THE FACTS ABOUT WOOL.

Justice, Bateman & Co., a firm of wool-buyers, not desiring to see the wool-growing industry ruined by the removal of the tariff, are supplying the country with statistics on the price of wool which give Mr. Springer, author of the free wool bill in the last house, deep concern. Mr. Justice has shown that during the past twenty-five years American wool has been worth on the average 51 per cent. more than the same grades have been worth in London, and a part of his figures have been taken from Springer's own report. Mr. Springer attempted to reply to this showing in a speech at DeKalb, Illinois, a few days later, and while admitting that the quotations on American wools were taken from his own figures, urged in reply that the London quotations were false and misleading. However, he had no London quotations of his own to offer in rebuttal and fell back on his report to the house. In that report he said:

It was clearly demonstrated that the experience of the past quarter of a century of high protective tariffs in wool and woolen goods has proved the policy to be disastrous to the wool grower, disastrous to the wool manufacturer, and disastrous to the American consumers.

These are wild and random utterances, incapable of substantiating and unworthy a man of national prominence. Reference to the statistical abstract of the United States shows that in 1867 (25 years ago) the United States produced 160,000,000 pounds of wool; in 1891 the home production was 285,000,000 pounds. This does not look much like "disaster to the wool-grower." In 1867 the woolen mills of this country consumed 197,231,350 pounds of wool; in 1891 the consumption had increased to 411,373,603 pounds. That does not sound very "disastrous for the American wool manufacturer."

Here in the west, where the people are offered free wool and protected manufactures, the plea is raised that the removal of the tariff would stimulate American manufacture and provide a still better market for the home product. This is entirely fanciful, and finds no substantiation in the statistics compiled by the government, or elsewhere. Prior to 1861 the tariff on wool was merely nominal. In 1860 our total consumption was only 35,334,876 pounds; or a little more than a fifth of the present consumption, and the home production that year was but 60,264,913 pounds, or one-fifth of the present yield. In the same year the United States imported but 26,125,891 pounds, against importations last year of 129,303,658. In other words: Since the tariff was adopted in 1861 the United States has increased its production and importations of wools and its manufactures of woolsens 500 per cent! And yet Mr. Springer has the hardihood to stand before an American audience and affirm that the protective policy has "proved disastrous to the wool-grower and the manufacturer."

Hon. M. C. George, chairman of the Portland bridge commission, has resigned because of a league in the commission that had come prepared to let a contract to build a bridge for $280,000, to be completed in 15 months, when there was another offer to build the same kind of structure for $255,000 to be completed in 12 months. He did not propose to have a hand in a transaction that would needlessly and recklessly throw away $25,000 of the people's money. He did not wish to antagonize the other members of the board, for he had been treated very kindly. "In consequence of this," said Mr. George, "I tender my resignation as chairman of the commission, and ask that it be at once accepted."

It is perhaps early for Thanksgiving dinner announcements, but the M. E. church ladies of Eugene are in the field. They have decided to erect a new parsonage. To secure funds to aid them they are going to give a Thanksgiving dinner, and are anxious that the other denominations and the kind public of Eugene patronize them. They will have an excellent dinner, and a good time may be expected.

Worn-out, "run-down," feeble women, need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It builds them up. It's a powerful, restorative tonic, or strength-giver—free from alcohol and injurious drugs. The entire system is renewed and invigorated. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, gives refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. As a soothing nerve, it allays and subdues hysteria, spasms, and all the nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It's the only guaranteed medicine for women. It does what is promised—or it asks nothing. It gives satisfaction, in every case, or the money paid for it is refunded.

That's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system.

The Portland Exposition.

Too Much of a Risk.

It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
