast its vote for Blaine it will be followed by Colorado, which delegation will also be solid for Blaine. By this time, to repeat the expression a senator used today. "It is expected that the team will have a runaway. It is not expected that anybody will try to stop it, but on the contrary there will be wild excitement to make the runaway fly faster."

Canine Sagacity.

Mr. O. D. Everson of this place has a handsome dog that delights in the name of Bushwhacker, and from all accounts this same Bushwhacker possesses a wonderful amount of sagacity. Mr. Everson's mother resides in Bryantville, about eight miles from this place, and a few weeks ago she was surprised to see Bushwhacker at the door whining to come in. Upon opening the door the dog began to bark and appeared to have something on his mind.

He was told to lie down, but although he had traveled so far, the dog evidently preferred to stand up, and not until a note was found under his collar did Bushwhacker manifest any desire to rest. The place where the lady resides is quite a distance from the postoffice, so that the dog acts as letter carrier, making the trip of eight miles every day in the week.

Bushwhacker is a great dog for rabbits, but a whole army of the stubtailed rodents might cross his path when he is on the road with the mail and his attention would not be detracted from his work. He is a faithful carrier, and if the return letter is not ready when he thinks it should be he will start without it, covering the distance from Bryantville to this town at a better rate of speed than the majority of horses.—Brookton Enterprise.

Stylographic Ink.

Not every one knows the difference between stylographic ink and ordinary black ink. The stylographic ink is strained, so that all the minute particles which are found in ordinary ink are removed and it will flow freely through the point of the pen in which it is used. This process of straining also renders it valuable in households where careless people are likely to spill ink, and where children go away to school in white aprons, too often returning from their writing lessons ink begrimed. Stylographic ink will wash out without difficulty in clear cold water. It is the minute particles of matter in unstrained ink which become clogged in the fiber of cloth and which render a stain from it practically indelible.

There are a great many kinds of stylographic ink, but we believe they all possess this excellent quality of washing out if taken care of at once. Certainly the first bleaching will bring out all remnants of the stain in white goods.—New York Tribune.
