JUDGE NELSON'S DECISION.

Speaking of patent medicines, the Judge says: "I wish to deal fairly and honorably with all, and when I find an article that will do what it is recommended to do, I am not ashamed to say so. I am acquainted with Dr. Vanderpool (having been treated by him for cancer), and have used his blood medicine, known as the S. B. Headache and Liver Cure, and while I am 75 years old, and have used many pills and other remedies for the blood, liver and kidneys, I must say that for a kidney tonic in Bright's disease, and as an alternative for the blood, or to correct the action of the stomach and bowels, it is a very superior remedy, and beats anything I ever tried."

RUSSIA MUST ANSWER

A Terrible Account to Settle With the Civilized World.

THE CHOLERA INVASION SOURCE.

An Appalling Supplement to the Awful Work of Famine.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE BY RUSSIA.

The Coming Problem in International Sanitation - The Boundaries of Nations.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The World this morning reproduces the following from its issue of Nov. 11, 1891, with comments: Should present fears be realized and Russia become the starting point of another invasion of western Europe by cholera, the civilized world will have a terrible account to settle with the czar. This was when Russian peasants were dying by the tens of thousands from famine. In the wake of starvation and death a plague had already made its appearance, which Russian physicians called typhus, but which subsequent events proved was true Asiatic cholera. The world now knows that the dreaded cholera has invaded western Europe and America. It also knows that Europe has propagated the plague and that the victims in that country in less than a twelvemonth form an appalling supplement to the work of famine. Persia and other Asiatic countries are rarely free from cholera, but western Europe is not at the mercy of Asia. It is only when the germs are carried across the Russian border westward that Europe trembles. And that is what has now occurred, through the wretched inefficiency of governmental inspection and the criminal neglect of so-called bureau officers. Russia's responsibility to the civilized world grows apace. Experience has shown that the quarantining regulations of western Europe and America are not an infallible prevention. Cholera can be limited, and in time stamped out, but the risk and loss to communities are incalculable. Some of the plagues sent westward seem to grow in virulence as they gain foothold in other countries. This is one of the coming problems in international sanitation. As preventive medicine and hygiene are the recognized factors in obviating epidemics, questions affecting the public health can take no account of the boundaries of nations. If the czar's dominions are to continue an epidemic breeder, he and his government may have to be taught a salutary lesson.

McMinnville Artesian Well.

McMINNVILLE, Sept. 7.—An artesian well, being bored near the depot, has been sending up a volley of sulphurous air since 2 o'clock. The drill passed through a 10-foot strata of sandstone at a depth of 160 feet, when the mud and water was struck. This was thrown into the air, bespattering the surrounding buildings. Then followed the dry air. A steam gauge gave the pressure at thirty-five pounds per square inch. The temperature is 56° Fahr. It flows through an inch and a half iron pipe, and has flowed unabated for five hours. The well has been visited by hundreds. Water is expected when the air is exhausted, and if the pressure is kept up it will raise the water nearly 100 feet.

Commissioner Scates.

NORTHAMPTON, Sept. 9.—Gov. Russell's new nominee for savings bank commissioner, Mr. David W. C. Scates, has been erroneously reported to be a resident of Newburyport. He lives in Northampton, where he has resided for the past ten years, having previously lived in New Hampshire, serving two terms in the legislature of that state. Latterly he has been engaged in business in Northampton, and for two years he was superintendent of streets here. He comes highly recommended for the position of savings bank commissioner, having a liberal education, and being an expert in the examination of books and accounts.

Please Arise and Explain.

Review. As the campaign progresses we hope the Washington democracy will tell us what they think about the state bank plank in the national platform. President Harrison and Mr. Blaine have shown the dangers of the proposition. Why are the democratic leaders so silent about its beauties?

The Staff P. P. Men Are Made of.

Times. Disgruntled Irish Applegate wants it distinctly understood that he is not going to say that he likes the misuse to which he was subjected during the present administration; but he will not jump clear over the traces until he gets his political bearings a little better in these troublous times. He will take a tour to the north in a few weeks, unless the administration does something to prevent it, and make a few non-partisan political speeches on the way, in which he will endeavor to apologize for the lack of common sense displayed by Harrison and his minions in the ecclesiastical wing of the G. O. P. While he is as yet a republican, and, of course, loyal and loyal, he won't guarantee that the fur will not fly to some extent during his tour, unless something is done in the interim to change his views. No ordinary appointment will suffice to act as the balm of Gilead, either.

Want Everything in Sight.

Star. Once upon a time a dog swimming across a river with a nice beef-bone in his mouth, acted exactly like the Wells-Fargo express company. Seeing the reflection of the beef in the water under his nose, and thinking it was another piece of beef, he snapped at it and lost his bone. Not long ago the government paid an express company $3,500 for carrying $7,000,000 in gold from Philadelphia to New York. This was more than the cost of bringing nearly three times that amount across the continent. The greed of the Wells-Fargo gang lately compelled the government to ship at its own risk $20,000,000 in gold from San Francisco, and it looks now as if the government would transfer the express business to its own hands, for it is well aware that Wells-Fargo, like the dog in the fable, wants everything in sight.

Fire in the Berry Patch.

Klamath Star. A strong and rapid current of flame flew like a red steer through the dry blackberry patch this side of Coquille lake last week and the results were dreadful to beholders. There was a wild leaping back of men, women, bears and horses, and a glittering of tins. Fluttering skirts, coat tails and horses' hind hoofs receded rapidly from the fiery front, while far in the distance ahead of these several fine $10 bear pelts seemed to be waiting up the Cascades. Harry Pearson, of Keno, says several horses got their hair scorched off, and two young ladies whose names he was unable to learn were badly burned about the face and neck. The cause of the fire is the thoughtlessness of some camper who left his fire where it could creep forth and wing itself for a hot pursuit of all living things, including the camper himself.

An Ingenious Dun.

A valley merchant has the following ingenious dun embodied in his local advertisement. It is good reading: "The best way to keep your credit good is by not using it too indiscriminately. A thing to remember: September is the month to pay bills, whether you receive duns or not. The best time to pay bills is when you have the money. Never put this off until those you owe have to employ an attorney to assist you in raising the money. It is dangerous business."

Has Modified His Wishes.

Conlee City News. When we started the News we had three objects in view—governor, senator or congressman. After we were "fairly in it" we found so many aspirants wanting the same soft snaps that now we are looking up some other worthy object by which we can reach the highest rounds in the ladder of fame.

Music in The Palace.

Colfax Commoner. The hum of the threshers, the whirr of headers and the strong voices of the drivers mingling with the chuck-a-chuck of the grain wagons, make the pastoral music which floats to one on the breezes of Indian summer, and the tunes they play are stirring ones.

Good Advice.

Walla Walla Statesman. The people of Spokane gave Jim Hill $2,000,000 to bring the Great Northern to their city. Now, then, Seattle, show your grit and give $3,000,000 yourselves to dig your canal, and dig it in 1893.

Influence of War Vessels of Foreign Powers in Venezuelan Waters.

CONSTANT FACTIONAL FIGHTING

President Villagas Comes Here, Not as an Exile, but for the Best Interests of Law.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—A New York special announces the arrival there of President Villagas, and a number of refugees from Venezuela, who were enabled to leave Venezuela because of the influence of war vessels of foreign powers. Passengers on the same vessel say that the state of affairs in Venezuela is worse than ever. It was formerly a struggle for supremacy between parties, but now the war has degenerated into constant fighting between factions and brigands, so that all of Venezuela is in a state bordering on anarchy. "I am still president of Venezuela. Nobody has any right to the title, for I have not resigned," said Guillermo Tell Villagas. "I was neither imprisoned, nor was I exiled. General Mendoza was commander of a portion of the government army. He refused to obey the order of Ybarra, who was my minister of war, and suddenly and unexpectedly returned to Caracas with his command. He sought me immediately, and I urged him to counsel certain arbitrary acts which I refused to perform, having proper respect and regard for the laws and constitution of my country, which I was bound by oath to uphold and maintain. Thereupon he proclaimed himself dictator of the republic. I was unable to perform the functions of my office, and deemed it best to retire from the country."

A Sprig of Gentility.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—It seems to be definitely settled that the ancestral acres of the Marquis of Ailesbury can be sold to liquidate its owner's debts, and that their future owner will be Lord Iveagh, who belongs to the great brewing house of Guinness. Here are sixteen miles of forest, located right in the garden of England, and possessing a historic interest that is beyond the measure of wealth. Its new owner will be more worthy of the memories of the place than the worthless sprig who has squandered a vast fortune. Lord Iveagh has by honest work over the vats of his ancestors, made a position for himself, as well as money enough to pay £750,000 for the Savernake mansion and its vast acres. The brewer of brown stout is to be congratulated, as are also the Marquis of Ailesbury's numerous creditors.

The King is Dethroned.

Telegram. The ruling monarch of pugilism is dethroned and the coronet of muscle will ornament another brow. Beef alone is conquered by beef and brain combined. How are the mighty fallen! Now the rabble will lift their hats and cheer a new king, while the former leader withdraws by himself and inquires for the shortest route to oblivion. The offspring of refined Boston, the product of the land of baked beans galore, the demolisher of faces, and the chief exponent of the "manly" art, is in disgrace.

Transitory Honors.

Courier. What a contrast between the bard that passed the portals of death Wednesday morning and the pugilists that fought to a finish within the gates of the Olympic Club that night. The fame and glory of the former shall not die as long as literature lives, but the honors of the latter are only transitory and fleeting.
