The Mysterious Murder.

Portland police are still working to solve the mystery of the murder of R. L. Johnson, found in a U. P. R. box-car at Albina recently. The murdered man has been clearly identified, but not so with regard to the murderers. One J. S. Casada, suspected, is in jail at La Grande. The car was in The Dalles, side tracked, and it is thought that both the murdered man and Casada were here the Sunday before. It is thought Johnson and his companion had been here a couple of days. At any rate, both of them were drinking, but had caused no disturbance. Therefore, the authorities of The Dalles, surmising that the crime was committed here, have taken a hand in the matter, and an officer who saw Johnson has gone to Portland to identify the body and throw what additional light he can upon the mysterious crime.

When Casada was arrested in La Grande he denied any knowledge whatever of the crime, and stated that he was open to questions. He said that he was with Johnson in Colfax, and left that place with him, but could not tell at just what point they separated. They had started out with the intention of going to Rockford, but did not make the visit. They left Colfax November 7th, but cannot give a comprehensive account of his whereabouts since that time. This adds nothing to the credibility of Casada's story, though the authorities say that a tramp who travels so much as Casada does is not to be expected to remember all of his routes. There is no question but the detectives suspect Casada, though they decline to make any statements regarding him; but it is known that as soon as possible Captain Gritz-macher will interview the prisoner, and if there is any color to the suspicion the Portland detectives will find it. Before he was killed, Johnson had a fine gold watch and chain and several twenty dollar gold pieces; but just how much is not known.

NEARLY BROKE HIS NECK.

Supt. Baxter, of the U. P. R. E. Co., Files to Pieces From Centrifugal Force.

Private dispatches from Portland this morning inform us that R. W. Baxter, general superintendent of the operating department of the U. P. R. Co. met with quite a relapse yesterday. Between Reed's guzyer; which some persist in calling "a landslide below Bonneville;" and the demands of shippers at and beyond The Dalles, the information comes that Mr. Baxter twice or three times went back on himself so suddenly that it nearly broke his neck. It appears that very many of the Inland Empire dealers are out of soap, sugar, socks, etc., etc., articles too numerous for enumeration; and that they are as anxious to get their goods up from Portland as the meat companies were before yesterday to get their fat cattle down. And it further appears that these consignees sent an agent to Mr. Baxter, who seems to be in some way very anxious to hold these goods, much of which is in transit from San Francisco; and begged him to transfer the freight to The Dalles Portland and Astoria Navigation Co., that they might get the articles they are so much in need of.

Mr. Baxter once agreed to let the goods come on by the Dalles City and Regulator, but, like the steal of Sunday here, he wanted the cash money "for the freight" to The Dalles. The extortion would not be tolerated, so he hung up a sign saying the U. P. R. Co. would not take freight for The Dalles and other points of the Inland Empire until Saturday Nov. 26th. At this announcement shippers in Portland rebelled; they joined with the Inland Empire consignees and peremptorily demanded their freights on bills of lading to Portland. It is said Baxter sweat over the situation, and finally made another promise, then again backed down from it, and thus the matter stands. But of one thing you can take bets. The steamers Dalles City and Regulator will get the freight, up as well as down; and if the U. P. R. Co. fail to come to a decent and respectable understanding of the situation within a reasonable time, they will find themselves in a position to make the amende honorable, and themselves suffer from a contusion of the spine, whether Mr. Baxter recovers or not. This is a plain subject, and it requires plain language, without apology, from every one who feels the imposition practiced upon the public by the grasping, soulless monopoly this U. P. R. Co. is.

THE U. P. R. OBSTRUCTION.

A Slide, A Guzyer, Perhaps an Embryo Volcano—Who Knows.

It is now a week since the so-called land slide, below Bonneville, occurred on the U. P. R. obstructing travel, after wrecking a locomotive and a car. From a small stream but a pace across that morning, and not to exceed a foot in depth, the current from the mountain has filled Mr. Reed's orchard, below the railway track, destroyed his barn, and completely buried his house. It is now a wash fully 300 feet wide, and nearly 25 feet high. At first it was considered a landslide, attributed a glacial movement; but the line of the railway track is in fact, which dispels the theory of glacial movement. From a gentleman who has seen and described it, we are inclined to the belief that it is at present writing a guzyer, and may develop into an active volcano. Our informant states that the temperature of the water is increasing. It has been impossible to take the force, but it is something very considerable, to build up as it has a full two miles from the sub-terranean outlet, a bank 300 feet on the base, 20 feet high. From the railway track to the base of the mountain the distance is  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a mile; from the base to the summit of the overflow is  $\frac{1}{2}$  a mile; The water comes from sub-terranean sources, and the bowlders and dirt comes to the top by a force equal to a blast of dynamite. There has been no separation of earth from bed-rock, no slide as reported, the filling is all from the guzyer, and it is the height of foolishness for the railway company to talk about "the track being clear this evening." The slide (so called) will last as long as the guzyer continues to belch forth its mass of earth and rock, and no human hand can stay its work.

It is not a tame affair by any means. It is now considered dangerous to work in the neighborhood of the obstruction, notwithstanding the silt flows down as gently as the sands from the river were moved in Portland by the Bowers' dredge, filling Couch lake. It may be possible for the railway company to build around it, but as the wash now reaches to the river bank, this seems impracticable. One thing is certain it cannot be removed from the track by any known appliance, and as it is impossible to build through it, the fact might just as well be stated: It will be a long time before railway traffic is resumed between The Dalles and Portland.

Gravel Bids for Beets.

Review. A number of fine sugar beets were brought to the chamber of commerce yesterday by Jesse Barker, who grew them on his farm a few miles from Spokane. One of them will weigh over five pounds. The beets were grown in a piece of gravel ground, which horticulturists claim will never be suitable for the growth of the sweet plant. Secretary Reavis had them boxed and they were forwarded to the agricultural department at Washington for analysis. If the test is favorable, owing to their size and heavy yield, our gravel beds will soon become a rival of California in the production of the sugar plant.

Lewis McGlaulin Ill.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—Lewis W. McGlaulin, the well known grain merchant and member of the Produce Exchange, is lying dangerously ill at his home, having been stricken with brain fever.

Old man Chaney cast a horoscope for President Harrison which was published in the Chicago Record June 20th, and was filled in THE CHRONICLE office June 25th. No further attention was paid to it until a few days since when it was dug up, and read last night. Chaney may be the "old fraud" which a great many accuse him of being, but his predictions respecting Hayes, Blaine and Harrison have turned out correct, almost to a letter.

A rascal known here for two years past by the name of D. S. Allison, but who is wanted east under the name of Lamb; skipped The Dalles last week with $500 belonging to W. H. Sharp, on account of sales of wheat. Mr. Sharp hopes to capture the fellow and send him to the Salem brick yard.

Too Much of a Risk.

It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

R. ABRAMS, s. 25d & w 3m

A Cure for Cholera.

There is no use of any one suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can be procured. It will give relief in a few minutes and cure in a short time. I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first believed to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used there with great success. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

The Fence of the Future.

There are a number of strong points in favor of the Tuna Hedge as the fence of the future, the advantage of this kind of a fence may be briefly enumerated as follows: It becomes a perfect barrier against all kinds of domestic animals after three years growth; does not sap or impoverish the ground, being a strictly atmospheric plant, and will not grow from the seed or by cutting the roots hence will not spread, it grows only to a certain uniform height and therefore does not require trimming, it has been thoroughly and successfully tested in northern climates and does not kill out in the winter time, it serves the double purpose of usefulness and ornamentation, as it is an evergreen and blooms during three months of the year, an invitation is extended to thoroughly test its merits, and every one will be convinced that it possesses all the advantages claimed for it. Messrs. Johnson & Payne are now taking orders for the Tuna Hedge and have met with uniform success. Any one wishing a living growing fence something that will not spread and will be a fence for all time to come should give their orders now and get their fence started this fall.
