LOCAL BREVITIES.

Clam chowder, game, etc., at Haight's restaurant tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wilson returned on the noon train today.

We are in it—the babies—at Herrin's gallery, Tuesday, Nov. 1st.

Prof. M. V. Rork arrived in the city on the noon passenger today.

Free baby day at Herrin's gallery near the postoffice Tuesday, Nov. 1st.

Supt. Troy Shelly was in the city today attending to his duties as school superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Phillips left for their new home in Portland this morning, by steamer Regulator.

The cold snap in Russia will be a God send to the people in freezing out Old Bacillus, of the cholera family.

Christian church services in the Congregational church at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Preaching by J. W. Jenkins. Subject, Christian Unity.

Hon. Binger Hermann will speak at the Court house, Tuesday evening next. This simple announcement is sufficient to fill the house.

Mr. Raymond Davis of Portland, is in the city. Frank French is also expected this evening, and they will spend the Sunday here.

The semi-annual meeting of the county farmers' alliance will be held at Nansen, commencing Tuesday morning, Nov. 1st, at 10 o'clock.

Premiums awarded at the late county fair will be paid at the office of the secretary, Mr. J. O. Mack, any time after Thursday next, November 3d, 1892.

The democracy are very anxious that people should know that the name of Nathan Pierce will appear twice on the same ballot. But he can only be voted for once.

Mr. D. M. French has quite actively entered the arena as a wheat buyer, and will stay by it. The market today was steady, the price closing at 63 cents for No. 1 Klickitat.

We shall esteem it a big favor, if some one or more persons in each precinct will send the returns of the election on the 8th to THE CHRONICLE just as quickly as possible after the votes are counted.

Bring on your babies, little, big, old and young, black headed, red headed, bald headed and pigeon toed. God bless our home. Herrin is the boy who can take their photo. Free, Tuesday only, Nov. 1st, near the postoffice.

In the family of Mr. Davis, who removed from Mill creek yesterday to the East End, a clear case of diphtheria has developed. The authorities have been notified and a flag was put up at the residence today.

Mr. and Mrs. Erskin of Erskenville, were in the city today en route to Portland. Their daughter, Mrs. George E. Williams of Seattle, has just completed a very pleasant visit with them at their country home.

The Troutdale Champion started off with its second year of publication yesterday, at a pretty square trot. If Bro. Baker doesn't slacken his efforts the Champion will be able to take a little gall up before the close of volume 3.

T. W. Harris, representing the Oregonian (?) Britannica advertising scheme is operating in The Dalles. If this is such a fine thing for the people, why cover it with the suspicion of a fake by keeping so still about it, and working the purchaser on the quiet? Come out, like men, if it is legitimate business.

The Pasco News, speaking of the canal talk v. an open Columbia river, shoots the spot when it says the river is of interest to the entire state and if the Seattle papers would talk it to the people instead of harping away on the canal not being in politics, the state of Washington might soon boast of a natural highway for its inland productions and at the same time increase its wealth many thousand dollars.

"Seattle, LaConner Route, U. S. Mail and Great Northern Express, Seattle, Wash." Is the striking headlines which adorn a letter of newsy information which Mr. Henry Maier is in receipt of from Harry Blanchard. The spirit struck him that day to make some inquiries about his old home, and Mr. Maier is preparing suitable responses to the numerous inquiries. He is running the steamer Fairhaven on the above route, and is doing a good business. Harry has a host of friends here who are glad to hear from him.

Returning Knights inform us that The Dalles and Centerville were strongly bound together last night, by the reunion on the occasion of the instituting Mt. Adams Lodge No. 495, K. of P., and of the initiation of several new members. There were present knights from Goldendale, Wasco and The Dalles. Every citizen of Centerville appointed himself a committee of one to make the sojourners as pleasant as possible, and brought back with them the feelings that Centerville has a most hospitable class of people. The welcome was a royal one which will be remembered in years to come.

The Reading Voters.

Record. The heavy registration both in New York city and state is surprising in view of oft repeated comment upon the surface—that the ta-ra-ra boom-de-a-ay vein has been worked out, and that they have been doing a great deal of quiet reading and thinking while the spell-binders have been shouting to empty benches. This is favorable for the republicans, as a majority of the reading voters are of that faith.

A Salmon Producer.

Robert D. Hume is the only salmon canneryman on the Pacific coast who carries on his business legitimately. He raises the fish, as a man would fruit, before canning them. No matter what may come, Bob proposes to have a crop of salmon annually. His latest proposed enterprise is the establishment of a hatchery at the Huntley place, opposite the mouth of Lobster creek on Rogue river, recently purchased by him. This, with the hatchery he proposes to establish in Josephine county, and his present hatchery at Gold Beach, ought to fill Rogue river with salmon.

A TIME FOR EVERYTHING.

The Law of Supply and Demand Made Applicable.

THE CHRONICLE recently undertook to explain that one of the principal reasons for our faith that the Columbia would now be speedily opened and made a free river; and that The Dalles would rapidly develop into a milling and manufacturing center; was because of the inevitable law of supply and demand. The times demand it. We have shown that two railways like we have now cannot haul the crop of 1893 to the seaboard. The increased wool production, demand an open river. The subject is illustrated in various other ways. For instance, in 1865, Hon. W. H. Packwood spent a lot of money up near Huntington, opening a coal mine. Wise (?) people thought it was a foolish waste of money. There was no demand for coal. But Mr. Packwood knew there would be a demand in time, and he drove his tunnel in 200 feet, and uncovered a vein of coal three feet in thickness. There was nothing to justify the search for coal beds in those days; consequently the execution of the work was abandoned but not till results proved that coal in good qualities existed along the Snake river about Old's ferry.

After all these years Mr. Packwood has again returned to the scene of his early labors and is now determined to develop what he is certain will prove lasting and valuable coal fields. Mr. Packwood is an old timer in Baker country, one of that stamp who did much to develop the resources of the country and make it what it is today. He was a member of the first constitutional convention of Oregon, served in the Rogue river and other Indian wars in the early days on this coast and at all times has borne a conspicuous and prominent part in the upbuilding and advancement of civilization in the northwest, and from a long acquaintance with him, and a knowledge of his persevering nature, THE CHRONICLE joins in congratulation that he has lived to realize that his coal is in demand, such as to compel the vein to be opened up again. He went up last week, and put a force of men at work cleaning out the old tunnel run by him in 1865.

Was it Wolfe?

The Dufur Dispatch is informed that men working on the Clear creek survey saw at a distance some object that soon dodged into the brush out of sight. "Thinking it a bear, they sent the dogs in, and were surprised when they drove a man from concealment. The stranger gave no straight account of himself, but was allowed to go his way toward Wapinitia. The following night a horse belonging to J. P. Abbott, who lives just at the edge of the timber was stolen. As that is the route that Wolfe, the murderer, is supposed to have taken, it is probably him. A reward of $250 would soon land him."

There seems to be a well grounded suspicion that Wolfe has come into this country via the Barlow road. The fugitive is the murderer of an East Portland lady, Miss Birdie Merton, whose death will cause the search for the murderer to be pushed with greater vigor than before. Wolfe is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, has dark hair, eyes and mustache, and a very prominent nose. He wore a blue coat, with brown velvet collar, a stiff black hat, and McIntosh overcoat. He was last seen in the John Day country, and was then on horseback. People who know anything regarding the whereabouts of a young man of this description are requested to report at the sheriff's office.

The Champion Wheat Grower—Monument Talked of—Other Notes.

Oregonians sometimes kick because Oregon is not represented at the Chicago fair. The Bowers dredge, the biggest card there, was manufactured in Portland by Maj. Jas. Lotan.

A young lady of Deer lodge has been chosen for the model for the silver statue of Montana, which is to be on exhibition at Chicago next year. She is a native of Oregon, and is said to be possessed of striking beauty.

Cattle men will be glad to hear that they may avail themselves of the privilege of shipping cattle into Kootenai free of duty for breeding purposes. This will be on completion of the reclamation scheme largely taken advantage of.

The Guard says that Mr. Geo. Belshaw of Lane county has received an offer of $200 for his display of wheat made at the Salem fair and Portland exposition, by gentlemen who wish to send the display to Chicago. Mr. Belshaw is the champion wheat grower of the world.

An effort is being made to raise by subscriptions from the masters of vessels arriving at Astoria a sufficient sum to erect a monument to the memory of the captain and crew of the ship Strathblane, who perished when that vessel was wrecked on the coast north of the Columbia, a year ago. The heroism of the captain who threw away his own chance of life in favor of a passenger is recalled in a memorial. A suitable monument erected over their lonely and neglected graves on the shore of the ocean will not only keep their memories fresh, but inspire deeds of heroism in others.

Mr. Bixby has stepped down and out of the Wasco News. His successor is Mr. Jas. W. Armworthy, who says: "We are thoroughly acquainted with the resources and advantages as well as the wants and needs of Sherman county, having lived in the county in the past. We fully realize the necessity of holding the vast advantages of the county before the eyes of the public, and the necessity of a wide awake paper to assist in this work, so with the co-operation of the people we shall endeavor to make the News the leading paper in the Inland Empire, and devoted purely to the interests of the people and the upbuilding of Sherman county generally."

There is now some doubt about Hon. D. P. Thompson becoming the successor of Hon. Sol. Hirsch as minister to Turkey. In answer to a question on the subject, Mr. Thompson said: "My indorsement for the place was made more than a year ago, and since that time nothing further has been said or done about the matter, to my knowledge. I have not had a word of conversation with Mr. Mitchell on this subject, and but a few words with Mr. Dolph since then, and nothing since Mr. Hirsch resigned. I do not know how the report that I would receive the appointment started; but I presume one of the senators or Mr. Hermann has said that this indorsement had been placed on file with the secretary of state. However, this was, as I said, more than a year ago." Mr. Thompson's family will arrive in New York today from Europe.

Please Report.

Subscribers will oblige THE CHRONICLE by promptly reporting if their papers are not delivered, or the delivery boys do not place them in a safe place. The distribution of the papers is one of the most perplexing questions to be solved by a newspaper. If you do not get your paper, kick. We are endeavoring to keep things straight.

The Mormon Temple.

Judge Dennison, who has just returned from an eastern trip, was obliged to give up his visit to Denver last week. When he reached Durango he found a snow storm had set in, which was so severe that he could not proceed further, the snow being three or four feet deep on the railroad track between that point and Denver. He remained in and about Durango for about a week, and then returned home, stopping off at Salt Lake city last Sunday, where he attended services in the tabernacle. There was an immense throng of people in the building. The services were very interesting. There were over 300 people in the choir and they have one of the finest organs in the United States. The magnificent temple on the adjoining block is completed so far as the outside is concerned, but it is not yet finished inside and the grounds are not completed. It is surrounded by a stone wall three feet thick and twelve feet high. It is expected that within six months the temple will be ready for use at a cost of $2,000,000.

The Fence of the Future.

There are a number of strong points in favor of the Tuna Hedge as the fence of the future, the advantage of this kind of a fence may be briefly enumerated as follows: It becomes a perfect barrier against all kinds of domestic animals after three years growth; does not sap or impoverish the ground, being a strictly atmospheric plant, and will not grow from the seed or by cutting the roots hence will not spread, it grows only to a certain uniform height and therefore does not require trimming, it has been thoroughly and successfully tested in northern climates and does not kill out in the winter time, it serves the double purpose of usefulness and ornamentation, as it is an evergreen and blooms during three months of the year, an invitation is extended to thoroughly test its merits, and every one will be convinced that it possesses all the advantages claimed for it. Messrs. Johnson & Payne are now taking orders for the Tuna Hedge and have met with uniform success. Any one wishing a living growing fence something that will not spread and will be a fence for all time to come should give their orders now and get their fence started this fall.

A Cure for Cholera.

There is no use of any one suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy can be procured. It will give relief in a few minutes and cure in a short time. I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used there with great success. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
