The firemen of the East End were made happy today by the arrival of their new hose cart from St. Paul. It will be used in the tournament on the 4th.

The city blacksmith shop of Gunning & Hockman, and the city wagon shop of A. Sandrock, are both busy today, yesterday and tomorrow. See advertisements new today.

The Examiner should revise its Exchange list, if it wants Al. Snyder to have the joy of perusing its sunny scintillations exuberantly, as the Transcriber is published in Dallas, Polk county, Or.

Mr. C. J. Trenchard telegraphed chief engineer Fish today that in the event of holding the annual tournament here next September, not less than thirty companies might be expected to participate.

Every community has a certain number of doubting Thomases who are never satisfied, but there is not in The Dalles a single member of that family. There was one once, but somebody said seat; and that ended it.

The down freight this forenoon, consisted of nineteen cars. Sixteen cars were loaded with cattle from far interior; some as far inland as Pocatello. There was no rest nor refreshment at The Dalles, but they steered right on to the butcher's trust elysium.

The children who have been invited to ride in the liberty car on the Fourth of July are requested to meet at the Sun office, on Court street, between First and Second, at 9 o'clock on that morning. Parents will please see that the children are provided with sashes of the kind previously designated. By order of the committee.

The Columbia was made so angry yesterday by the strong winds, that some of the passengers on the Regulator became sea sick. It was a gale that had got lost on the way to Chicago, and was in such a fine hurry, coming up the Columbia, that the managers seemed to think people here had no rights the weather was bound to respect. We hope it reached its destination on time.

That cuckoo-clock in Garretson's jewelry establishment, when the street is quiet early in these calm mornings, sends its sound upon the ear of the passing pedestrian in such clear notes that one at least supposed the real bird had been imported. Looking up at the Chapman block as if to see the bird, a man this morning said he would like to see one, as he had heard of them before. He was told to come around to Garretson's, after business hours, and take a look at the miraculous songster, and set his watch.

Another traction engine for Klickitat came up today from Russell & Co.

Jacobsen & Co., have fire works, and a large lot of decorating materials.

Lumber is on the ground for the 4th of July grand stand in Third street below Union.

The person who lost a purse today, will find it at A. Keller's bakery on Washington street.

Decorations for the 4th of July have begun. Pease & Mays three windows are as nice as a picture.

Delinquents paid up so well on ice water that sheriff Cates has decided to offer lemonade to the tardy payers tomorrow.

Mr. Max Vogt having tendered his resignation, Mr. Hugh Chrisman steps in as water commissioner to supply the vacancy. A good selection.

Judge Thornbury is today congratulating himself that he is once more a free American citizen of the United States, and the ballwick of The Dalles. The shackles of county judge and councilman were thrown off this morning.

Little Paul Reese, a lone traveler all the way from Illinois, arrived at the Umatilla house this morning on her way to Centerville, where she has friends. Considering that the little Miss is but eleven years of age, her trip speaks volumes concerning attentions and kindly acts of the conductors along this line.

Will Want The Chronicle.

After the Fourth the usual hejira to the sea coast and mountains will begin. Orders may be left at THE CHRONICLE office for the paper, which will be mailed free of postage daily, and which: in camp, cottage or tent, will be found a welcome visitor from home. You will want THE CHRONICLE. Don't forget to leave your orders.

Attention:

If the ladies and gentlemen of the choir for the Fourth of July, find they cannot attend the practices, or take part in the celebration, they will please let the executive committee know, in order that other arrangements may be made. The last practice will be in the Court house tomorrow (Saturday) evening, at 8:30 o'clock sharp, at which a full attendance is earnestly requested.

Let all be Patriotic.

Some people seem to think; but they are few, thanks; that because Decoration Day comes first on the calendar the Fourth of July celebrations should be dropped out. NEVER! Half a century ago the Fourth of July came but once a year. Since the rise of Memorial day it comes around no less frequently, and it is useless for the antiquarian to protest. The Veterans of the Revolution are no longer here to plead with silent eloquence for memories once paramount with the Nation. It is true a new and stirring drama has come upon the stage; one in which the present generation plays a part; but time and memory forbid that the old order changeth for the new. They are similar in but one single respect—patriotism. And the celebration of each has its distinct sentiment. What? forget the Fourth of July! As well forget the maternal breast which cherishes infancy.

Cleve and Steve.

At 8 O'clock To-night.

The council meeting last evening prevented a full meeting of the 4th of July committee, which will be held at Maier & Benton's Second street store this evening, at 8:00 o'clock. Not half past eight, remember.

The Fourth of July Parade.

Some of the business men of The Dalles have not yet signified to the committee their willingness to participate in the parade. There are none but what could make an excellent display. In general merchandise stores could decorate artistically wagons representing their lines and tastes, and the other establishments could do similar work which would add greatly to the effectiveness and attractiveness of the parade and reflect the enterprise and progressiveness of The Dalles. There is not now an abundance of time to make the necessary arrangements to take part in the parade. Let everyone take an interest in the celebration at once. Fire up the enthusiasm box.

Senatorial Antagonisms.

The Walla Walla Union pleading for the lakes Washington and Union scheme, says "both that and The Dalles project will add to the population and the greatness of the Pacific Northwest." True enough; and both might have succeeded, perhaps but for the unfortunate circumstances attending the hostility of Washington senators. It is to them the defeat of both measures must be attributed. THE CHRONICLE recognizes the Union as an unremitting laborer for years for an open Columbia river, and while the world generally regards Washington as the greatest beneficiary for an open Columbia river, circumstances force the conclusion that as a state, looking for the greatest good to the greatest number, her interests have been grossly, if not willfully neglected, for the private interest of her chosen public servants in at least the upper house of congress.

Current Topics.

The demon who so villainously outraged and murdered Mamie Walsh, near Milwaukie, is now in custody at Oregon City. He has been in the state but about a month, from Iowa, and bears the name of George Wilson. A complete chain of evidence fixes his guilt. The vagabond cringing under the fears of lynching, had the audacity to ask to be buried in the same cemetery as Mamie Walsh, because she was innocent and he also is innocent. It is possible he may be lynched before tomorrow.
