THURSDAY - JULY 14, 1892

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The river today 28 feet and 10 inches above low water mark. Hon. E. N. Chandler is still at the old stand, but he is winding up the business. Miss M. Dickinson, of Sagaraw, Mich., arrived in The Dalles today. Mr. W. H. Pool, who left for Bake Oven yesterday, has a fine lot of gold specimens that were taken out of Myrtle creek, a short distance from Roseburg. Billy Marler says the nicest place to go to for an afternoon Dalles outing is up Fifteen-mile, from Senfers place. He enjoyed himself yesterday, and was rewarded with a nice mess of trout. Messrs. Ed. Vivian and Frank French, and Truman Butler left this morning by the steamer Regulator, for a two weeks outing in the Wind river mountain camps. Mr. Nic Corish will leave for county Wexford, Ireland, tomorrow, in consequence of news of the dangerous illness of his mother. He expects to reach home in two weeks. The Epworth League fountain yesterday morning surprised people who had not heard nor read of its arrival in THE CHRONICLE the day before. It is now ready to have the water turned on.

Old Sol is getting around to business again.

A. S. Macalister left today for his ranch at Contenton, Gilliam county.

Mr. John Booth is expected home tonight. His companions will remain in camp.

Mr. D. P. Ketchum, of Port Townsend, came in from his country camp last evening to meet his daughter who was expected here to-day.

The Coroner's jury, in the examination of the body of Mrs. Rogers, stands adjourned until Tuesday, waiting for analysis returns from the chemist. A fine lot of Wasco county horses have been sold to go on the grade of the Astoria and Portland railway. Three of these from Robert Cooper's place show that the average prices for horses is discouraging to the breeder. They were all fine horses. One weighing 1,330 sold for $90. A year ago would have sold for $150; one of 1,255 pounds sold for $80, six months ago was refused sale at $100; another of 1,115 sold for $70.

"The one was taken and the other left," caused consummate thoughts, if no worse, at the ferry landing late last evening. Two heavily loaded teams came across just before dark. The water having receded, the boat must land in Mill creek, and the road around to the street is very soft yet. The first team of the boat made the passage through the slough of despond, but the second one stuck. As if to add insult to injury, but it was not so intended: an observer from the Umatilla house balcony intimated to the now irate teamster that "both teams left." After comprehending the sympathetic suggestion he unhitched his horses, and the loaded wagon was still there this morning.

Butter $1.80 Per Pound.

A visitor to Portland told our reporter today how butter sells at $1.80 a pound in that market. He says the waiter at a restaurant where he was eating, on First street near the Gilman, left a flake at his plate about the size of a half dollar and as thin as a bristol card. It wouldn't cover a cracker, so he called for some more, and some more. When he settled at the counter his butter bill was equal to the bill for toast and coffee. In all 35 cents. He could get a good square meal at the St. Charles for 25 cents. Estimated that at the rate he paid, butter was selling (in restaurants) at exactly $4.80 per lb., or $9.60 per roll, for which the rancher gets thirty-five cents in trade.

The Oregon Flower.

Mr. Emil Schanno returned last night from a meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural society at Hood river. There was a large delegation present from all parts of the state. Amongst those whom Mr. Schanno met were Dr. J. R. Cardwell, president of the society, Messrs. Hoskins, of Yamhill county; Haines, of Marion; A. W. Allen, and his old-time friend Henry Dosch, of Portland; Carson, of Josephine; Watson, Bradford and others. Mr. E. R. Rawson and himself represented The Dalles.

When the question of the adoption of a state flower came up the lovely Oregon grape was put in nomination and carried the convention by a large majority.

The Days of Graybacks.

Mr. Emil Schanno was pleased to meet at Hood River yesterday, an old time acquaintance, a former resident of The Dalles, Mr. Richard Wheeler. Dick was a compositor on the Mountaineer, in 1862, under Newell's administration. He is now publishing a horticultural journal in California upon which he expends a portion of the surplus capital acquired from sales of his patented compound vine insecticide and fungicide. The meeting between the two pioneers of this city was mutually agreeable. Wheeler asked about all the old-time associates of those early days, when gold dust was the principle article of export, not even forgetting the then omnipresent grayback. When informed by Mr. Schanno that they had all disappeared, Mr. Wheeler lifted a sigh of apparently unfringed regret. He said he had a large colony of them once, and they so loved him that they stuck to him like brothers. "Yes," said Mr. Schanno, "I had a fine colony myself, and no matter where I went they staid by me." "How do you account for their extinctions?" inquired Wheeler, with an evident idea of gaining a pointer which might help out the I. X. L. compound. The conversation was overheard by a friend of THE CHRONICLE, who says Mr. Schanno explained the mystery by accusing Col. Sinnott of introducing into Oregon a new kind of soap several years ago, that spread like a contagion all over the country, and literally killed every grayback with which it came in contact.

MOSIER LETTER.

Population Increasing--Religious, Financial and Physical Developments. Special to THE CHRONICLE. Mosier, July 14.—A few items from Mosier would perhaps let the outside world know we are still alive, and in good spirits; and why not? Farmers are all happy, as the crops are good and the weather delightful; although we have seen more fruit, the quality never was better.

A great many new comers are settling among us, and they are of a very desirable class, morally, physically and financially. According to the vote cast in June our population has increased 100 per cent. in two years. This is a good showing. Religious privileges have also advanced, and we have now three services in a month. One Methodist and two Baptists Mr. Nickelsen comes occasionally, which sometimes makes four. A camp meeting is to be held some time this week.

The house of Mrs. Sevasey had a narrow escape from burning one day last week. The fire, which looked like the work of an incendiary, was started on Sunday while she was at church. It burned within a few inches of her house and also close to a bunch of straw near her barn, and within a short distance of the wood shed. So long. AGRICOLA.

Notice.

I have this day disposed of my dental practice to Dr. G. E. Sanders, late of Saginaw, Michigan. Dr. Sanders is a graduate of the dental department of the State university of Michigan and has been in continuous dental practice more than sixteen years. He comes very highly recommended. I have implicit confidence in his ability as a first class operator and as such I take pleasure in recommending him to all my friends and former patrons. July 9th, 1892. G. F. TUCKER.

SHE REACHED THE LOCKS.

Dr. Kinney's Plan a Feasible One--Boats Can Pass Up Over the Cascades. Daily Dispatch. The steamer Dalles City, notwithstanding the present high water in the Columbia river, succeeded yesterday in sticking her nose square up against the lock at the cascades and blew the whistle lustily for the workmen to hurry up and open the locks. This is something that no other steamer ever did before, to go up on the rapids above Bonneville while the river is at a thirty-five foot stage. This also makes practicable the scheme that Dr. Aug. C. Kinney of Astoria has long since had in view. The doctor's scheme is simply this, that during the summer time when the water is low, there is a channel on the Washington side, that by blasting the rocks out, steamers with fair power, in the winter and at this stage of water, can pass up over the rapids to the locks and then cross over to the channel and ascend it, coming out at a point above the cascade falls, and then pass on up the river to The Dalles. The main obstacle in the way to overcome, is the ascending the rapids from the lower cascades to the locks. In the channel spoken of, lines are to be used to assist the boat in making the ascent. The experiment by the steamer Dalles City reaching the locks, fully convinces the doctor that his plan is a possible one.

Who Says Protection?

Oregonian. There is no Carnegie in the Coeur d'Alene country; no manufacturers there who have become millionaires and plutocrats through protection; and yet labor troubles occurring there are quite as violent as those at Pittsburg. Perhaps partisan demagogues have been talking. Perhaps the main idea has been a hope to make votes for the presidential election, rather than to tell the truth fairly. Such things have been known sometimes.

T. A. Van Norden, the expert watch repairer at No. 106 Second street, The Dalles, appears to have a happy knack for holding the confidence of his patrons. The secret, of course, is the usual one—skill in repairing even the most complicated watches. 7-13-1m

It is said that Mr. Cleveland has been invited to meet the democratic notification committee in Tammany hall. This recalls the historic experience narrated in the pathetic ballad of the spider and the fly.

Preserve the Thistle.

The bull thistle crop in Dalles City, which is more abundant this season than last, is now about ripe, but in a few places has been destroyed by the hand of some ruthless personator of Time. This should be looked into by the city fathers. The handsome foliage of the stately bull thistle that flourishes with exuberant luxuriance in the cross streets away from the business center is an evidence of the productiveness of plain sand, rock and gravel, without irrigation. To this we can with pride and confidence direct the attention of prospective buyers of real estate. For if the graveled streets will produce, like that, what may not be expected of the lots and the surrounding country? Besides this, the bull thistle serves another purpose, it stimulates industry. On this point, referring to the thistle in Pendleton, the E. O. man says: By and by, when its delicate purple blossoms have been sufficiently admired, it will place in circulation millions of downy seeds, in fact its circulation will exceed that of the East Oregonian, and these seeds, watted hither and thither by the gentle fall zephyrs, will be liberally planted in every yard in town. Thus the householder, when the springtime comes gentle Annie; and the pansy is about to hatch, finds foeman worthy of his trusty hoe-blade and development of his flaccid muscles. No, don't hew down the thistles in the side streets.

The Square Business.

Wallawa Chief. Some of our prominent citizens are exhibiting fine mining specimens from the Wallawa mines. It is hoped that all future work in this direction will be in the way of actual, honest development, and that as the development proceeds, the element of exaggeration and speculation will vanish.
