The Omaha Bee reports a marked subsidence of the third party movement throughout the middle west. When the American farmer puts his thinker to work he is sometimes a little hasty in his conclusions; but he can be relied upon every time to get back into the right road.

Forest fires north of Spokane warped 200 yards of railway so much out of shape as to be useless, and consumed several cars. The fire now covers a vast expanse of heavily timbered country and is beyond all control. A fresh breeze is blowing and no one knows where it will stop.

Veteran Firemen.

The State Volunteer firemen association issued the following circular to the officers and members of The Dalles fire department:

Gentlemen: You are cordially invited to take part in the First Annual Parade of the Volunteer Firemen's Association of the state of Oregon, which will take place on the 5th of Sept., 1892, in the city of Portland. The line of march will be formed on that day at one o'clock p. m. sharp. The right hand of fellowship will be freely and heartily extended to all volunteer firemen to join us, each company will elect three (3) delegates to the state convention, and each company will be represented by the appointment of one member on the committee of arrangements.

Let every company be fully represented and make this one of the grandest parades that has ever taken place in the state. There will be a meeting of the committee at the rooms of the Veteran Firemen's Association on Saturday evening.

Last evening responding to the call, there and together at the council chamber Messrs. Robt. Holman, A. D. Tuffis and Geo. Clark, of Portland, and Messrs. Judd Fish, John Blazer, Richard Oloster, Geo. A. Liebe, Aug. Buchler, Sam Klein, J. H. Wood, W. H. Butts, B. Wolfe, F. Lemke, A. J. Moses, Henry Whitmore, H. Clough, Ben Wilson, Geo. Mungler, Frank Roach, F. W. L. Skibbe, D. C. Ireland, Louis Payette, Jerome Lauer, and others.

It was moved that the veterans attend the 1st annual meeting, and that Chief Engineer Fish call a meeting of the department Aug. 30th, Tuesday next, to consider the subject.

Somebody sends samples of Oregon onyx to Buffalo. The reporter says: One of the most attractive, rich and costly displays if the show of onyx and the uses to which it is put, made by Messrs. Lantz & Co. No. 861 Main street, Buffalo. Most prominence is given to valuable specimens of the rarely beautiful onyx discovered by Mr. Lantz during his recent trip to the Puget slope. The value of the precious stone lies in its translucency. The specimens and many others on exhibition at their store are the most perfect in this quality of any onyx that has ever been found. And the fact that Messrs. Lantz & Co., control the output of the three most valuable quarries on this continent gives them absolute control also of the American market for the finer grades of manufactured articles. One magnificent slab over five feet in length commands much attention from those who are interested in artistic and rich house-furnishings, and this is supplemented by smaller slabs of great beauty, tables, lamps, workboxes, etc., all of which are taken from the regular stock at their retail store. The exquisite combination effect of onyx and brass is fully illustrated.

Col. Chapman's Bill.

Tidings. Col. W. W. Chapman, of Portland, is out with the draft of a bill to be presented to the Oregon legislature, providing for the establishment of some arbitration to prevent labor strikes in this state. The question will undoubtedly come before the legislature at its next session, and there seems to be more hope of progress in the right direction by an attempt at general arbitration than in any other way yet suggested. The strike is a powerful weapon, but it is a two-edged one, and its execution is felt most severely by those who wield it. The general public is always affected by a strike of any magnitude, and the subject is one in which the state has the most vital interest. If there be a practical remedy in legislation it cannot be found too soon. Whatever tends to bring capital and labor into closer union and to lead to amicable adjustment, rather than hostile contention over points of difference, is surely in the line of wisdom and true statesmanship.

Chicago Horse Market.

J. S. Cooper, commission salesman of horses, Union stock yards, Chicago, says: "The market for the week ending August 20th showed remarkable strength and activity, in the face of a strong counter attraction, such as the Northwestern breeders' association trotting meeting, and the unfortunate railroad strikes in the east. This, under ordinary circumstances, would have been sufficient to make a very quiet market, and some were discouraged from buying, but the majority bought, regardless of consequences, and the result was encouraging to sellers.

Work horses generally, like the previous week, had the call in the following order: Draft horses, streeters and general purpose horses, with fair inquiry for extra good driving and coach teams. Every day brings new inquiries for branded range horses and thousands of these could be handled to advantage in the next couple of months.

The supply of these has not at any time this year been equal to one-tenth of the demand. The following is a summary of prices:

Streeters, 1200 to 1800 lbs.	115 " 145
Draft horses, 1600 lbs.	100 " 25
Express horses	170 " 200
Drivers	125 " 200
Range horses	80 " 60

Death of Mrs. A. J. McLellan.

"Rest at last." Such are the words which announce the death of Mrs. A. J. McLellan of Victoria, B. C.

Her death occurred after a long and painful illness, during which her Christian fortitude and sweet patience, her constant thoughtfulness for others and her many generousities and charities seemed to give a glory to the crown which the Master even then had placed upon her brow. No one entered that sick chamber as friend or comforter who did not himself receive a blessing in strengthened faith as he beheld the grace of God which wrought through suffering the perfection of Christian character. One who was a guest in that beautiful home upon the Gorge Road, overlooking the bay and the snowy Olympic Range raising the horizon beyond, marvelled then, and has marvelled ever since, that such cheerful hospitality and desire for further pleasure could go on with such acute suffering as even then held that frail body in its grasp. But since then those who have gathered there have marvelled quite as much that her sufferings did not divert her attention from works of religion and charity, but rather give emphasis to her interest in what had for many years been the joy of her life.

"We may not know the glory and the goodness that on the spirit shines,
That borne on earth its agony and sadness
With patience so divine.

"We only know her weakness is ended
That she from pain is free;
That her pure soul has to its God ascended,
In joy and liberty.

"'Tis ours to prize the nature we inherit,
Which she has glorified;
Nor doubt the power of the immortal spirit,
Since she has lived and died."

Mr. and Mrs. McLellan were at one time residents of our city, and won for themselves a high and loving appreciation among us and many will be the thoughts of sincerest sympathy which will go forth to the bereaved husband.

Mrs. McLellan was a sister to Mrs. A. R. Roscoe, who with the husband and children are included in the sympathies and prayers of this community. C.

High Old Guessers.

Review. The Tacoma News, which affects to know all about the labor problem, says that "organized labor is a comparatively new social force." Labor was compactly and aggressively organized in and a powerful social and political factor in England for many centuries. The News is one of these democratic papers which indulge in a great deal of guessing about politics and government.

Importations in Order.

Review. The democracy don't enthuse a bit over the row at Olympia and the ticket put forth by the quarrelsome crowd. It is time it were importing an other lot of eastern speakers.

A Traveling Man's Experience With Diarrhoea.

I am a traveling man and have been afflicted with what is called chronic diarrhoea for some ten years. Last fall I was in Western Pennsylvania, and accidentally was introduced to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I ventured to make a trial and was wonderfully relieved. I would like now to introduce it among my friends. H. M. Lewis, 24 Freeman street, Cleveland, Ohio. For sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists.

The Black Flag is up.

The gifted and gallant Col. Henry Watterson, has touched once more the tangles of the star-eyed ones luciferous locks and has had the usual shock!

"We war against protection, plutocracy and agrarian pensionmongery. And we propose to carry the war into Africa; to shake the rotten citadels of unholy greed to their foundations and to make the robbers howl. The black flag is up against corruption in high places. No dalliance with zealots; no quarter to thieves. If this be treason, let the galled jade wince and make the most of it; for when the battle is over and the victory is won, our withers will be found to be as ever, staunch and true, unwarsted and unwrung."

Whoop, hooray! Away with plutocracy. Away with "pensionmongery," whatever that may be. Shake the citadel, make Rome and the robbers howl, carry the war into Africa, put spurs into the flat flanks of the pampered jades of Asia, pile Pelion on Ossa and both upon the skivey top of old Olympus take arms against a sea of troubles, eat a crocodile, sit upon a monument, grin like the young-eyed cherubim, bite off your face to spite your nose, throw pity to the dogs, make the welkin, ring, fear not a painted devil, leavy thy vain bible-babble, be smart as lizard's stings, speak startlingly and rash, environ with wolves the trembling lamb, protection, fight till your eyelids will no longer wag, pour the sweet milk of concord into hell, be as your old selves again, and let all split! Ay, let the pebbles on the beach fillip the stars and rainbows kiss the starry eyes. The black flag is up, and the jig is not. Hooray for poetry; nine cheers and a Tammany tiger for the star-eyed goddess and the same number for Henry Watterson, the generous, intrepid and untiring leader of the war into Africa; and may his withers remain unwrung forever.

Lish Applegate Sulks.

Tidings. General Lish Applegate came up out of his rural retreat in Josephine county last week, and was shaking hands last Saturday with his old friends, neighbors and fellow sufferers in Ashland. He was looking better than for years, and has fattened upon the contempt for public office and ecclesiastical politics upon which he has fed during his retirement. The general is feeling well, too, and was effervescing with social and economic philosophy and with Oregon political history, as of yore. He is not playing the "bad man" act in politics—ripping the government up the back, or shooting it full of holes—as some of the local newspapers have intimated, but has sort of withdrawn unto himself, as it were, to allow the world to run along without his assistance and see how she will make it. Some papers had said the general would take the stump for Weaver, and some papers had said he wouldn't, and so the Tidings sought an interview with him, to look out at the door and see how the battle will progress without the aid of one who has usually been in the thick of the fight. "Will you take any part in the present campaign in Oregon, General?" asked the reporter. "Well, I am, not yet fully determined as to that. I am going to make a journey down through Oregon to Portland, to see old friends and old familiar country, and I may make a few speeches before the election takes place. If I do, they will be non-partisan, you may say, but strongly political.

The Least Important.

Oregonian. The state of Washington got the better of Seattle in the democratic state convention, but only after two days' sustained conflict, and apparently by a small majority. Mr. James Hamilton Lewis gallantly went down with his town, refusing to accept the nomination for governor upon a platform which condemned the Lake Washington canal scheme. How much of the virtue of necessity there was in his heroic abdication nothing but a ballot could have shown, and the world will never know. After devoting two days to the transcendent question of indorsement to the canal, the convention spent an evening in the less important business of nominating candidates.

Saved His Child's Life.

A. N. Dillerburgh, York, Neb., says: "The other day I came home and found my little boy down with cholera morbus, my wife scared, not knowing what to do. I went straightway and got a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and gave it according to directions. You never saw such a change in a child. His limbs and body were cold. Erubred his limbs and body with my hands, and after I had given him the second dose he went to sleep, and, as my wife says, 'from a death-bed he was up playing in three hours.' It saved me a doctor bill of about three dollars, and what is better, it saved my child. I can recommend it with a clear conscience." For sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists.
