Blakeley & Houghton sells Tanglefoot for 40 cents a box.

Dr. A. C. Buell, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived this morning. He is the guest of the Columbia River Fruit company.

Youngtown, eleven miles from Baker, is getting to be quite a village. Hon. Geo. A. Young has been elected mayor by a large majority.

"Nansene for fish" said Brenner as the Regulator rolled out this a. m., with himself, family, driver, team and thoroughbred on board, bound for White Salmon.

In writing from The Dalles always add this; it is true and truth should be spoken at all times: The mosquito cannot thrive here. The air is for too fresh and healthful to be congenial either to him or his associate, the ubiquitous malaria microbe.

Mining interests have been greatly developed this year in Eastern Oregon. Many new discoveries have been made and old ones have proved worth working. The outlook is very promising in that direction. The latest party to leave The Dalles is Messrs. Clark and Gilmore, who go to develop a mine discovered last fall by Messrs. T. Cartwright, Clark and Lewis. The prospects are rich.

PRE-HISTORIC MAN.

What the Pioneer Fossil Hunter of the Inland Empire Has to Say.

Messrs. G. C. Duncan and T. A. Mitchell-Innes, of Pasely, Lake county, who have been stopping at the Umatilla house for several days, leave for home tomorrow.

Mr. Duncan has a national reputation as the discoverer of fossils in the prolific fields of the Inland Empire. He has been in the pursuit of this special occupation for more than eighteen years, a great portion of the time in the service of Princeton and Yale colleges, and many of the erudite expositions on pre-historic animals, by leading professors, have originated from his research. As he has progressed it has become to him a fascinating employment. He cannot resist its influences successfully. He has discovered an almost perfect kit of tools which could have been used by no other than human hands, which accompanied the horse, cow, dog, hog, and other animals supposed to have been domesticated, then as now. But man is missing. In answer to a question as to how he accounted for this fact the old pioneer said:

"Well, I'll tell you; as near as anybody can ever find out, its just this, when the fearful crash of worlds occurred in those days, man took to the hills; the animals took to the streams; and the altitudes did not contain the elements of preservation that the low lands did, and the trace of man was lost. While relics lead us to know that the animals did exist." These tools of man; pointing to some very valuable fossils, including a saw, a knife, etc., "are all we have to reveal to us his existence in this region then."

The old man is about right; and it is not quite creditable to Oregon to say that on his visit to Portland last week it was impossible for him to enlist any intelligent action to aid him in his researches. If our fossil beds existed in almost any other portion of the civilized world, some sort of an educational institution would spring up from it, and become as acknowledged source of intellect or perspicuity upon that subject, as the Lick observatory has demonstrated its usefulness to us during Mars' "opposition." But what can be expected of a state, even with such fertile resources, that would dismiss as Geologist, such a brainy man as Prof. Hows Condon, because of a calamity howl about his salary being too big—$800.00 a year we think it was.

An Exciting Incident.

In this day and age of the world when our young men have not the opportunity to shoulder the musket and march forth to fight for their country, we do not realize how many brave warriors we have in our midst, nor how much real bravery lies latent on the breasts of our society young men. For instance, a little reminiscence of camp life at Collins landing would not be amiss. One day in July one of the aforesaid young men sallied forth through the woods, the while scraps of poetry in keeping with the situation were running through his mind, and every vestige of common things were swept aside. Suddenly, on looking ahead, coming right toward him, what should he behold but, what to his poetical mind was a huge black bear, which calmly gazed on him with an air that plainly said "Johannie get your gun," and in less time than it takes to tell it, the camp was surprised by a wild-eyed, bare-headed fellow running into camp, grabbing his gun and disappearing. Fulfilling the bible injunction to "bear one another burdens" his comrades immediately followed, the young ladies (ex Zouaves) bringing up the rear, fully determined to do their part should any wounds need dressing. As they came to a halt near the place where the young man's poetical reveries were disturbed, one of the young ladies ran ahead and grabbed up what she termed "a dear little puppy" and started for camp, leaving the young braves gazing wildly around in search of the huge grizzly which the poet had described, but in vain; and to this day he declares that he was not the victim of an hallucination, but that brain, becoming frightened, had skulked away and the "cub" had got in the wrong booth.

CASCADE LOCKS.

How the News of the Contract System was Received.

Special to THE CHRONICLE.]

CASCADE LOCKS, Aug. 15.—The day the news came that the cascade lock completion was to be let by contract entire, groups of men could be seen all over the little city discussing the situation and the probabilities following. A general dissatisfaction was developed, regardless of the advantages to be hoped for. The inhabitants, as you know, as a rule, with the exception of a few old residents, are a class who are here as laborers, who are, while here, dependant on employment on the works. The prevailing opinion of the people is that contractors will employ cheaper labor than that utilized by the government. Some think that work will not be inaugurated under the new regime before Christmas, and in that event the burg will be depopulated by those who are here now as they cannot wait on uncertainties. The townsites is claimed by the railroad company, and the occupants are lessees, paying the company $12 per annum for building room during their stay. The company I understand cannot sell, as there is a cloud on the title.

The fish wheels, traps and nets kept up their catch till 12 o'clock midnight on the 10th, which was very large the last few days. Much to the regret of the fishermen, all the wheels are high and dry since the close of the season notwithstanding report says some violate the law by running after dark.

Quite a large number are rusticated here, and at different places along the river, from The Dalles and Portland. The success and enjoyment of the rusticators this season will undoubtedly increase the number largely next year. The fishing attractions and inducements offered to the Isak Walton, and the scenic beauty of the wonderful Columbia, region which captivates all who have availed themselves of the advantages and pleasures afforded them, when pulled away from the cares and rush of a busy life. The invigorating mountain atmosphere and the cool gentle breeze is restful, in exchange for the summer heat. The continual roar of the cascades in the heart of the Cascade mountains, conduces to make life enchanting and rapturous, not to say healthful.

The Knights of Pythias gave an enjoyable remembrance on the anniversary occasion of the foundation of that order at this place, in the Leavens hall. C. E. Wyley, esq., superintendent of construction of the locks, delivered an appropriate and eloquent address, following which the seats were removed and the mazy dance, to the strains of music, kept up to a late hour.

Misses Caddie Booth and Annie Fulton made a short visit to Brooks' camp last Monday, from Collins landing.

Your old friend Brooks while out trouting, in addition to a successful catch, caught a fine ducking by going all under and coming out wet—all over. Mr. Crum, of Herman creek camp, was a guest at the K. of P. reunion. He returned today to join his camp mates. He reports having fine sport, trouting and hunting.

Speaking of fishing, Eagle and Hamilton creeks are the favorite streams, and anglers from Portland are frequently on them.

The great rush for the clear mountain streams has lessened the catch largely, and other resorts are in quest. This section was visited by a fine light rain this morning, which made the air very refreshing.

What is Theosophy?

Of course, to get a more complete idea of the subject you will attend the free lecture at the Court house this evening. In answer to the question, however, Dr. Griffiths said to a representative of THE CHRONICLE today:

Theosophy is a rational philosophy, which appeals to that ever increasing number of independent students and thinkers who, because dissatisfied with current conceptions as to mans origin, development and destiny, search for more light thereon. Theosophy offers knowledge upon many perplexing problems of life, and human existence which are either not considered by other systems, denied, relegated to the unknowable, or to that weakest of all subterfuges, a special providence. From a theosophical standpoint nothing is too sacred for investigation. The gods themselves are questioned; reverently, but still, questioned. It is believed that whatsoever the human mind desires knowledge upon, is a demand of the ever expanding soul, which calls never in vain, but shall be satisfied and supplied from out the unfathomable depths of our own being, and from the inexhaustible resources of our common mother nature. Theosophy is the root essence of the philosophies and religions of all peoples of whatsoever age. All have origin in it, Universal brotherhood, Karma and Reincarnation are the fundamental teachings of theosophy and constitute the basis and rational of all human conditions and processes of evolution.

In the lecture to be given here, Dr. Griffiths will consider the questions of adepts, cycles, a personal god, vicarious atonement and Physical Heredity. The lecture is free, and all are cordially invited, especially students and thinkers.

40 cents buys a box of Tanglefoot at Blakeley & Houghtons.

Our young friend H. J. Green of Portland, offers us a valuable assistant in his proffer of one of the best bred, and handsomest bulldogs in the world, if the term handsome can be applied to this species of canine, but as we are getting along very nicely now with one revolver, think we had best let well enough alone. If we owned that dog here in The Dalles, we should be obliged to keep a well stocked magazine to stand off the owners of other dogs that our dog licked, every few minutes, every day.

Portland papers speak highly of The Dalles delegates to the Turners festival. About 5000 people attended the exercises at Robes's park Sunday evening, the grand male chorus of over one hundred trained voices under the direction of Louis Damasch, the popular tenor, were listened to. The effort was well received. Then came the prize singing between double quartets from Portland, Seattle and The Dalles. Among the pieces rendered Harmonia, of The Dalles, Carl Gottfried, director, sang, "Was ist des Deutschen Vaterland?"

A Hard Corner.

The age of 30 is a hard corner for a woman to turn, and 35 is still harder. She feels that she is fast leaving her youth behind her. But there is no reason why a woman should be faded and passe at 35, or even 45. The chief cause of the early fading of American women is found in the fact that many of them suffer from some form of female weakness or disease that robs the face of its bloom, draws dark circles about the eyes, brings early wrinkles and sallowness, and stamps the face and figure with signs of ill-health. Dr. Prices Favorite Prescription will cure all these troubles, will bring back the lost bloom, and remove the pains and ailments which make women grow old before their time. Guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) refunded.

To the Public.

I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the public, as I do to my friends and patrons. I used it myself after other well-known remedies had failed, and it cured me in a few minutes. I recommend it candidly and cheerfully upon its merits, not from a financial standpoint, because I have others in stock on which I make a larger profit, but because Chamberlain's is the best remedy I know of for bowel complaints. There is no doubt about it, it does the work—JAMES FORGY, Druggist, McVeytown, Penn. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w

The Old Times are Not In It.

While at our other store at Big Island, Va., last April, I was taken with a very severe attack of diarrhea. I never had it worse in my life. I tried several old-time remedies, such as Blackberry Wine, Paregoric and Laudanum without getting any relief. My attention was then called to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy by Mr. R. C. Tinsley who had been handling it there, and in less than five minutes after taking a small dose I was entirely relieved. —O. G. BURFORD, Harris Creek, Amherst Co., Va.
