LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

Miss Amanda Hildebrand, of Seattle, is visiting the family of J. L. Story.

Mrs. J. W. French and sons, Ed. and Vivian, have returned from California.

Judge Thornbury, C. E. Haight and D. L. Cates are fishing over in Trout lake.

Somebody lost a boat today. It went up against the current driven by the wind.

Friends of Mrs. Geo. Watkins will be glad to hear that her health is improving the last few days.

Arthur & Co., of Portland, are today receiving back some of the machinery used by J. M. Lauer in The Dalles planing mills.

Mr. W. F. Wiseman left today for Wenatchee, Wash., the point where the Great Northern railroad crosses the Columbia. He expects to be away about twenty days.

E. L. Smith and J. H. Middleton have bought the fumes, timber tract, etc., of Mr. Ordway at Chenoweth, and will carry on the business of furnishing timber, wood, etc., on a large scale.

A handsome double calla lily, which was greatly admired, ornamented the show window at Garretson's jewelry store last evening. It was raised by Mrs. John Marden, and was a present to Rev. Mr. Curtis.

Mrs. H. A. Ross died at her home in this city this morning about one o'clock after a brief illness. Aged 67 years. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the residence. Interment at the Odd Fellows cemetery.

An omission in a paragraph last evening concerning Dr. Siddell's real estate transaction rendered the item somewhat obscure. He sold a lot on the bluff for $450.00 and purchased the Beezley property corner of Fourth and Laughlin for $800.00. He intends to build on the latter place.

Max Zimmerman, the section foreman at John Day, met with an accident at Grants yesterday which was very painful. He attempted to board a train which was in motion, when he slipped, and as he fell, his hand went under the train, cutting and mangling the fingers in a shocking manner. He was brought to The Dalles where Doctors Doane and Logan amputated the index finger, and dressed the hand, after which he was taken to Portland, to the U. P. B. hospital.

J. E. McCormick paid THE CHRONICLE a visit yesterday to talk over the prospects of the growing crops. After all that has been said there is a pretty fair average taking the whole country through. In some places there are poor spots, but we hear more encouraging reports concerning wheat daily. Today Mr. Hembree and Mr. McKelvey were in, and both have encouraging reports. Mr. Hembree will follow thrashing again this season, and he says the outlook is quite promising.

Discussing the river and harbor bill today the Oregonian Washington correspondent says: "It may be that the president will not sign the bill, but will allow it to become a law by limitation.

Speaking about the crops, said Mr. Lord at lunch today, just in from Klickitat, that country over there is a perfect paradise. The finest and best of all the cereals is promising an abundant yield. The Klickitat farmer is all right.

Mr. W. L. Lord returned from Golden-dale today. The trial of Green, for the murder of Wm. Dunn has been set for August 16th. Friends of Mrs. Dunn have secured the services of Judge Bennett in the prosecution. Hon. W. Lair Hill will defend.

The Murderer Captured.

Wilson, the murderer of Mamie Walsh, was captured in Yamhill county yesterday by the Carter brothers of Chehalis, and was taken to the McMinnville jail.

He had spoken to no man since his escape until yesterday, and has been prowling about in the vicinity of Wheatland, picking up what he could in farm-houses by night. Sunday night he stole a gun, hat, coat and some provisions of Farmer Crabtree's, between Dayton and Wheatland. Officers and citizens have been scouting the county in every direction, sometimes thinking they had a clue which always came to naught.

Yesterday he walked past the residence of Constable Carter, carrying a burlap sack of clothes and a gun. The Carter boys looked with suspicion on the decent looking tramp and followed him a few hundred yards. Wilson saw them coming, but hoped to convince the good farmers that he was not the man they were looking for, and offered to prove his innocence when overtaken and arrested. Carter accepted the offer and told Wilson he would hitch up his team and take him to McMinnville, and if he was not the man he would bring him back home and keep him over night free of charge. To this Wilson agreed without any show of resistance and gave up his gun. It was useless, as he had no cartridges. Wilson said that he had been hunting for a pistol. Had he possessed one he would not have submitted to arrest without a more desperate resistance. As it was, he fought like a tiger, but Carter is an athletic man, about 30 years old, and was more than a match for the hungry refugee.

After Wilson had given up his gun, and as Carter and his brother went to get a team ready, Wilson found an opportunity and started on a run. He ran about 50 yards, when Carter, being fleet-footed, overtook him. In the scuffle he bit Carter's little finger severely, and got away from him, but another chase of 200 yards caught him again. He turned on Carter with a razor, when Carter struck him with a club, breaking his arm. Carter's brother then caught up a gun, which he leveled with a notice to yield or die. Wilson replied: "Please shoot me. I want you to shoot me." But Carter preferred live game, so he closed in and overpowered him, and tied him and brought him to the jail here. He only gave up after he was clubbed down and overpowered in a life and death struggle. Then he said: "Well, boys, I give up. I am the man who killed the girl, and I wish you would kill me here."

He wanted back copies of the Oregonian to read the account of how the deputy sheriff, who tried to break into his brother's house was knocked out. He said they were abusing his brother, who was a gentleman, although he had a brother who was not right. Soon after the arrival at the jail, the news spread like wildfire, and crowds gathered to see Wilson and his captors. A photographer took two good negatives of him. He refused to talk at any length, but his whereabouts since his escape was learned from him. He laid in the brush over Saturday night and worked his way down to the Willamette, where he has spent most of the time in a bark shanty that he built, going back to the foothills occasionally by night to get good water. Thursday night he crossed the Dayton bridge, and was going on the road to Forest Grove. He said he intended to go on to the Columbia and then work up that stream into the Cascade mountains.

Sheriffs Warren and Kelly and twelve men started in carriages with Wilson for Oregon city at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. The court house yard and the streets were packed with people trying to see the prisoner, but all seemed quiet, and there were no threats of lynching. All seemed satisfied that the law's course would be swift and sure. When the officers started it was difficult getting through the crowd to the carriages. It is claimed by some that they have gone to Salem instead of Oregon city. Sheriff Kelly seems to be the happiest man living, and told Carter he would give him a check for $300 without delay. Carter deserves great credit for the capture. Wilson, although crippled, was securely ironed this time for his night ride.

Sheriff Kelly himself undoubtedly feels pretty good now, but he has paid dearly for the blunder he made in attempting to convey his prisoner through the woods in darkness without taking the precaution to iron him in any way. His daily expenses have not been less than $75. He has used the wires freely and employed men. The cost will all come out of his own pocket. This will amount to about $500. Besides, there is half of the reward of $250 offered for the capture of the fugitive, which he will have to pay.

Fossil Notes.

We had a grand celebration at Fossil on the Glorious Fourth.

Dick Gerberding had John Mathis arrested last week for assault with a dangerous weapon. Mathis being held to answer in the sum of $200. He (Mathis) retaliated by having Gerberding arrested for larceny of a canthook, which charge he failed to substantiate. Crops here in the extreme south end of Gilliam county are standing the drought remarkably well, and nearly every one in the Contention and Dutch Flat settlement will raise three fourths of an average crop.

Old Sol's fierce rays last week, caused the thermometer to register all the way from 100° to 110°, owing to location.

ANON.

Maj. Magone's Tramp.

Grant County News. Major Magone placed his heels against the court house door at an early hour on the morning of July 4th and immediately hit the road for Chicago, intending to walk every step of the way, over 2,000 miles; at the rate of twenty to thirty miles per day. He reached the warm springs, twenty-six miles the first day. Major is past seventy years of age, but is hearty and wiry yet, and will reach Chicago with flying colors long before the anniversary of America's discovery October 12th. A subscription was circulated to raise funds for his legitimate expenses while on the road. His presence at the world's fair will advertise the woolly west.

A Lost Opportunity.

Seattle Press-Times. The people's party overlooked the protruding availability of Governor Penney for vice president, and nominated a one-legged man. The thought strikes us that if the convention had nominated both Penney and Field it would have come pretty near creating a whole candidate.

Justin McCarthy Defeated.

LONDON, July 8.—The most notable announcement in the election returns today is the defeat of Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellite party, by Ross, conservative, in Derry. The district is always close. Among those elected are Timothy Harrington, Parnellite, and Hon. Henry Chaplain and Hon. E. Stanhope, conservatives.

A Grave Mistake.

Portland Telegram. The people's party made a mistake in nominating Weaver. Not that he is an unfit man, but he is a "chewed-over" politician. He has been before the people so long he has become a "hack." The new party should have started out with a new man. Not so new that he was entirely unknown; but one who is not a chronic office-seeker.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkhon, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w
