The latest fad is the miniature magic pocket camera. Photos taken instantly Jacobsen & Co., have them, and they go off like hot cakes at a bakery.

Hon. A. S. Macallister and family left The Dalles today for their farm near Contention, in Crook county. Mr. Macallister expects to return in January.

Messrs. Dicken Bros., of Kentucky, who are here for the benefit of their health, have formed a very favorable impression of The Dalles as a point for bona fide business in the near future.

There is a lot of worthless curs and dogs in The Dalles which are becoming a public nuisance. Unless they can afford a corporation collar, with a tag number, they should be sent to the happy hunting grounds.

The train which arrived at 11:40 last night from Portland came in with a whirl of the storm behind it. Conductor said it had been that way all the trip up. The rainfall here during the night was twenty-six hundredths of an inch.

Billy Corson told a lady friend this afternoon that he intended to add a hardware store and wood yard to his present business right away. Any one can readily see from this that Corson is jealous of Maier & Benton, who have taken two new partners within about a month past.

Mr. D. E. Hall of Walla Walla, made a bet of a campaign supper, with Judge Bennett today, that four months after Cleveland takes his seat as president, a large majority of the manufacturing establishments of the United States will close up. Tom Kelly took "a slice of this," also. The Judge will have to pay this bet, sure as the 4th of July is celebrated.

W. H. Odell has returned to his 10-Mile ranch from a visit to Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hinton, Mrs. Bird and Miss Lulu Bird, left for California yesterday.

The common council held a special meeting Saturday evening to expedite committee reports on taxes, etc. No business was transacted, and the board adjourned to meet on the 18th, Friday evening next.

Master Garfield Moore, the little ten-year-old son of Mrs. Moore who was so shockingly injured by the kick of a horse last week, is resting as easy as could be expected for one so badly hurt, and may pull through all right as he is of robust constitution, but will undoubtedly be disfigured for life.

Those of our exchanges, who reported Peter French, the millionaire cattle man of Harney as having died without leaving heirs, make a mistake. He was married to a daughter of Dr. Glenn, the extensive ranchman of California, who was murdered by an employe, by whom he had three children. Mrs. French was a relative of Geo. W. Barnes, esq., the Prineville attorney now attending the Wasco Circuit court.

The funeral of Mr. Joseph Feezley took place yesterday from the family residence, Rev. Mr. Wisler and Rev. Wm. Michell officiating. The funeral was largely attended, and the good old gentleman was finally laid to rest in Masonic cemetery by the fraternity of which he has been so long a member, and a great number of sympathizing friends. His family requests THE CHRONICLE to tender their heartfelt thanks to the kind friends and neighbors who so long and patiently contributed to his comfort in the lingering hours of his great distress.

Opinions of the Press.

In order that The Dalles people may become somewhat acquainted with Miss Rosa Stannus before tomorrow night, we take pleasure in presenting the following few of many opinions expressed by the editorial fraternity elsewhere:

A wonderful elocutionist.—St. Paul Press.

A voice of marvelous power for a woman.—Los Angeles Times.

In Irish dialect she stands alone, unapproached by any woman on or off the stage.—Chicago Times.

The impersonations of Miss Stannus cover a wide field, all of which were rendered with pronounced ability.—Chicago Journal.

She deserves the fame she is getting. Such a voice as she has is given to but one in a thousand.—St. Louis Republic.

Without any seeming effort on her part she held her audience spell-bound for hours. Her impersonations, whether of the low comedy order or highly tragic, were artistic and well sustained.—Omaha Bee.

Whether the mood required, be droll as in Hoolihan, or one of deep emotion as Marguerite, she holds her hearers spell-bound. This with her clear ringing voice and remarkable histrionic ability, makes her an artiste of great power.—Daily Astorian, Astoria.

As Cleopatra Miss Stannus wore a superb gown of Egyptian fashion. Its graceful folds clung fetchingly about her perfect figure, while the brilliant jewels and oriental turban form a delightful setting for her queenly head and beautiful face.—Walla Walla Statesman.

It was Ben Johnson, we believe, who, when asked Mallock's question, "Is life worth living?" replied, "That depends on the liver." And Ben Johnson probably saw the double point to the pun.

The liver active—quick—life rosy, everything bright, mountains of trouble melt like mountains of snow. The liver sluggish—life dull, everything blue, molehills of worry rise into mountains of anxiety, and as a result—sick headache, dizziness, constipation. Two ways are open. Cure permanently, or relieve temporarily. Take a pill and suffer, or take a pill and get well. Shock the system by an overdose, or coax it by a mild, pleasant way.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the mild means. They work effectively, without pain, and leave the system strong. One, little, sugar-coated pellet is enough, although a whole vial costs but 25 cents.

Mild, gentle, soothing and healing is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Only 50 cents; by druggists.

No Ground For Complaint.

We understand that several of our people, delayed giving their orders until this week, and now find their orders will not be accepted at headquarters as the offer for Oregon City has been withdrawn. Some of these are now contending the Oregonian for the now concluding their offer before all had an opportunity of taking advantage of it. Of course it is a great disappointment to find themselves a day too late, but we are of the opinion that in this matter there is no ground for complaint against the Oregonian as they were certainly explicit enough in announcing the expiration of their offer, and those who delayed availing themselves of the opportunity, have only themselves to blame for their disappointment.—Oregon City Enterprise.

SHEEP AND WOOL.

Some Important Facts Respecting the Stock, Quality and Prices.

Mr. C. A. Rhea of Heppner, who is largely interested in sheep raising in Morrow county, furnishes the following facts and figures to the Oregonian:

Morrow county produces more wool than any county in the state. There are now about 250,000 sheep herded within the boundaries of the county which produced, at the last shearing, about 3,000,000 pounds of wool. We found a ready market for the wool at from 9 to 16 cents per pound. The buyers come right in to Heppner and take it off our hands, and then ship it either to eastern cities or to San Francisco. We get two crops a year from the sheep, and that makes it a very good paying business. The sheep in our part of the state are free from all diseases, and are in such a condition as to bring a good price anywhere. The merino sheep is the best paying sheep in Oregon, as it is hardy, and yields a good crop of wool. For some time there have been a number of Montana sheep buyers coming into eastern Oregon and trying to purchase sheep, offering $3.25 to $3.50 per head for ewes. The price is a large and tempting one, but the sheep-farmers have no more sheep than they want, and refuse to part with them. There is a strip of land about fifteen miles in width all along the Columbia river that is just adapted to sheep raising. The grass is green all the year, and the sheep can feed on it all winter. The foothills of the Blue Mountains also make fine grazing land. The farmers failed to get a good crop this year, but they are not a bit discouraged, and have put in about one-third larger crop than ever before. If the winter proves to be a good one they will have more than an abundance of grain next year. Business is very good and money plentiful, and no one in our section of the country has anything to complain about.

When it comes to wool, Wasco takes the floor. The Dalles has been the very best and the biggest wool market in the United States this year, over 6,500,000 pounds being marketed here at an average price throughout of 15 1/4 to 16 1/4 cents per pound. We hope our glory may not have departed—but it is like Ohio and California "in doubt" today. Wasco did not raise all this wool; some of it came from "Prineville and beyond" over into Crook county, where we very much desire to see the promised construction of The Dalles Southern railway, also somewhat more doubtful now than were its prospects last month. Good-mutton sheep have sold in this market this year at $3.75 to $4 per head, and good ewes at $5, but it may be said to be "extremely doubtful" if we secure such prices after 1892 at any time within the next seven or seventeen years.

Gone to California.

Deacon Roberts, long and favorably known in The Dalles, a sufferer from rheumatism for the past year and a half, started to Paso de Robles springs in California this morning, accompanied by Mrs. R., and two sons, in hope that the trip may be the means of doing him some good, although it must be considered doubtful. The old gentleman was carried to the train on a stretcher and was fixed comfortably in the baggage car. Mr. Roberts has long been connected with the ministry in the Congregational church. He was an early missionary to the Sandwich Islands, from Boston, and one of the most scholarly men in the missionary service, being a graduate of Andover.

Troubled With Ants.

A Springfield, Ill., dispatch says that Prof. Martin, of the state entomological bureau, has just finished an investigation of the basement of the statehouse and finds that the rooms are so infested with white ants that the immense store of official state records are in danger of being lost. The secretary of state, after receiving a report from Professor Forbes, state entomologist, will refer the matter to the general assembly.

Unfortunate Henry Slade.

A Sioux City, Iowa, dispatch says that Dr. Henry A. Slade, the spiritualist, whose career in London and subsequent trial for fraud created a sensation fourteen years ago, and who in late years has been the leading medium of Paris, was taken to a sanatorium hospital in that city, suffering from nervous prostration bordering on insanity, without money and utterly friendless, last Saturday.
