THURSDAY - OCTOBER 27, 1892

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Squally-hawk is said to be alive with wild geese.

Business is fairly booming in the East End; stores are all busy and wheat continues to roll in.

It is not the millionaire merchants, but their clerks, who support the fashionable tailors around the corner.

Wm. Buckler, brother of Mrs. Brickell, arrived last night from Victoria, intending to make his home in The Dalles.

German Evang. Lutheran service will be held in the chapel on Ninth street Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 o'clock p. m.

Mr. Earle Bryan, of Green Bay, Wis., is in the city visiting his brother, R. R. Bryan, of The Dalles Mercantile company.

The Dufur brass band is uniforming, and their caps, which are elegant ones, have arrived at E. Jacobsen's, with the McKinley club cap.

Mr. Hugh Glenn was a passenger to the consolidated city this morning. He will hurry up the new shaft for the electric light works.

Officer Holsapple of the Portland police force, was in the city early this morning. He will probably furnish the press with an item of news in a few days.

There is no intelligence office in The Dalles. But people can make known their wants through THE CHRONICLE, at a nominal charge. Wants supplied by advertising only.

Congressman W. R. Ellis was present at the demonstration at the Court house last evening. He is improving rapidly. He accompanied Senator Mitchell to Portland this morning.

A visit to Portland is sufficient to show any one that cloth is so abundant and cheap, under the McKinley law, that men's pantaloons are now all wool "and a yard wide" at the bottoms.

Senator Mitchell is suffering from an affection of the throat, produced by outdoor speaking at Pendleton recently. His friends feel concerned, lest it may prove a permanent injury to his voice.

There are many men, fearless in their utterances on the sidewalks, in the streets, and over non de plumes, abusive of the newspapers for not doing their duty, who would not for a minute make similar statements and accusations over their own name in print.

Tuesday the 12th was the real anniversary of the discovery of land by Columbus. In view, however, of the circumstance that Columbus sailed from Palos on a Friday, discovered the island of San Salvador on a Friday, and returned to Spain on a Friday, it was thought more appropriate to fix the celebration of that day on Friday.

The exhibition cup of coffee, testing the qualities of the St. Charles cream at The Dalles Mercantile Co.'s store, at the East End, is in great demand today. Also at Maier & Bentons on Third street.

Mr. Peter Oamek, who was searching the files of THE CHRONICLE last week to find out who was in quest of information will learn all particulars by addressing C. Oamek or Oameek, of Crescent city, Iowa.

Messrs. Hughes & Bangs, of Syracuse, N. Y., contractors on the enlargement of the Sault Ste Marie canal, are here seeking information respecting the Cascades work. They are bidders, and will remain in Oregon until the contract is let.

Jacobsen & Co., have received the first installment of caps for the McKinley club. Councilman Haight was the first member to appear today on the streets publicly with one of the nobby appearing head gear, which was very becoming to him.

Subscribers to this paper will greatly oblige us if they will refuse to be neighborly when asked to loan THE CHRONICLE. We like to have people read it, but he who reads should own his own.

The Oregon Alpine club has a letter from Assistant Secretary Chandler stating that the matter of setting aside Mt. Hood for a national park has been referred to the commissioner of the general land office, and that prompt action will be taken in regard to the matter. It is expected that this will be settled before further settlement by private parties is made in that section.

The ladies of the P. E. church are having frequent business sessions, completing the elaborate arrangements made for the coming chrysanthemum show. It is going to be an event in the life time of The Dalles and those who are not there, will miss one of the finest affairs, ever given in our fair city. Are there going to be any good things to eat at the High Tea, to be held there? Oh my! Just come and see.

This has been a phenomenal year in Oregon and Washington for new discoveries of gold and silver mines, and we look for unexampled prosperity in this line another year. Besides the discoveries in close proximity to The Dalles, Henry Ankeny reports a good season's run and a very satisfactory cleaning for the Sterling mine. He says that quite a stir has been created in that region by several rich strikes in quartz. There has been quite a fall of snow already, and the miners look upon this as an indication that there will be a heavy fall of snow this winter, which means plenty of water next spring for hydraulic mining.

Mr. Hensel met with a painful accident yesterday at his Lyle home. He was feeding his stock at noon, and one of his horses kicked throwing a foot full of dust in Mr. Hensel's face. A grain of sand, about the size of a large pin head, struck the left eye-ball, and became so imbedded in the eye that it could not be removed, even after coming to The Dalles, accompanied by Mrs. Hensel, and they went on to Portland this morning to submit to an operation by an skilled aurist as can be found. It is greatly feared that he may lose his eyesight entirely, particularly the sight of the left eye. He was suffering greatly when they left on the train at 3 a. m.

A German family by the name of Kohler, living in Tygh valley, had their house with all its contents burned last Monday. Defective flue the cause.

The Columbia river pilots, on the stretch from Astoria to Portland, and up the creek twelve miles south, will never surrender to their oppressors. They are prepared for renewed activity in defense of their interests after the holidays.

It is said that Gov. Pennoyer denounces the trick of Col. Bob Miller and Pierce. Should Pierce be elected and cast his electoral vote for Cleveland he would be drummed out of Oregon. That is what the governor of Oregon says to the governor of Georgia.

Commencing Saturday the 29th at 10 a. m., and every Saturday at the same hour until otherwise ordered, there will be offered for sale at public auction, through W. H. Butts, auctioneer, by authority of the city, the remaining unsold lots, belonging to the water fund. Not many lots remain unsold, and nobody should miss the opportunity to be present and make profitable investments. The terms of payment are very liberal.

In making a landing at the U. P. R. dock in Astoria with the barge Columbia, a hole was stove in her side below water line, and in the effort to save the barge and cargo Capt. Marshall B. Short and his mate Gus Peterson lost their lives. They had gone down into the hold to stop the leak, when the barge listed. Capt. Short was crushed by falling wheat sacks as he was coming out, and Peterson was drowned in the hold. Capt. Short was universally liked by river men. He was a careful master and competent. He had been in the employ of the U. P. R. Co. six years, and for five years was mate on the Bonita. Last year he took out a license for captain, and was assigned to the Ocklahama, the largest and most powerful towboat on the river. He leaves a young wife, but no children. Gus Peterson was in the employ of the U. P. and O. R. N. Co. many years as deck-hand. He was unmarried, but has a sister living in Portland.

SENATOR MITCHELL'S VISIT.

Rousing Demonstration at the Court House Last Night.

A large concourse of people assembled at the Court house last evening, at which time Senator J. H. Mitchell addressed them on the live political issues of the day. The senator was introduced by a few spicy remarks from Mr. B. S. Huntington, chairman of the McKinley club.

Although suffering from a severe cold and sore throat, Mr. Mitchell was not remiss in hurling weapons at the democracy and the populist party. He commenced by saying that it was not his purpose to abuse democrats or populists, but that he would endeavor to abuse their party principles as much as he could; that he did not abuse persons, but the party doctrines which he believed to be erroneous.

It was his intention to discuss some of the live issues of the day; but he had noticed that some strange changes had taken place in the democratic ranks in Oregon. The great leader of the democracy in this state had left the party and espoused the populist cause, and a candidate for the office of presidential elector on the democratic ticket had resigned and an avowed populist selected in his stead. People are called on to vote for a democrat who is a populist and who is pledged to cast his electoral vote for

Weaver. "I want in this connection to tell my democratic friends about the past record of Gen. Weaver. I want to confine myself to the record and to call attention to some things that Weaver has said at different times in the past few years and which he has admitted to be true."

The senator then produced the records from Sep. 1870 to date, which, for want of space today, mention of his remarks will be made at some future time. The history of the democratic party was carefully reviewed, and its acts properly criticized, in comparison with those of the republican party. In this connection the senator said:

In all great party organizations there are but two or three great issues. It is so in this campaign; there are but two or three fundamental questions at issue. One is the question of the tariff, and another the question of money. The doctrine of a protective tariff is as old as the republic. It was promulgated by Washington, supported by Jefferson, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, and that grand old man who is revered as the leading statesman of the day, JAMES G. BLAINE; and all of the best and wisest men that this nation has ever known have been ardent advocates of the tariff for protection. And now, while suffering under a bereavement such as but few can bear and not succumb in the death of her for whom the flags of the nation are now hanging at half mast, and while attending to the arduous duties of chief executive, Benjamin Harrison is championing the cause of republicanism and a tariff for protection.

The republican party holds the doctrine that all products of other countries which we can not produce and which are necessary to the existence of the people should be admitted duty free; that all products which we can or do produce should be subjected to a tax. What is the democratic doctrine? It is that of a tariff for revenue only; and that means that the most revenue possible must be raised from the smallest possible tax. Heavy customs duties must be placed on those commodities which we do not produce. Which is right and which is wrong? Which is the most beneficial to the wage earners of this country, the democratic or republican doctrines?

The house was packed, and Senator Mitchell held his audience to the last, frequently interrupted by applause. At the close of his address Congressman Ellis was called and in a few short and pointed remarks confirmed the statements of the senator, and closed by relating a few pithy anecdotes which were well applauded.

K. of P. Institute.

A large delegation of K. of P. members from The Dalles will meet a larger delegation from Goldendale and surrounding lodges under the jurisdiction of Washington, at Centerville tomorrow evening, where will be instituted a new lodge to be hailed as Mount Adams No. —. Among those attending from The Dalles will be: C. E. Haight, C. C.; D. W. Wause, K. of R. and S.; Frank Menefee, V. C.; G. J. Farley, P. C.; John Mitchell, P. C.; W. L. Bradshaw, Prelate; L. E. Crowe, M. of Ex.; E. Jacobsen, M. of Fin.; and several others whose names we were unable to learn.

The Latest Fake.

As the following fake mentioned in the Salem Statesman will probably reach The Dalles in due time, we give it in order that our business men may have their optics open, and these are days when one needs to be on the alert: "Fakes of one kind or another follow in such quick succession now days that it is a task of extreme difficulty to keep track of them. But the latest one is deserved of more than passing notice, by reason of the nerve of the man who is working it. He is attempting to organize what he professes to be a great co-operative system between the merchants and their patrons. The membership in it is $3 for each business house, and in return for this fellow is to solicit among the people in the interest of his subscribers—the merchants. To the purchaser he gives coupons of some kind on the different stores and represents that at the end of each month he will return to them cash to the amount of 5 per cent. on all purchases made. This fellow then is to get from the merchants a rebate of 10 per cent. on all purchases made by the persons whom he has solicited—5 per cent. going to him for his work and 5 per cent. to the buyers as a rebate. The scheme is full of air and probably will never again be heard of, after the first month, as the manager could very well afford to pass on to the next town, after having received probably as much as $300 in initiation fees."

FREE.

Friends and customers of The Dalles Mercantile Co. and Maier & Benton, are cordially invited to call at their grocery store Thursday and Friday, Oct. 27th and 28th to test the merits of the St. Charles Evaporated Unsweetened cream. Coffee will be served in which this brand of delicious cream will be used. This sterilized cream is not only superior to any other on the market, but is better than dairy milk or cream, which has not been relieved of the animal and atmospheric impurities. Come one and all.

N. B. St. Charles Unsweetened cream is a peerless food for infants, and the sick, as well as all culinary uses.

For Sale.

Two choice lots and a cottage, on 9th street, one block west of Union. Very desirable. Price reasonable, come quick, apply to N. Whealdon.

Notice.

By Order of the Common Council of Dalles City, made and entered on the 12th day of October, 1892, notice is hereby given, that said city council is about to proceed to order and make improvements in streets in said city, as hereinafter stated, and the cost of such improvement will be levied upon the property adjacent thereto, and said improvement will be made, unless within fourteen days from the final publication of this notice, the owners of two-thirds of this property adjacent thereto, shall file their remonstrance against such improvements as by charter provided.

The improvement contemplated and about to be made is as follows, to wit: To improve Washington, Fulton and Laughlin streets in said city, by constructing a sewer of terra-cotta, from the Columbia river at the foot of said Washington street, and running thence south on said Washington street, to the junction of said Fulton street, and running thence easterly a long said Fulton street, to the junction of said Fulton street with Laughlin street, and running thence southerly along said street, to the alley next south of Alvord street, said sewer to be of twelve inch terra-cotta pipe from the point of beginning, above mentioned to the alley between Fourth and 27th streets, and of ten inch terra-cotta pipe from said place, to the termination thereof, as above stated, dated this 21st day of October, 1892. FRANK MENEFEE, Recorder of Dalles City.

Oh, this ringing in the ears! Oh, this humming in the head! Hawking, blowing, sneezing, gasping, Watery eyes and throat-rashing, Health impaired and comfort fled, Till I would that I were dead!

What folly to suffer so with catarrhal troubles, when the worst cases of chronic catarrh in the head are relieved and cured by the mild, cleansing and healing properties of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It purifies the foul breath, by removing the cause of offence, heals the sore and inflamed passages, and perfects a lasting cure.

The Fence of the Future.

There are a number of strong points in favor of the Tuna Hedge as the fence of the future, the advantage of this kind of a fence may be briefly enumerated as follows: It becomes a perfect barrier against all kinds of domestic animals after three years growth; does not sap or impoverish the ground, being a strictly atmospheric plant, and will not grow from the seed or by cutting the roots hence will not spread, it grows only to a certain uniform height and therefore does not require trimming, it has been thoroughly and successfully tested in northern climates and does not kill out in the winter time, it serves the double purpose of usefulness and ornamentation, as it is an evergreen and blooms during three months of the year, an invitation is extended to thoroughly test its merits, and every one will be convinced that it possesses all the advantages claimed for it. Messrs. Johnson & Payne are now taking orders for the Tuna Hedge and have met with uniform success. Any one wishing a living growing fence something that will not spread and will be a fence for all time to come should give their orders now and get their fence started this fall.
