CARNEGIE TO START UP

The Threats of the Strikers Will Have No Effect Now.

FIRST MUST REPAIR DAMAGES.

The Congressional Committee in Pittsburgh Investigating.

WHAT FRICK SAYS ABOUT WAGES.

They Were Higher at Homestead Than at Any Other Place—Pinkerton's Arrangement.

PITTSBURG, July 14.—The talk at Homestead relates chiefly to preparations for the resumption of work with non-union men. As soon as the works are ready the company propose to send the foremen of the several departments among the old men for the purpose of tendering them the positions in the mill which they had previously occupied. All the higher class of positions in the mill they thus expect to fill with the old men, and they expect to be able to supplement them by outside help to such an extent as may be necessary. The first step that the company is expected to take will be the introduction to the mill of a sufficient number of mechanics to make repairs. The services for several hundred men for at least a week will be required for this work. Unless they are gotten into the mill quietly there is a general feeling that their appearance will be a signal for the strikers to test the intentions of Gen. Snowden. If the commander of the National Guard interferes to protect these workmen, the strikers will have to decide whether they will fight the soldiers or surrender. The threat that the employees of the several mills will strike unless the company grants a conference with the Homestead men will have no effect on the company. The company will under no circumstances hold a conference, even if every man in every mill operated by the company goes out. At the meeting of the congressional committee which is investigating affairs, Frick said the wages paid at Homestead were higher than at any other place. Chairman Boatner, of the committee, declared the scale of wages paid, as explained by Frick, was the highest wages he had ever heard of. Capt. Rodgers was then called. He told of the trip to Homestead, accompanied by a deputy sheriff, who went in an official capacity. He then detailed the story of the fight at Homestead. He said the strikers fired first. Frick, of the Carnegie company, detailed arrangements with the Pinkertons to furnish guards for the Homestead property. He said the arms were consigned to the Union Supply company who delivered them to Capt. Rodgers, of the Pinkertons. Frick was not sure, but supposed he had something to do with furnishing the arms. He could not be brought to answer more definitely. He believed the Pinkertons were advised arms would be needed, but arms were not stipulated in the employment of guards.

It Means a Rush to the Beach.

Astorian. The air is full of rumors of another steamboat war like that which reduced round trip rates to $1.50 and freights to $1.00 per ton. Tomorrow the Union Pacific will put on the Thompson and Potter as day and night boats respectively. The Telephone company will use the City of Frankfort with its own boat. The Lurline will also take a hand in the river service; so will the Astorian. The compact between the Union Pacific and Telephone people has been disrupted and each line will "now go it alone."

Choice Lots Sold.

Heppner Gazette. In conversation with Grant Johnson, our reporter learns that the woods here are nearly all sold and pretty well picked over. What remains are not desirable, from a buyer's standpoint, unless they can be secured at prices that will justify purchasing, having earlier in the season secured about all they desire, most of them the choicest clips on the market here. However, we are informed that the buyers will remain in the field till August 1st, and, of course, are here to do business.

Who is Pinkerton?

Union-Journal. It is perhaps worthy of note that Mr. William A. Pinkerton is a staunch democrat and that 90 per cent. of his men are democrats.

The People are Happy.

Heppner Gazette. The cascade locks will now be completed by contract, and the people of Eastern Oregon are happy. With the obstructions removed from the dalles of the Columbia, our section will be comparatively free from the dictations of a greedy corporation, with a larger balance to the credit of the producer.

Telegraphic Flashes.

The establishment of a branch headquarters of the republican national committee in Chicago has been decided upon. Probably John R. Tanner, of Illinois, will have charge of the branch.

A terrible cyclone struck the southern portion of Springfield, O., yesterday and fatally injured ten persons. The police are at work among the rains hunting for wounded. The sight is dreadful beyond description.

In consequence of smallpox in Victoria the Pacific coast steamship company has ordered its steamers to discontinue stopping there. The steamers will now go direct to Port Townsend, where freight and passengers will be sent by rail to Victoria.

William C. Whitney has about made up his mind to be chairman of the democratic national committee. Mr. Cleveland has requested him to act. Democrats of consequence in several states of the Union are asking him to command the campaign, and Tammany hall wants him.

The Illinois secretary of state has granted a license to the carpenters council of Chicago to form an independent military organization, which it is expected, will reach 6500 inside of a week. The avowed object is to enable labor to fight any private armed force which capital may bring to settle labor disputes.

The result of the Midlothian election, Gladstone's constituency, shows a great change of political sentiment. Hitherto the district has been looked upon as belonging to Gladstone. Gladstone's actual majority this year, is 690. This is a pitiable majority compared with previous elections. In 1885 Gladstone received a majority of 4,631, and at the last general election in 1886 the district was regarded as such a liberal stronghold the unionists did not run a candidate.

An excursion steamer on Peoria lake, Illinois, was capsized by a cyclone Tuesday night, and several people were drowned. Until the list of missing comes from Pekin, the exact number of deaths cannot be told. The persons drowned were nearly all in the cabin when the boat turned over. There was no escape for them and every one perished. The survivors all tell the most thrilling tales of the disaster, and there were many narrow escapes. The wind was blowing directly off shore, but the screams of the women and hoarse shouts of the men could be heard above the fury of the terrific storm. The lake and river were filled with over 200 pleasure-boats, and so far only ninety-six of them are accounted for. Several small boats were seen whirling down the river, and there is but little doubt that their occupants found a grave in the angry waters.

Baker County Kaolin.

Democrat. Much has been said of late regarding the Kaolin finds near Huntington and their value seems now to be well established. A company has just been organized in Portland to work several claims. The company is to be called The American Kaolin company and the officers are as follows: J. F. Edwards, president; Robert R. Tuttle, secretary; F. C. Brodie, treasurer; Dr. H. F. Stearns, vice-president; James Sudwick, superintendent; C. M. Idleman, attorney. The company will commence work on their property in a very short time and it is expected that a big industry will follow.

Bold Soldier Boys.

A Pendleton dispatch yesterday noting the arrival there of three companies of the Idaho national guard en route to the seat of war from Hailey, Weiser and Boise, says: There are ninety men and officers altogether, and a determined lot they are. When Hailey's sons left for the seat of war fair women wept. At Boise men cheered and steam whistles loudly tooted. At Weiser the whole town turned out and there was a plentiful showing of women's tears. Everyone thought the citizen-soldiers were rushing forward to certain death, and the soldiers did not attempt to obliterate this impression. Between Boise and Huntington, the men fired 1,000 rounds of pistol ammunition at ducks, geese and cattle, but so far as learned no bullet found its intended billet. The militia is being fed upon crackers, cheese, tongue and coffee. The militia came as far as Pendleton upon the regular train, and here caught a special train. They will rush forward at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and as the route is tortuous, with many steep grades, the timid ones fear a wreck. A sharp lookout to prevent ditching by the strikers will be maintained.

AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

Hon. Van B. De Lashmutt Captured and Held as a Hostage.

STRIKERS POSSESS THE WORKS.

They Declare Complete Ruin Unless the Scabs are all Removed.

A THOROUGHLY ORGANIZED MOB.

Railway Tracks Torn up and Bridges Burned to Prevent the Arrival of Troops.

PORTLAND, July 14.—Reports of a startling character from the Cour d'Alene were expected yesterday, and in this respect the public were not disappointed. Hon. Van B. De Lashmutt, who is largely interested in the various mines concerned, and who has been on the ground since the trouble first began, has been captured, together with William Sweeney, the detective, and several other parties, and hurried away to some unknown retreat where they are kept by the strikers, as hostages. What the result will be no one knows. The authorities are determined to restore quiet by force of arms, and the strikers threaten to work general destruction if the troops appear on the ground. It is feared that if the troops should get into Wallace every mill of the association members will be blown up. An effort is now being made to hold the troops at Mullan to avoid the disaster. All the mills of the mine where non-union labor has been employed have been charged with a magazine and a fuse attached. At a signal, all will be blown up. This however, will be only in the event of troops arriving at the scene. Consternation prevails. A bridge was blown up at Mullan, and no trains are running between Wallace and Mullan. The strikers have placed large quantities of giant powder under the Bunker Hill, Gem and Sullivan mines, as well as under the buildings of those mines, and will blow up all the properties at the first advance of the troops. They have a network of wires laid, and will ignite the powder with electricity. As a precaution in case of the burning of Wallace and Warden, the Union Pacific moved all of its rolling stock from those places down to Tekoa. A special train was sent to Wallace for the purpose of bringing away a party of 200 non-union men, who have been driven out by the strikers. All the railway lines but the Union Pacific have been torn up by the strikers in various places, and the movements of troops are impeded.
