A War Time Ball.

A relic of the war between the states is now on the dry dock, receiving such minor repairs and cleaning as may be necessary to commission her for harbor defense. This was the second monitor ever built, and the record of her usefulness and her hard service may be seen in the shot dents of the turrets. These are painted in a color different from that of the surrounding iron in order to emphasize their story, and they serve as an exact lesson to show that after all, when compared with our days, how innocuous were the boasted shot and shell of the rebellion. Of course it does not make much difference whether a giant is killed by a toothpick or hoisted with those parous days.

Then the theory was that for every ten pounds of shot one pound of powder was needed, a 90-pounder being fired with nine pounds of powder; today we have for each pound of powder two pounds of shot, the 10-inch guns of the Miantonomoh, the Nantucket's neighbor, using 250 pounds of powder to drive the 500-pound projectile. The Nantucket has also a sentimental interest, for when the great Ericsson lay in state on her decks in the harbor of New York, she was the immediate representative of what his genius had evoked to save the country in time of peril, for the original Monitor went down one dismal day off our treacherous coast, and left as the second product of her wonderful type the little coast defender which now lies half hidden within the walls of the dry dock. - Harper's Weekly.
