Bore your wells, but give us The Dalles water, every time.

A. J. Dufur, jr., of Dufur is running a cheese factory on his ranch on Fifteen mile. He turns out two cheeses a day that saigh about 20 pounds each. They are indicream and ought to be good, as Mr. Dufur is an old, experienced cheese maker, having run a cheese factory many years ago on the Columbia bottom, convenient to what is now known as Clarno station, on the old Dufur homestead, and there was made the first cheese ever manufactured in Oregon. Mr. Dufur tomorrow morning, instead of seven. will not place any of his cheese on the Round trip to the Cascades fifty cents. market till about the last of July.

Dr. Hollister was pleasantly surprised few days ago by discovering, betw the leaves of an old medical book that used to belong to his father who was a physician, a satin badge of the stirring days of 1844 when Henry Clay was the idol of the people but could never reach the coveted goal of the presidency. The top of the badge has the legent "Clay now, Polk never." On a shield below the legend, and above the picture of Clay are the words, "He protects our labor" which reminds one that the contest between free trade and protection had occupied the attention of politicians years before the republican party came into existence. Below the picture are the words "A nations choice," Theodore Freylinghuysen of New Jersey, the farmer of Ashland.

The Oregonian of today says: "The returns are still far from satisfactory, but enough is known to be almost certain who has been elected. ED. CHRONICLE: It does not often fall to the lot of man to chronicle any death more sad than that of one of our neighbors and friends being drowned. Mr. Angus Byers was fated, so it seems, in this way to meet his death—drowned at Celilo Falls Oregon, June 4, 1892, between the hours of ten and eleven a. m. No human aid could save him. It is said that never any one has been rescued Cates' residence. who has ever been so unfortunate as to fall in that part of the ever-to-be-dreaded and treacherous for more than a mile that no boat could weather the waving, foaming, boiling, turbulant current.

knew him. He was a hard working, Horses to stand about 15 to 16 hands get on well and make a home for the wife and baby boy whom he loved so dearly. He was as kind and loving a man in his family as I ever saw anywhere. He and his little family came here since the great fire of last September from Spokane Falls, at which place he was an honored member of good work when others could not. He expected to be at home with wife and baby that Saturday afternoon at four o'clock and Mrs. Byers expected him, and had made everything cheerful and pleasant for his home-coming when the dreadful news came that he was forever snatched dawlm from her sight. No one but those who have experienced a like trial can realize what a terrible blow it is to the young
