STATE OFFICIALS: Governor S. Penoyer, Secretary of State G. W. McBride, Treasurer Philip Metcahan, Supt. of Public Instruction E. B. McElroy, etc.

COUNTY OFFICIALS: County Judge C. N. Thornbury, Sheriff D. L. Gates, Clerk J. B. Crossen, Treasurer Geo. Ruch, Commissioners H. A. Leavens, Frank Kincaid, John E. Barnett, Assessor E. F. Sharp, Surveyor Troy Shelley, Superintendent of Public Schools William Mitchell.

Every true friend of Ireland and her cause will rejoice to know that the earnest efforts to restore harmony in the divided forces of those who should stand as one man for the land's advancement bid fair, at last to be successful. No man better represents the feeling with which the present situation of politics in Great Britain is viewed by Irish Americans generally than Hon. P. A. Collins, who, with characteristic zeal and devotion, is doing yeoman's service in Dublin for the attainment and maintenance of unity. No man realizes more clearly that if this be absent the advocates of no cause, however noble, can hope to win success. Whether the new parliamentary elections shall be held in June or next autumn, or deferred until another year, the duty of the friends of home rule in Ireland and throughout Great Britain is equally plain, unmistakable and urgent. They must forget all bickerings that belong to the past, and set aside every personal ambition that stands in the way of that coming together which, for the sake of a multitude of interests, is so imperatively called for. The sooner dissensions are healed the nearer will be the hour of triumph. Once united at home, the friends of the cause beyond the seas will rally enthusiastically and generously to their support. They have the best right to demand and insist that this union of hearts and hands for the menaced welfare of "the old dart" shall be delayed no longer.

The president is a man of ready wit. While on his way to Rochester, where he spoke on Memorial day, he made a brief address at a little town called Watkins. He was introduced by an ex-postmaster, who named him, with a great flourish, "William Henry Harrison." The president turned the mistake happily with the following remark: "Some caustic joker, satirizing that pride of family which characterizes the Old Dominion, said the families of that state reminded him of the potato plant, the best part being underground."

Cyclones that carry off loaded freight cars and lifts horses skyward must be padded with pretty solid material. The destruction wrought by these multiplying terrors is becoming a heavy item of loss on the nation's ledger.

The silver-tongued orator of Gotham has had the distinguished honor of having a boom town in his own state named after him. Prosperity to the new borough of Depew, near bustling Buffalo!

There is a plebeian plainness about the names Jim and Dave Hill. But there's a powerful difference between the men.

WORK OF A SPLENETIC.

A Misrepresentation of The Dalles Boomerang.

Dr. Cornell's mission to this city from Saginaw, Michigan, has been for the sole purpose of satisfying himself respecting the truthfulness of a letter received from some enemy of The Dalles unknown to us, to the effect that "there is no good agricultural land within fifteen miles of Grand Dalles, or within forty miles of The Dalles." Such letters have the desired effect of the writers: They help to kill The Dalles, is what Dr. Cornell thinks, now that he has come out here, and has seen for himself. We are very glad that he came; and if any more intelligent people in the east receive such advice as his from The Dalles, we hope they may follow the precedent he has established. We hope the writer of the letter which brought Dr. Cornell out here, if he lives in The Dalles, or within forty miles of here, will call upon him while he is here, and make confession of his ignorance respecting the resources of this vicinity. If not, may the good Lord in his providence kindly remove him from our midst. As Dr. Cornell, and other visitors say: The Dalles ought to have a present population of 30,000 at least, and with proper development of possible local industries should readily surpass any community in the Pacific Northwest inside of five years. This is the talk we have from strangers, to whom we should throw open the gates of our city with a welcome loudly accented, instead of barring them out by splenetic, jealous and audacious misstatements.

A WOMAN AND A DEER

A REMARKABLE CAPTURE ON PINE RIVER IN MICHIGAN.

Mrs. John Towle, of Strongville, Has Had a Really Thrilling Experience in Her Life—This Story Shows That She Not Only Has Nerve but Strength.

One of the best known characters to the lumbermen and sportsmen of upper Michigan is Mrs. John Towle, of Strongville, a small deserted village on the Pine river, twelve miles below Rudyard, a station on the Soo railway thirty miles from here. Her home and name have become famous to the woodsmen and lumbermen on account of Mrs. Towle keeping a boarding house, where the woodsmen engaged on the drive in the spring have always stopped for their meals, it being the only house on Pine river for a distance of ten miles on each side of Strongville.

Mrs. Towle came to this country from Aalborg, Denmark, twenty years ago, and first settled down in Newport, Vt. She was called to attend her present husband, who was confined with a broken shoulder, after the doctors had given him up. She mended him in such good shape that Mr. Towle decided that she was the woman of his destiny, whereupon they were married and started for the wild upper peninsula of Michigan to make their home and fortune. Taking a homestead near the banks of the Pine river, Mrs. Towle has occasion to come to this city once about every two months with the produce of the farm and dairy. In the winter she can drive in, but in the summer there is no other way but to take a boat and row up the Pine river twelve miles to Rudyard station, where she can take the train for this point.

It is with one of those trips that this narrative has to deal. Mrs. Towle had left home with a boatload of produce as usual, and came to town with good success. On her return trip she was leisurely rowing home down the Pine river, with its high and very thickly wooded banks in some places, and sloping, moss covered banks in others. She had not gone far when she heard a rustling sound above her.

"OUT OF THE FRYING PAN," ETC. On looking up she perceived a large deer standing on the edge of the precipice about fifty feet up, screaming, with a wolf hanging on its front quarter. The deer immediately jumped for the river, landing close to the shore, but the wolf still held its grip. It might be noted here that deer when attacked by wolves in this country will always make for the nearest river, as wolves will not go into the water unless they have a hold on their prey. The deer had no sooner left the ground to jump when two more wolves jumped down after him, followed by ten more. One of the wolves managed to secure a grip on the deer's hind quarters and took a chunk out the size of a saucer.

The deer, now thoroughly frightened and excited, on seeing Mrs. Towle in the boat started for the boat. The water not being very high it managed to get its fore feet into the craft, with the two wolves still hanging on. Mrs. Towle, although half scared to death, did not lose her presence of mind, but seizing her paddle struck the two wolves such blows on their heads that they released their hold and took to the shore, while the boat continued to drift down the river with the current. The wolves seeing this gave up hope and returned into the woods.

Mrs. Towle, now that the wolves were gone, found about enough of the sportsman left in her to have a desire to secure the deer. She raised her paddle and struck it a blow between the horns, which was not a very light one, by the way, as Mrs. Towle has always been used to the harder working side of life and is of strong physique. The blow stunned the deer for a few moments, and Mrs. Towle, thinking it was dead, started her craft for shore to place the deer in position to row the boat home with him.

MR. TOWLE FINDS THE DEER. When she reached the shore and was about swinging the deer around by the tail the deer came to and started up the high bank, with Mrs. Towle hanging on to its tail. The deer succeeded in getting about half way up the bank when the skin on its tail, which Mrs. Towle was hanging on to, gave way and precipitated Mrs. Towle down the bank headforemost.

The deer by this time had become so weak from the loss of blood from the wolves' attack that it slipped and fell down the bank, landing on Mrs. Towle. She, thinking the wolves were after it again, nearly went into hysterics. The deer, however, on striking terra firma never moved again, and Mrs. Towle proceeded to load him in her craft and get home. She got him aboard, and after capsizing a couple of times reached her small dock, made of logs, in safety. Her home is three miles back in the woods from the river bank. She was obliged to leave the deer on the bank all night, it now being dusk.

In the morning, when Mr. Towle, her husband, went down for the deer with his pony and jumper, he was surprised to find a bear there munching away at the deer. The bear, on seeing the man started for the woods. Bears will only show fight in the spring. Mr. Towle got the deer safely home, and it would be difficult to find a more interesting story to listen to than that of Mrs. Towle, sitting in her log cabin in front of the old log fire, telling her story in broken English of how she captured the deer.—Sault Ste. Marie Cos. St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Want Pay for Alleged Services. An old man named Taylor from Chicago has asked several congresses for $10,000 in payment for having suggested to President Lincoln the idea of issuing greenbacks. Colonel de Arnaud has made repeated demands for $30,000, which he considers is due him for showing General Grant how to capture the town of Paducah, Ky.—Washington Letter.

A Pointer. "I am very much pleased with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says H. M. Bangs, the druggist at Chatsworth, Ill. "During the epidemic of la grippe here it took the lead and was very much better liked than other cough medicines." The grip requires precisely the same treatment as a very severe cold, for which this remedy is so efficient. It will promptly loosen a cold and relieve the lungs, soon effecting a permanent cure, while most other medicines in common use for colds only give temporary relief. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w

Rheumatism Cured in Three Days. Miss Grace Littlejohn is a little girl, aged eleven years, residing in Baltimore, Ohio. Read what she says: "I was troubled with rheumatism for two years, but could get nothing to do me any good. I was so helpless that I had to be carried like a babe when I was advised to get a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I got it from our druggists, Mr. J. A. Kumber, and in three days I was up and walking around. I have not felt any return of it since and my limbs are limber as they ever were." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w

NEW TO-DAY.

TO THE PUBLIC.—It having come to our knowledge that a party in The Dalles in selling lime has made the assertion that he charges more for other brands than the "Oregon" because they are better, thereby implying that the "Oregon" is an inferior article, we desire to state that the "Oregon" is the strongest lime on the market, that it will work more plastic and leave the work when set stronger and firmer than any other lime at present manufactured in either Oregon or Washington. Wm. Butler & Co., Agents at The Dalles for the "Oregon" lime, are instructed to furnish, free of charge, any and all Oregon lime, which does not fully come up to the stipulations above set forth. The object of this notice is solely to defend our goods against the false imputations and statements of any person whatsoever. The Or. Marble and Lime Company, by T. F. OSBORN, General Agt. 5-24dlm
