There will be no meeting of the McKinley club tonight.
Mr. and Mrs. James Benton are now at home at The Amatilla.
W. E. Garretson returned on the noon train from Portland.
Mr. W. Lord is shipping his own wheat. It is of extra fine quality.
Yesterday 4 p. m. train west bound, passed through at 9:30 a. m. today.
Mr. C. A. Heath, who has been in from Grass Valley on business, returned today.
Mrs. Dr. Stowell, of Goldendale, is visiting Mrs. C. F. Stephens in The Dalles.
Wheat today is selling in The Dalles at 62 cents for No. 1, and 57 cents for No. 2.
Con. Howe came home today from the hospital in Portland much improved.
Rev. Mr. Curtis has resigned as minister of The Dalles Congregational church.
Mr. Brownell established the fact with his hearers last night that Americans do produce tin, and propose to stay by it.
The Chautauque circle will meet with Mrs. S. L. Brooks Monday evening at 7:30. Quotations from the Chautauquan.
Mrs. Dr. Gilmer has sold to Mr. C. E. Bayard, corner of Tenth and Union, the property with two cottages. Consideration $2,500.
Miss Rose Mitchell's voice is trained to "Home Again" in the classic precincts of The Chronicle today, after fifteen days abroad.
A broken shaft on the engine at the electric light works, will cause some inconvenience for lights in The Dalles for a short time.
Mr. C. Bridgefarmer has left a rambo ap. for The Chronicle window, as a curio from his Klickitat farm; not a sample of his best.
A. C. Connelly, formerly school superintendent of Wasco county, paid his respects to The Chronicle yesterday. He is now a resident of Troutdale.
Messrs. Bronson, Green, Joslyn and Entwistle spent the day yesterday at McClure's lake, duck and snipe shooting. They bagged fifteen mallards, four snipe, one teal, a widgeon and a canvas-back. Mr. Bronson has leased the privilege, and will plant some Waratoes in the lake, so as to be sure of birds when he wants them.

A banquet in honor of the day was given by the Catholic society of this city last evening, at which quite a party were entertained in a most appropriate manner.

Some tramp robbed Sam Thurman's bachelor parlors of his blankets, cooking outfit, and grub, a few days since, and then took Charley Hill's boat to get away with the booty.

The board of engineers appointed to make an inspection of the the dalles and Celilo obstruction to navigation in the Columbia, will probably arrive this evening by the steamer Regulator.

Mr. A. Keller, will move into his new store Monday morning. A full line of bread, cakes, pies and confectionary, cigars, oysters, etc., will be opened. He invites all his old patrons around to the new place, next to the Dalles National bank, and as many new ones as can find time to come, and he promises to do his best to please them all.

The board of trustees of the Congregational church, through their secretary Mr. S. L. Brooks, has offered the use of their new church to the Christian church for their services every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This very generous offer is highly appreciated by the members and friends of the Christian church, and on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Elder J. W. Jenkins will preach in the Congregational church.

Grandpa Snipes, a pioneer 82 years of age living near Goldendale, can peruse his obituary in the newspapers this week, occasioned by a blunder in sending a dispatch to his son which stated that he had fallen down stairs and broken his neck. He had a fall, in which he bruised his leg. On receipt of this sad intelligence Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Snipes and Mrs. H. H. Allen immediately took the train expecting to see the dead body of their father when they arrived at Goldendale. They were very happily disappointed. Somebody suggested to Ben that the blunder was bad enough to found a suit upon for damages. "Yes," said Mr. Snipes, "that is a fact; but the damage was paid when I met father alive."

Death of Judge Thornbury.

Hon. Caleb N. Thornbury breathed his last at 10 minutes before 3 o'clock this morning, and thus has gone from our midst one of the best citizens and kindest hearted neighbors in The Dalles. Judge Thornbury was born in Westchester, Pa., Dec. 12th, 1826, and was therefore nearing the end of the 67th year of his age. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Mrs. T. A. Hudson and Mrs. O. Kinersly, in this city. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the family residence at 2 o'clock under the auspices of Wasco lodge No. 15, A. F. and A. M., of which he was an honored member. Judge Thornbury was one of the Argonauts of California, having landed among the first of those following the gold discovery of 1849. He lived in California until 1862, where he served a term in the legislative assembly, and filled several other positions of public trust, besides becoming known as a man of successful business qualifications. He came to Oregon in 1862 in company with Dr. Horsley, locating in Wasco county. He served as county judge and has filled other responsible positions in the county. In 1855-6 was settler at Camp Watson. A long residence among our people, during which time he has taken an active part in all matters of public interest, endeared him to all and his death will be sincerely and generally mourned. We extend a heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

A Rousing Speech.

A political campaign speech this year is more or less dull because of the statistical portions necessary to carry conviction on the basis of education. Announcement had been made that there was to be an address last night by Hon. Binger Hermann, at the Court house, but the state central committee made other arrangements and sent to The Dalles Hon. Geo. C. Brownell, late chairman of the Kansas State Republican committee, but now a resident of Oregon City. Mr. Brownell is a young man, we may say a rising young man. That he is thoroughly posted upon national topics was proven clearly by his address last night. He handled every phase of the subject in an intelligent manner, and held his audience an hour and a half, closing with several well rounded points, and palpable hits which were frequently enthusiastically cheered, and had the very desirable and convincing effect of establishing confidence that there is yet too much gratitude left in the hearts of the American people to even think that they would go back upon the great republican party and forsake its principles for the often denied democracy.

The Right Idea.

Seattle Telegraph. The New York Post says that the Canadian government has already expended $58,000,000 upon its canals. These do not meet the requirements of the trade of the Great Lakes, and a company has been incorporated to build a ship railway from Lake Ontario to Lake Huron, a distance of 68 miles across the province of Ontario, which will cost $15,000,000. The railway will be sufficient to transport vessels of 2,000 tons displacement. The promoters of the enterprise say that there is not the least doubt that the money will be forthcoming for the work, and their agent is now in London to consult English capitalists on the subject. This is more than five times as much as it would cost to build the Lake Washington canal, to accommodate the commerce of the Pacific ocean, and yet there are those, not many indeed, but some, who think that we ought to stand still and wait for congress to dole out a few hundred thousand dollars a year for the next decade, the way to build the canal is to build it. The way to take it out of politics forever is for some of our energetic citizens to take hold of it as a business enterprise. Every day this idea is gaining ground and we look forward with confidence to the early inauguration of a plan by which Seattle will dig the canal and dig it in 1895.

Funeral Notice.

A special communication of Wasco lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., will be held at Masonic hall on Sunday, Oct. 23d, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, C. N. Thornbury, which will take place from the family residence at 2 o'clock. An attendance of all members and visiting brethren promptly at 1 o'clock is requested.
O. D. DOANE, secretary.

TRICKS ON THE TRADE.

A Shrewd Stranger Swindles Several Spokane Merchants.

From the Review.]
An unknown man, well dressed and of gentlemanly bearing, has been playing a rather shrewd game among the business men of the city during the past week, endeavoring to secure from them sums ranging from $10 to $25 on a scheme which has been worn out by the sharpers of the larger cities of the east.

The stranger arrived here last week, but where he boarded during his stay here is not known, for though he seemed to be thoroughly familiar with the city he had no intimate acquaintances nor did he wish to form any. He did his work quietly and it was not until he left the city that the chief of police learned that he had been here. During his stay, however, he is said to have caught a number of merchants for small amounts, and as many of his victims would rather lose the money than have it known that they had been victimized, they did not notify the authorities until it was too late to catch the alleged sharper.

The man's game was an ancient one, and some of those approached by him had had experience with similar schemes, and of course gave him not only a cold refusal, but in one instance fired him bodily from their office. The stranger's mode of operation was very simple and when backed by his remarkable nerve and easy flow of language was almost always successful when tried on the uninitiated.

He invariably carried a large, handsomely-bound book, and entering a business house he would request an audience with the proprietor. This, of course, he easily secured. Opening the book, he would display to the head of the firm a large advertisement of that business house, placed prominently in the middle of a page. His invariable remark as he showed the advertisement was, "How does that please you?"

The surprised merchant would, of course, ask by whose authority the advertisement had been inserted. It was then the stranger's play to pretend to be surprised, and he usually played his part well. He would explain that the "ad" had been ordered by some member of the firm and that he held a bill against the firm for $10, $15 or $25 according to the size of the "ad." Then would follow an explanation of the merits of the book, which was said to be a directory of only the reliable firms of the community and which would be generally circulated throughout the state. In most cases the result would be that the merchant would forget that he had not ordered the advertisement and would pay the bill, in consideration of being classed among the leading firms of the city and state.

This little scheme did not work with all the merchants, however, and the stranger met with a rather warm reception at some of the places which he visited. The Galland-Burke Brewing company were among those who were up with the times and refused to pay for what they had not ordered. F. E. Goodall, cashier of the Washington National bank, was another who was too shrewd for the sharper, and Alonzo M. Murphy was another who refused to have anything to do with the scheme. The query, "Have you seen the directory man?" was frequently heard among the business men, and those who had been victimized invariably endeavored to keep their experiences a secret. A similar game was worked in Portland several months ago and the merchants there who paid for the advertisements have been waiting ever since for the book to appear, but the stranger has disappeared and they will probably continue to wait.

THE BEEF TRUST.

Just as Much for a Steak But Less Than Half as Much for the Cattle.

From the Portland Chronicle.]

The advent of the American Dressed Beef Co., followed, as it was, by the organization here of the Portland Butchering Co., has had the good effect of supplying our market with the choicest meats to be procured anywhere in the world. But they have had a deterrent effect upon the local cattle-raising industry by which so many of the farmers of western Oregon and Washington were enabled to make considerable money. It used to be that a farmer could keep a small band of cattle, or a few dozen sheep and hogs, and if crops were light from any cause there was something to rely upon for ready money, because there was always a ready market in the city among the butchers and packers for all that could be raised within a radius of a hundred miles or so, and prices were so good that the farmer was encouraged to continue in the business as far as his range means of raising hay and other feed would allow. It is all different now. The great meat companies import their live meats from the plains, receiving them here in car loads and train loads. The meat markets are all under necessity to patronize them, as they cannot successfully compete by purchasing and slaughtering their own meats, so that the home producer of now has no market for an extra steer or a few hogs or sheep, as he formerly had. If he offers to sell to the companies they will pay no more than they can get the same animals for at a distance, which is about one-half the price that live stock brought here two years ago. Several farmers living twenty or thirty miles away have lately told a Chronicle reporter that they would have to reduce their droves of stock to their own necessities, as it did not pay them to raise a fine, fat steer to sell for about twenty dollars, which is about all they can get now. There is no decrease in the retail price of meats, for the consumer pays just as much now as ever. Altogether it is doubtful if the great butchering companies have helped the country very much. Monopolies seldom do.

Rate Shaving Discussed.

A San Francisco dispatch, noting the arrival there of President S. H. H. Clark of the Union Pacific says: Mr. Clark gives out that the object of his visit is the usual "inspection of the line," but it is rumored rate shaving brings him here. For over six months rate cutting on overland business has been prevalent among local agents and there are few offices where round trip tickets to Chicago can not be had for $100. It is understood the Southern Pacific desires to arrange for a $100 rate which can be sold openly by all, and that this is one thing to be discussed with Clark. President Huntington and Vice President Towne of the Southern Pacific called on President Clark, but the nature of the conference was not disclosed.

A Cure for Cholera.

There is no use of any one suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can be procured. It will give relief in a few minutes and cure in a short time. I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used there with great success. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Women are not slow to comprehend. They're quick. They're alive, and yet it was a man who discovered the one remedy for their peculiar ailments. The man was Dr. Pierce. The discovery was his "Favorite Prescription"—the boon to delicate women. Why go round "with one foot in the grave," suffering in silence—misunderstood—when there's a remedy at hand that isn't an experiment, but which is sold under the guarantee that if you are disappointed in any way in it, you can get your money back by applying to its makers. We can hardly imagine a woman's not trying it. Possibly it may be true of one or two—but we doubt it. Women are ripe for it. They must have it. Think of a prescription and nine out of ten waiting for it. Carry the news to them.

The seat of sick headache is not in the brain. Regulate the stomach and you cure it. Dr. Pierce's pellets are the little regulators.

A Cholera Scare.
A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things ever made." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
