The Lewiston Teller thinks it is "high time" that the people of that section should use every endeavor to secure the opening of the Nez Perce reservation. The allotment will be finished this year and by the time congress could take action in the matter it will all be completed ready for a disposal of the remainder to actual settlers. Speculators are watching for the opening, settlers are watching the event and railroads are on the alert. The reservation is the key to the stimulation, and now that the allotment will soon be in shape to finish the work, it is to the interest of Lewiston in particular to see that something is done immediately toward pressing the matter upon the attention of congress.

The Heppner Gazette devotes a page of its last issue to the Hardman country: For years the region described was the greatest stock range in the west, but some twelve or fifteen years ago a number of hardy pioneers ventured into these fields for the purpose of building stand with their bases toward the cen-homes. PRESENCE OF MIND.

How a Man Who Had It Profited by the Scheme of One Who Hadn't It. Presence of mind and bravery in the face of peril was being discussed in the office of W. R. Busenbark, general manager of the Maple Leaf route. The capsizing of a yacht off the lake front the listening to the thrilling experiences which each of the group present related -and somehow on the occasion of an $6 00 exceptional accident people are prone to talk thrillingly of what they have passed through themselves-Mr. Busenbark told a story.

He did not need to call our fancy to his aid to give interest to his tale. He had been the central figure in the well remembered burning of the Newhall hotel, in Milwaukee, being the only person above the second floor who did not perish in the terrible fire.

Referring to the manner in which he escaped, he said he owed his life to the fact that a man who was burned to ashes in the flames the same night told him how he would try to save his life in case

"This is how it was, boys," said Mr. Busenbark. "I got orders from my road to meet one of our agents named Ware, who was to be transferred from Detroit house by Mr. Bryan, of Nebraska, and to Milwaukee, and introduce him to our patrons in the Cream City. I joined him here in Chicago, and we went to by the ways and means committee, is a Milwaukee together. It was the day of bill to amend the act to protect trade the Newhall hotel fire. Yes, it was Ware; and what court shall find in a case pending before started him on the subject was the fact limitation and mutual consent. that he had witnessed a big fire in the Western Union building at Detroit, at which five lives were lost. 'Isn't it curimerce, exists in respect to any article ous, Busenbark, said Ware to me, how common sense will desert a man in the report the facts to the president, who hour of danger? I saw the big fire in Detroit.

"'A number of operators could be seen standing helplessly and in wild despair at the windows of the Western Union building. There was a perfect network of telegraph wires within after the date fixed in the proclamation twenty feet of them, by jumping on which they might have saved their ported into the United States subject to lives. But they didn't jump and they telegraph wires as a means of escape for the poor fellows did not occur to me until after all was over.'

"That evening, after arriving at Milwankee, we went to the theater. I reroom. When I was awakened by the heat and stifling smoke I pulled Ware out of bed, and the poor fellow dashed stood for fully half a minute, dazed and bewildered. Right under the window was a network of telegraph wires. Poor Ware's story of the Detroit incident

Effective Use of English.

No accomplishment excels a thorough mastery of English. Those who have 6-2tf Chronicle office, The Dalles. acquired it are the most cultivated and scholarly men and women of our age. noticed, for it has a certain subtle quality like the delicate odor of roses. On reading or listening to the best English 5-2tf we never think of the form of expression, and not till afterward, when the clearness of our conception reveals itself, do we notice the beauty and the appropriateness of the language. To use English appropriately, elegantly and forcibly implies not only a thorough knowledge of the language itself, but also a broad culture. It implies both connected, logical thought and the ability to clothe the thought grammatically, rhetorically and connectedly in fit language. A style as massive and majestic as that of Burke or Macaulay renders any man immortal. The grace of Irving and the copious fluency of Scott fascinate the reader; and the power to write with the eloquence of Mr. George William Curtis, President Eliot or Colonel Higginson would recon-cile almost, anybody to being a Mugwump.-Education.

The Face of a Clock.

An excellent way to test a man's powers of observation is to ask him to draw the dial of a clock. Most persons set down IV for four, instead of the four straight lines usual on dials, and few remember that all the letters of the diar persons ordinarily read a clock dial by the position of the figures and disregard

One of the best known public dials in a provincial town has no mark save a Anna Dickinson thinks she ought to have $5,000 for services rendered the republican national committee in the campaign of 1888, and has sued the committee for that amount. It is in evidence that she actually received $3,750 of the fat which was fried out of the manufacturers, and gentle Anna ought to be well satisfied with that. If the value of the straight line at each of the places usually occupied by the Roman numerals, and the maker of the great clock of the maker of th straight line at each of the places usually

NEW TO-DAY.

To THE PUBLIC.—It having come to our knowledge that a party in The Dalles in selling lime has made the assertion that he charges more for other brands than the "Oregon" because they have better thereby innlying that the are better, thereby implying that the "Oregon" is an inferior article, we desire to state that the "Oregon" is the strongest lime on the market; that it will work more plastic and leave the work when set stronger and firmer than anyother lime at present manufactured in either Oregon or Washington. Wm. Butler& Co., Agents at The Dalles for the "Oregon" lime, are instructed to furnish, free of charge, any and all Oregon lime, which does not fully come up to the stipulations above set forth. The object of this notice is solely to defend our goods against the false imputations and statements of any person whatsoever. The Or. Marble and Lime Company, by
