FRIDAY - - - - - JULY 8, 1892

LOCAL BRIEFVITIES.

Portland can't afford to sprinkle her streets.

John M. Roth of Kingsley, is in the city today.

County Clerk Crossen returned from Portland today.

McGregor & Co. have pulled out of the butchers trust in Portland.

The Rockland ferry boat is kept unusually active these days.

The A. E. Lake saw mill at Wamic was destroyed by fire on the 4th.

All hands have been discharged at the cascade locks except a few stone cutters.

Chief H. H. Holmes, of the East Portland firemen still wears the honors.

A man named H. C. Long of Wasco, has been indicted for bigamy in Portland.

Peaches are beginning to enter largely into shipments from The Dalles this week.

Hon. W. Lair Hill has been retained to defend the murderer Green at Goldendale.

Mrs. Joe Eoff, of Portland is in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnston.

The barge Wasco went to the bottom this morning on account of too much water in the hold.

Mr. Whealdon left for Goldendale today on temporary business at the county clerk's office.

The U. P. R. Co., is about to move its car shops and yard works to Clarnie, seven miles out of Portland.

Win C. Chapman is to pose as the future boss in Portland. No matter who says nay, Win, like the ghost of Banquo, will not get down.

Not a flag was displayed at the cascades to rejoice over the passage of the appropriation bill. They do not like the contract system perhaps.

The Regulator pilot house floor has been raised to a point where people can get a better look out when they go up there to bother Capt. McNulty.

Dr. Siddall yesterday attested his faith in The Dalles by exchanging at $450, a lot for $800. He will add to his new purchase by the construction of a nice tenement to let.

The steam traction engine and header displayed in the 4th of July procession at The Dalles, by Russell & Co., was disposed of to a Klickitat firm and taken over there for service.

If any body knows the name of the ship that was wrecked in probably 1888, south of Tillamook rock, laden with Portland cement, they will confer a favor by addressing The Dalles Chronicle.

One who is posted declares that when it is positively asserted that the Cascade Locks has been provided for by a contract, population will double up annually at The Dalles for four or five years, and instead of a village of 3,000 we will have a city of 80,000 people in a short time.

The S. P. R. Co. own 20 per cent., the U. P. R. Co. 40 per cent., and the N. P. R. Co. 40 per cent., of the so-called terminal works at Albina. The U. P. R. Co. have failed to keep their agreements.

It was not generally known but The Dalles had a genuine sham battle on the 4th. The militia companies got into it while the exercises were going on at the grand stand. One thousand rounds of ammunition were shot away.

The loss of the Wamic saw mill, on 4th, by fire, is not only a heavy loss to the owner, Mr. A. E. Lake, but it is a great loss to the people. Mr. Lake loses about $6,000. He was doing a fine business up to the day of the fire.

It is unsafe to go fishing, hunting or promenading in the rocky glens and shady dells near Canyon city. Rattlesnakes are becoming numerous; too numerous for the comfort of nervous or temperate people. One of the venomous reptiles was slain just on the edge of the city a few evenings ago.

Mr. F. C. Taylor, son of the man who made the first machine to print newspapers with, about sixty years ago, and which was purchased by Bennett for the New York Herald, is in The Dalles today. That old Taylor press was the beginning of the revolution in the art preservative of arts, and has had a wonderful effect in history.

There has not yet been anything of a certain convincing character published in any of the Portland papers to assure the public of honesty in the reports about Wilson's escape. The latest burlesque is the so-called dispatch from Wilson inquiring after the health of Sheriff Kelley. A good many people believe Wilson is safe in a Portland cell, where he has been all the time.

Here is the record of the free silver coinage men to date. They have been repulsed by the republicans at Minneapolis, by the democrats at Chicago and by the prohibitionists at Cincinnati. But the convention at Omaha gave them a chance to vary the monotony of falling outside the breastworks. It is a good thing that the people are to have a chance to tell by their votes in November what they think of the theories of the free coinage advocates. The people know their business.

Teamsters from Grant county state that the entire wool clip of that county and Harney will seek a railroad outlet at Baker City this year. The reason for this is that better inducements are offered the producer, and it is money in their pockets to go to Baker city with their shipments. Another thing that tends to Baker city's advantage is that the road to Heppner is in such a bad condition that heavily loaded wagons cannot travel over it.

If you want an outing go to the Blue mountains warm springs. The Union Pacific gives excursion rates—one and one-fifth fares—for the round trip to patrons of the springs. Coaches meet the train daily at Gibbon. Dr. Bingham is spending a large amount of money and doing a great deal of work in improving these springs and the people should give him every encouragement, especially Eastern Oregon people, who will receive the greatest benefit from the enterprise, since the springs are directly tributary.

Notice.
All members of the Gesang Verein Harmonie are requested to be present next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, as business of importance will come before the meeting. By order of the president, R. J. RORDAN, Sec. CHAS. SCHMIDT.

A Washington dispatch says the democrats of the house are desperate. They have determined to pass the free-silver bill, and a rule will be brought in to refer the bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures, without allowing any further filibustering. Another rule will be brought in making Friday suspension day, in which all bills may be passed under suspension of the rules by a two-thirds vote, without an opportunity to filibuster. This is to take the place of a regular suspension day of last Monday, which was lost on account of being the Fourth of July. The committee on rules will also give a day next week for the consideration of the free-coinage bill, and if there is a disposition to filibuster and not allow a vote to be taken after it is reported, the committee on rules will bring in a rule authorizing the suspension of the rules by a majority of the house. This is a most unheard-of thing, and will allow a majority of the house, if in favor of free silver, to pass the free-coinage bill, but it is also the intention that the free-lumber and the free tin-plate bills, and all other tariff bills upon which the republicans have been filibustering, shall be passed under this majority suspension rule. The idea of including the various free-trade bills reported by the ways and means committee is intended for a sort of sop to be thrown out to the free-traders, who are all anti-silver men, and to heal the wounds which the passing of the silver bill will make.

How Tunnel Rails Rust.

As showing how rails rust in tunnels, one has but to look at a lot piled up in the U. P. R. yard, which calls to mind a statement concerning observations in the Altenberk tunnel, which is about 1230 feet long and located on a curve of 2560 feet radius. The rails have been down for eleven years, and, at the end of that time, were covered to a depth of .16 to .24 inch by hard scales, which could only be removed by a knife. They were composed mainly of iron sulphide, and were found principally on the web. While the weight of the rail was much reduced in this manner, its sectional area was found to have increased, owing to the flakey character of the rust. The new rails have been covered with a mixture consisting largely of tar, which is renewed every six months. The gravel ballast has also received a partial covering of broken limestone, and by this means it is hoped that the formation of rust will be retarded. In the Brandelett tunnel in Thuringen it was found that rails and metal ties were destroyed by rust as fast as by the passing trains. The ties lost about 5.9 pounds each in six years. This tunnel is nearly 10,000 feet long, and is on a tangent, having a one per cent grade.

"I am a Chinaman."

East Oregonian. Count Tolstoi says that the Christian religion teaches that man is essentially corrupt, while the Chinese philosophy teaches that he is essentially good, and he adds: "In this respect I am a Chinaman." We are in sympathy with the Chinese philosophy and Count Tolstoi.

A Long Sleep in Silesia.

A most peculiar case of prolonged sleep is at present occupying the attention of medical circles in Germany. A miner named Johann Latus is an inmate of the hospital at Myslowitz, in Silesia, where he was admitted four months and a half ago, and since then all efforts to wake him have been fruitless. Dr. Albers, the doctor attending him, is of the opinion that the apparent sleep is really a state of catalepsy, though medical science has on record no previous case of such a prolonged nature. He has arrived at this conclusion on account of all the limbs being absolutely rigid. The appearance of the man, however, betrays no signs of this. The body lies quite still, the breathing is regular, and there is a healthy color in the cheeks. In the last few days the body has become much less rigid, and the patient has even made some slight movement, without, however, the eyes opening or the condition of apparent sleep being in any way disturbed. In the four months and a half that the sleep has lasted the hair has increased in length, but the beard has remained stationary. Nourishment to the extent of two or three liters of milk is administered daily by a tube inserted into the throat.—Vienna Letter.

A Monster Wheel.

The new 30-foot flywheel to replace the one which burst on the Amoskeag corporation at Manchester, N. H., last fall, has been completed and put in position for use as soon as the engine is in readiness. Twenty thousand feet of brown ash was used in the construction of the wheel, as well as 18,000 lbs of 3/4-inch screws, a lot of iron rods, tons of iron and quarts of glue. The small wooden sections are fastened together by glue and the screws, and to strengthen the whole there are stout iron rods passing through the sections in addition to this. The screws are driven by steam power. To make the whole mass as compact as possible narrow openings were left between some of the sections, and into these were tightly driven well fitting wedges soaked in boiling hot glue. The time of its test is being awaited with interest by the mill people. It has been necessary to keep a large gang of men at work upon the racks in the mill in order to prevent interference in the mills from ice.—Lowell Citizen.

Horace Wilkins' Luck.

A pile of lumber fell over on Horace Wilkins, of Lushon Mills, on Friday, and his fellow workmen thought he was killed, but he was extricated alive and unhurt, though unconscious. His first words on recovering consciousness were, "It's lucky for me that wasn't hard wood."—New York World.

A Large Calla Lily.

Mrs. William Kelley, of Dyer Brook, has a calla lily two years old which is six feet high, with stalks eleven inches in circumference where they leave the earth. If it isn't the largest in Aroostook county, then its owner doesn't know it.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

Coolness in a Mixed College.

There is a coolness between the boys and the girls of the Stanford university. It all came about from a question of property. The boys gave a ball in their dormitory hall on Monday night, to which they invited all the girl students, as well as the professors. Elaborate preparations were made, and the young men anticipated an evening of enjoyment. They hired a band, and had the dormitory beautifully decorated. One or two of the more modest and retiring of the maidens in the girls' dormitory were shocked at the avowed intention of some of the girls to attend the ball, and called a meeting of the girls, at which there was a long discussion of the affair.

Many of the fair students said they could see no harm in going to the ball as long as the professors were willing, but the more prudish damsels read a strong lecture on the evils of such doings, and, on a vote, there was a majority in favor of not attending the ball. So none of them went.

The boys waited long for the coming of the fair ones, but they came not. At first the collegians were very angry. Then they took the dancing floor themselves and made a "stag" party of it. They say, however, that for future festivities they will send no invitations to the girl students. This suits the ultra-modest among the latter, but the sociable girls feel crushed.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Visitors and the Chinese Emperor.

Until the present generation our ministers have never been received by the emperor in person. The Chinese have fought against such receptions as sacrilegious. In 1870, however, the foreign ministers forced the emperor to receive them, and in 1891 the new emperor gave his first reception to the foreign diplomats. He probably will have to do this many times in the future. I have received a letter from China describing this reception and saying that it had a great influence on the Chinese at Peking. It shows the people that these so called "tribute bearers" are worthy of notice and makes them respect our ministers.

The last emperor wanted the diplomats to go down on their knees and bump their heads against the floor nine times in front of the emperor, as the Chinese do, but they refused to do this, and no attempt was made to demand this on the present occasion. The Chinese idea is to make the foreign ministers, as far as possible, contemptible in the eyes of the people, and it was four months before the audience of 1878 could be arranged.—Frank G. Carpenter in National Tribune.

Women's Luncheons.

It is noticeable that at the luncheon rooms of the several woman's exchanges, as well as at several of the restaurants in the shopping districts, broken orders are possible. This is especially true of the menus of the exchanges, which are managed by women solely for women. It is a concession to an accepted fact that women ordering and eating alone greatly dislike to pay for a mouthful more than can be consumed. One croquette, a half serving of salad, chocolate without bread—these are some of the ways a woman adjusts her bill to her appetite.—New York Times.

Dr. John Piente, the amateur telescope maker, is now finishing a 804 inch silver on glass mirror for Alleghany college, which, when mounted, will give that institution the largest reflecting telescope in this country.

An immense flume is being constructed near Fresno, Cal., which will not only furnish water for irrigating purposes, but will be used to transport lumber needed by farmers living near by.

It is pretty hard to be told at the beginning of a long, cold winter that gold table services are coming in. It was hoped that they had gone out to stay.

Will Want The Chronicle.

After the Fourth the usual hogira to the sea coast and mountains will begin. Orders may be left at THE CHRONICLE office for the paper, which will be mailed free of postage daily, and which: in camp, cottage or tent, will be found a welcome visitor from home. You will want THE CHRONICLE. Don't forget to leave your orders.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough.
