SUNDAY AT THE FAIR.

The Authorities Have Already Forestalled the Nation.

A CONDITION, NOT A THEORY.

The Old Hudson Bay Steamer Beaver to go to Chicago.

SERIOUS CHARGES ON NURSES.

Flood in Michigan—Forest Fire in New Jersey—Another Levee Broken Other News.

CHICAGO, June 3.—It would be just as well for those persons—and there are hundreds of thousands of them in the United States; who are trying to bring about the closing of the world's fair on Sunday to bear in mind that the very thing against which they protest is now in full operation. The gates of the world's fair are open every Sunday, and hundreds of sight-seers go to it, they being admitted readily on payment of the established fee. The world's fair directors have thus decided the matter of Sunday opening while the whole country, represented by congress, by great religious gatherings and many other influential bodies, is still debating the matter. It may well be asked: Are the world's fair authorities justified in forestalling the judgment of the nation in this matter? There is little real difference between the present arrangement at Jackson park and that which will be in force if the fully erected enterprise shall be thrown open to visitors on Sundays a year hence. Because of this action of the directors the question now under debate by the whole nation is not, "Shall the world's fair be open on Sunday?" but, "Shall the present condition of Sunday sight-seeing at Jackson Park be changed after the formal opening of the world's fair?" The world's fair is open on Sunday. It is a condition, not a theory, that confronts us.

The Pioneer Steamer Beaver.
ALBANY, N. Y., June 3.—Robert H. Benedict, of Victoria, B. C., is in Albany trying to form a company for transportation to Chicago of the first steamer that entered the Pacific ocean around Cape Horn. He feels confident of the success of his project. Benedict is one of the owners of the famous steamer, the Beaver, the first of her kind to leave England, brave the dangers of the cape and sail into the Pacific. This was in 1835. All her original machinery and the live oak timbers of her hull are as sound as the day the steamer passed out of the builder's hands. Only one person who came on the Beaver's maiden trip now lives.

Hospital Scandals.
CINCINNATI, O., June 2.—There is a big sensation here over the death yesterday of a prominent citizen at the city hospital, having bled to death unattended. Last night, too, a patient at the hospital committed suicide, leaving a note saying death was preferable to the abuse of the nurses. Charges have been made for some time past in the public press against this hospital, alleging negligence, incompetency and immorality. The principal charge was against Miss Murray, of Philadelphia, in charge of the trained nurses' department. The superintendent was recently dismissed on this account.

A Forest Fire.
MAY'S LANDING, N. J., June 2.—A forest fire started in the woods between this place and Egg Harbor early yesterday morning, and burned fiercely in a valuable tract of timber all day. About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon it was carried within one mile of Hammonton. A large force of men fought it all day with little success, and last night it destroyed hundreds of acres of timber every hour. It was turned off from Hammonton by back-firing and plowing the ground on all sides of the town, but it is now burning so fiercely that there is great fear of the place being destroyed.

Michigan in the Swim.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 2.—The worst storm ever experienced here occurred last night. It was a regular cloudburst. Crops were destroyed for miles around, and the track of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road was washed out for three miles.

Storms and Cyclones.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Advices give further details of the loss of life and the destruction of property by storms and cyclones in the southwest. Lott, Tex., reports a cyclone near Durango, which caused the greatest havoc, sweeping everything before it, over a space of a quarter of a mile wide and several miles long. Houses were utterly demolished. Many people escaped injury by entering cyclone cellars, but five or six are known to be killed, and a number were injured, some fatally. The effects of the rain storms which have prevailed since Monday throughout Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Indian territory, and which continue in many places are becoming evident in the rising rivers. All streams in this territory are rising rapidly, and promise to exceed the high stage of water recently recorded, where it is not already exceeded. Enormous damage has been already done, and much greater is in prospect. The damage by rain and wind in the neighborhood of Texas has been estimated at $500,000.

Getting Ready.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 3.—Preparations for the interesting affair next Tuesday are going on apace, the managers having fully fixed upon the programme of the inaugural ceremonies. The new convention hall will be filled to the doors with delegates and visitors. There will be music by a brass band and a chorus of 1,500 voices will sing such patriotic music as cannot be construed into reflecting partisan feeling. The addresses will be delivered by Maj. McKinley, the energetic tariff-lifter, and Mr. Depew. There is a distinctly festive character about all this. The day to follow will be one of toil and voting and of anxious delegates growing hoarse with shouting. People throughout the country will be hiving around bulletin boards and jostling each other over tickers. But the eve of the combat will be as festive and joyous as a carnival. This is pleasant. Even busy Mr. Harrison, down there at Washington, will feel some polite interest in the proceedings that are to follow.

Not Lawfully Detained.

LANSING, Mich., June 3.—The Supreme court has filed an opinion reversing the conviction and ordering the discharge of Aaron W. Hamaker, who was recently convicted in the Jackson Circuit court of attempting to aid a convict to escape from prison. The statute makes it a crime to aid in the escape of a prisoner who was lawfully detained, and the court held that the information did not show that Donovan, the prisoner whose escape Hamaker attempted to aid, was convicted of any offense known to the law and therefore that he was not lawfully detained. Donovan is doing a ten years' sentence, having been convicted in Ogemaw county 1887 of the crime of entering a saloon in the night with intent to commit robbery. This, the court says, is not a crime known to the law, as no breaking was charged. Under this state of facts Donovan will experience but little difficulty in securing his liberty also.

Sidney Dillon's Illness.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Sidney Dillon, president of the Union Pacific railway, who lies critically ill at his residence in West Fifty-seventh street, continues to grow gradually weaker. He is greatly emaciated and cannot even turn in his bed without assistance. The only nourishment which he takes is a preparation of fermented milk, but how much of its nutritive quality is assimilated the attending physicians are unable to determine. Both the nerve and muscular forces of the patient are daily becoming diminished. His mind remains clear, but he does not speak of business matters. It is eleven weeks today since Mr. Dillon was last down town, and for five weeks he has been confined to his bed.

Another Levee Broken.

NEW ORLEANS, June 2.—A crevasse occurred this morning in the levee at Weber's landing. It is 25 feet wide, and threatens the Texas Pacific road.

Two townships of land near Astoria are now open to settlement. Its development will result in great benefit to the seaport city.

A Canoeist Drowned.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., June 2.—Commodore C. F. Weeks, of the Brooklyn Canoe Club, was drowned yesterday while attempting to shoot a dam across the Delaware river at Lakawaxen, Pa.

SNAKES IN THE TREES.

Effect of the Recent Flood in Portions of Illinois.

FISH AND SNAKE STORIES.

Reptiles Driven to High Lands and Take Refuge in Willows.

HUNTERS HORRIFIED TO FIND THEM

Pastures Filled With Fish Which the Farmers Gather by the Basket Full—Minor Mention.

MACOMB, Ill., June 3.—William Barker, manager of the electric light and gas plant of this city, together with several companions, has just returned from a hunting and fishing trip to Crooked creek in the vicinity of Colmar. The entire region around Colmar, a way station on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad between Quincy and Galesburg, is one sea of water. The water stood several feet high around a line of willows which had been set out for a fence. Barker and his companions got into a boat and rowed up around the trees in hopes of finding some sort of game, when they were horrified to see a huge snake drop into the boat. The reptile was quickly dispatched, when the boys discovered that the trees above them were literally alive with snakes; a mass of hissing, writhing reptiles, consisting of water moccasins, rattlers and many other varieties. The thoroughly frightened men began a fusillade with their guns and in a short time they had killed over one hundred big snakes. Some of them were monsters. The high water has driven hundreds of these reptiles into the surrounding country. The fish stories that now pour in from this neck of the woods are equally marvelous. One farmer found his pasture full of buffalo fish one morning and gathered a bushel-basket full. Another native captured a huge cat-fish that weighed over one hundred pounds. Fishing is all the go. The small streams are full of the choicest kinds of fish.

A Canadian Cruiser.

OTTAWA, June 3.—The protest of the United States government against Canada constructing a revenue cutter for service on the upper lakes has been of little avail, and the keel of the vessel which is to be of steel throughout, is now being laid at Owen sound, on the Georgian bay. The objection from Washington was based on the agreement of 1817 between Great Britain and the United States, one of the clauses of which prohibited either country from building a "vessel of war" on the lakes. It has been discovered, however, that this agreement was abrogated by Secretary Seward in 1865, and consequently the Canadian government will construct the cruiser. Even had the treaty been in force this government would have resented United States interference, as the new vessel is simply being built for revenue purposes and the United States, it appears, has at the present time four vessels of this class on the lake, viz: One each at Oswego, Detroit, Erie and Milwaukee.

A Lake Steamer Sunk.

DETROIT, June 2.—The steamers Britain and Progress, both of Cleveland, collided this morning at the mouth of the Detroit river. The Progress sank immediately, but the crew was rescued with difficulty. The Britain was comparatively uninjured.

Commodore C. F. Weeks.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., June 2.—Commodore C. F. Weeks, of the Brooklyn Canoe Club, was drowned yesterday while attempting to shoot a dam across the Delaware river at Lakawaxen, Pa.
