Chicago smoked hams are the best in the world. They are cured in the open air.

The sprayer now being used in Puyallup hop fields will spray two rows of hops at once, and one man can spray six acres of hops in one day. It is said the pests are fast being exterminated in that section.

We will know next week something about the "luxury" of the Australian ballot law, as the county court will be then called upon to foot the bills. In Portland the account stands $1,500 for the Australian ballot law election, against $60 for the plain old style. As councilman Fleidner remarked. "These imported goods come high, but we must have 'em."

James Lotan has been appointed collector of customs at Portland. His appointment was confirmed by the senate yesterday. Mr. Lotan is a native of New York, aged about fifty years, and is one of the most energetic business men of the consolidated city. His appointment will give general satisfaction after the first breeze of disappointment blow over. Twenty-five men could not be appointed to the one position.

Hon. John W. Foster of Indiana, has been appointed secretary of state by President Harrison. He was sent as United States minister to Mexico by Grant in 1873, and was re-appointed by Hayes in 1880. In March of that year he was transferred to Russia, and held that mission until November, 1881, when he resigned. President Arthur then appointed him minister to Spain. He served from February, 1883, to March, 1885, when he resigned and returned to the United States, having negotiated an important commercial treaty with Spain.

No little interest attaches to the position of the Rev. Dr. Gifford on the question of the relation of the church to the workmen. Dr. Gifford argues that the church should put itself into closer touch with the masses—that the barriers between the church and workmen should come down. The workman has come to be something more than merely the man who works. He has become individually and collectively the adherent of certain doctrines—the upholder of well-defined ideas. Almost uniformly the general demands of the workmen are just. If they are not just they are conceived and made in a spirit of justice. The trend and development of the ideas of workmen are too often warped by agitators and schemers. When they are misdirected they become harmful. For the church to step in and, as Dr. Gifford suggests, put itself in touch with the workmen would be not to create, but to direct, the swift-rising flood of labor ideas.

A few months ago Benjamin P. Hutchinson, better known as old Hutch, was the recognized King of the wheat pit at Chicago. The price of our staple food and export cereal depended upon his combinations. The fortunes of thousands were the playthings of his speculators. He was regarded with something of awe as an operator whose skill, pluck and luck were invincible. He was a great speculative genius in the public estimation. By and by things took a turn. Old Hutch got on the wrong side of the market. He went up like a rocket and came down like the stick. The latest news of him after a long chapter of eccentricities is that he is running a little establishment in New York which seems to be wavering in its development as between a cheap restaurant, a whisky saloon, a junk shop and a mission. Here Old Hutch eats, sleeps and does his own washing on the premises, and talks semi-religious and philosophic nonsense to the boys and men who besiege the place out of curiosity. Now he is said to be crazy; but was he not also crazy when speculating in wheat? His successes meant misery and want to many poor, and he knew it. The desire to obtain unlimited wealth was a mania, and his present antics are but the logical outcome of a diseased mind.

Wanted to See the Soldiers.

A wealthy New York lady who has traveled much abroad, but who knows very little about her own country, was in Washington a few days ago for the first time. She was taken to the White House by an influential friend, and through his intercession the private apartments of the house were opened up to her, and she had an exceptional opportunity to inspect the numerous beauties of the dignified but modest mansion. As she was being helped into her carriage on departing, a shade of disappointment was detected in her face.

"Well, what do you think of it?" her friend inquired.

"I must confess to a very keen disappointment," was the reply. "The rooms are all very prettily decorated, and some of them are dignified and impressive, but I am sorry not to have seen the military."

It appeared on further inquiry that this un-Americanized New Yorker had fully expected to find the president's mansion surrounded by a military guard in full uniform, and she was vehement in her assertions that the German way was "ever so much better than ours."—New York Recorder.

Man's Duty to Man.

The father may think to hide certain parts of his character from his child, not wishing him to imitate them, and may give him precepts that he has never followed, but the child absorbs what he fancies is concealed and forgets the words which contradict it. Commands and exhortations may produce or restrain certain acts, but they are powerless to inspire emotions or create desires. Often they have a reverse effect.

To give every one his due, to refrain from taking unfair advantage, or in any way enriching one's self at the expense of another, are supposed to be duties which are simply to be inculcated and obeyed, yet how is the desire of gain, so intense in many minds, to be made to yield when it conflicts with these duties? Chiefly by crediting within the breast a stronger desire for justice and integrity. The love of rectitude, the faith in honor, the desire to deal fairly and squarely with all men, must be aroused and strengthened before any one can be thoroughly and truly just. And the same is true with regard to every good quality.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Dear Innocents.

Some Detroit ladies, not more than a thousand miles from a barrel of salt in front of a Woodward avenue grocery store, recently organized a debating club for the development and benefit of the rights of women. It was their first experience, the dear things, so they appointed a committee to go down town and get the needed stationery, etc. When the polite and affable clerk had about finished selecting the articles they had put down in a memorandum book, he inquired of the spokeswoman of the party:

"You will want a 'Cushing's Manual,' won't you?"

"A what?" she asked sharply.

"A 'Cushing's Manual,' madam," he answered, moving out of range.

"No, sir," she said, with severity, "this society is exclusively for ladies, and if we want anything at all in that line it will be a womanal sir. How much do we owe you?"

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w
