"THE COOS BAY JOB."

One reason which may be mentioned in connection with the advanced ideas concerning the Coos bay improvement is that the California delegation in congress entertain opinions which favor the advancement of Pacific coast interests, whether located in California or not. Coos bay holds similar relations to California; but on a very limited scale, in comparison to similar relations existing, but not realized, between the Columbia river and the people of the state of Washington. And it is that close commercial relationship between Coos bay and California which gives the California delegation a friendly interest, such as should exist, with similar advanced ideas, on the part of the Washington delegation. Were this possible, the intelligent press of the Pacific Northwest would not now feel humiliated with the intimations that "a local job has been engineered at Coos bay." It should be stated that these intimations come from a certain disgruntled faction in the state of Washington, which failed to secure "for a purely local job at Seattle," an appropriation which would have endangered the completion of the cascade locks, and so much toward an open Columbia river. With all the miles of the Columbia tributary to the people of Washington, it is far from creditable to her delegation in congress that they failed to emulate the friendly interest of the California delegation for Coos bay; and the attempt to even presume that local jobs are permissible in Washington city, after their defeat, is unbecoming in the supporters of Mr. Senator Allen, or any other man.

The existing rivalry between Knute Nelson, the nominee for governor of the Minnesota republicans, and Ignatius Donnelly, the champion of the peoples party, results from their old-time rivalry in the Minnesota state senate more than ten years ago. They were continually at war on points of parliamentary procedure, and as Donnelly was even then a recognized authority in that line it nettled him to be outwitted, as he frequently was, by the keen-minded little Norwegian. One point raised by Nelson against the Baconian sage was so knotty that it gave the lieutenant-governor a three-days' search of the books before he could decide it. His final decision was against Donnelly, to the great amusement of the entire state.

On Friday last it was just 200 years since Rebecca Nurse was hanged at Salem, Mass., on account of her religious convictions, and because she would not confess to being a witch. The anniversary was observed in what is now the town of Danvers. For a long time her tomb was without a mark, her body having been stolen by her sons from the gallows for interment. Her latter descendants have just unveiled a memorial tablet, suitably inscribed, in honor of the forty persons who maintained the innocence of this New England martyr before the court which condemned her.

Though England has had many prime ministers who lived to be octogenarians, there has been but one British premier in this century besides Mr. Gladstone, and none in the past, who was in office when past 80. That aged statesman was Lord Palmerston, who died at his post in his 81st year, in 1865.

Marion Harlands Opinion.

Readers of THE CHRONICLE are familiar not only with the sprightly writings of Marion Harland, but also with her sound common sense upon matters of everyday life and action. Her name, indeed, is a household word, and is equally well known in parlor and kitchen. Her celebrated cook book, "Common Sense in the Household," is without a peer and shows that she has made a careful study of how to prepare good, wholesome food, in the best manner by the best materials. In this issue we produce a fac-simile letter from Marion Harland that speaks from her experience in the highest terms of the unequalled qualities of the Royal Baking powder. Housewives everywhere should read the opinion of such an expert and act accordingly. All good cooks, who have used the Royal, are of the same opinion also.

Taken in time, even Consumption yields to the wonderful effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It won't make new lungs—but it will make diseased ones healthy when nothing else will. There's reason for it, too. Consumption is Lung-scorfula. For every form of scrofula, and all blood-taints, the "Discovery" is a positive cure. It's the most potent strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-builder known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, and all lingering Coughs, it's an unequalled remedy. It's a guaranteed one. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back. You've everything to gain from it—nothing to lose. It's especially potent in curing Tetter, Salt-rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands, Tumors and Swellings. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence.
