OUR COUNTY FAIR.

A Fair Commencement and Promising Outcome.

For the first day the attendance might be said to be good yesterday. In the pavilion the display was being added to so extensively that our reporter deferred making special mention until later on. The ladies have made a very creditable display of fancy work, the floral corner was well filled with beautiful plants, the fruit tables loaded with choice specimens, and Mr. Curtis was out in full with a display of Diamond mill products, while Mr. Booth was preparing to paint another booth red.

In the stock pens and stables were to be seen many fine animals, horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, and on the side poultry, etc., which will be considerably increased today.

Of vegetables the list will be larger than many supposed, but one pumpkin weighing 117 pounds which was to have been exhibited by Hon. Robert Mays, will be shown in fragments, as the Hon. Mayor was informed that his twin grand daughters had arrived at Mr. Thompson's residence just at the critical moment when he held the pumpkin on a poise, unloading it, and he was so surprised and taken back that he for the instant forgot what he was doing, and the pumpkin took a start and fell with a thud splitting it into fragments. It is thought that there must have been some design on the part of the gentleman who thus "broke the news" to Mayor Mays, as it is said that C. W. Haight of Bake Oven had a pumpkin he wished to enter, and he was afraid Mays would walk the chalk for first prize.

The first race yesterday was a quarter dash, won by Mamie S. 1; Rockland, 2; and Frank Hastings, 3. Time, :25.

Next came a saddle horse race, half-mile dash. Six horses entered; purses were awarded the three fastest, in the order in which they came in: John S., 1st; Hartland Boy, 2nd; Dandy, 3rd. Time, :25 1/2.

Following this was one of Bill Nye's Jockey Jokes. To carry it out the management secured three two-year-old colts to trot the race, mile heats, best two in three. After persuasion, Mr. Snipes allowed his Nancy Hanks to enter, then Schooling put up Rooper's Bunch Grass, and Walker put Dandy in.

It was a Dandy race. But Dandy was sent to the stable, as he didn't get in after the first heat had been given to Nancy Hanks until the clock run down. Time, 4:39 (standard.)

Pools kept on selling with Dandy in the race, however, and until the horses came on, at the expiration of the 10 minutes between acts, it wasn't known outside just where Dandy had gone.

After the usual backing and filling one of the men in the judges' stand got mad; that is according to Nye; and as the horses were passing under the wire he rapped the drivers up and notified Schooling that he must win that heat, or he would be fined $10.

Schooling won the heat. Time 4:52. Four hours and fifty-two minutes? It was now late, and as one of the gentlemen in the judges stand had to go to Portland to see how things were running at the Hotel Perkins, the finish was postponed until today.

The race was intensely interesting to half a dozen Indians who remained to see it, but to almost every white man, woman and child, who didn't understand that it was a burlesque, it was disgusting.

About the only men left on the track at the close of the second heat, were those who had pool tickets. The grand stand was empty and the society was cheerfully cussed for letting such animals enter for purses. But one man was found in the whole crowd to speak kindly of the contest, and that was Mr. Linus Hubbard who said the horses deserved credit anyhow, for one thing—they had beaten Maj. Handbury's time at Cascade Locks 18 years.

J. O. Mack, the secretary, has ordered an 8-Day clock to time the next race of this class. Stop watches are no good—they run down before the horses get in. Races today were as reported in the programme, gentlemen's roadster, which was a proud contest by six men owners of good horses.

Horses to saddle, 1/2 mile and repeat: Siretta, g. m. J. O. Mack; Frank Hastings, b. h. Wiseman; Joe, b. h., Benton; Pomery sec., b. g. H. J. Green. But owing to the lateness of the hour we are unable to furnish the summary.

COLUMBUS DAY.

Reminiscences of the Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina.

The windows of THE CHRONICLE office today are decorated with engravings illustrative of the voyage of Columbus, 400 years ago. On October 11th there was rather a heavy sea on. A green branch floated past the Santa Maria, and on board the Pinta the men picked up a small carved stick, which seemed to have been ornamented by means of some metallic tool. Here were signs both of land and of humanity, and the men grew elated. The Pinta sailed the fastest, and was ahead of the admiral, and presently land was descried from her deck, whereupon, according to an understanding, her flag was hoisted and she fired a gun. At two in the morning of October 12th land was plainly seen at about two leagues distance. The ships shortened sail and laid to, awaiting daylight, when it was seen that they were abreast of a small island—and the marvelous undertaking of Columbus was happily concluded.

It may well have been that, as has been related, the crew of the admiral flung themselves passionately at the feet of Columbus and implored his pardon for their doubts and repining. As for himself, it is certain that he was as modest in the moment of victory as he had been dauntless and confident through the long days when all about him despaired. Then came the ceremony of landing upon the new-found country. The island, covered thick with trees and tropical verdure, sloped down to the coral reef and the beach along its edge, where were gathered, quickly as daylight brightened the scene, groups of natives entirely naked, who gazed in wonder and half in fear at the strange floating creatures with wings flapping white in the breeze that lay just outside the reef.

Columbus found that the island was named, in the language of the natives, Guanabani. He named it San Salvador. His first impressions of the natives were strongly in their favor, and he never changed as to this. They were gentle, generous, faithful and obliging. Had succeeding adventurers treated them as did Columbus, they would never have lost these characteristics. The contrary was the case, the Spaniards abusing their confidence and maltreating them, and they become suspicious, revengeful and bloodthirsty. Their island and those explored by Columbus at a later period seemed to him and his followers a veritable paradise.

Thus the most momentous occurrence since the Crusade, unless it were the discovery of printing, took place, after a perfectly safe and exceedingly monotonous voyage of six weeks, in the simplest and most unconventional fashion imaginable. To Castile and Leon, Columbus had given a new world, and a handful of wondering savages were the only witnesses to the sublime act beside those who participated in it. Looking back upon this scene from perspective of four centuries, it seems incredible in its lack of ostentation and ceremonial. Indeed, there is something almost sublime in the tranquility which marked this wonderful adventure, whose outcome was to be the changing of the entire existence of all humanity. Two months spent amid favoring winds and seas, the flight of birds, the passing by of ocean weeds, and then—AMERICA.

To no other such voyage was there ever vouchsafed such a conclusion. Not all of the world that has been discovered

A Cholera Scare.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things ever made." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used there with great success. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
