The Fence of the Future.
There are a number of strong points in favor of the Tuna Hedge as the fence of the future, the advantage of this kind of a fence may be briefly enumerated as follows: It becomes a perfect barrier against all kinds of domestic animals after three years growth; does not sap or impoverish the ground, being a strictly atmospheric plant, and will not grow from the seed or by cutting the roots hence will not spread, it grows only to a certain uniform height and therefore does not require trimming, it has been thoroughly and successfully tested in northern climates and does not kill out in the winter time, it serves the double purpose of usefulness and ornamentation, as it is an evergreen and blooms during three months of the year, an invitation is extended to thoroughly test its merits, and every one will be convinced that it possesses all the advantages claimed for it.

A Four-Year-Old Philosopher.
Among the many anecdotes relating to the late Rev. Thomas Hill, D. D., is one told by himself. Dr. Hill and his wife awoke quite early one morning and regarded with interest a crib which contained a precocious child of less than four years. Presently the child turned her face up to the ceiling and soliloquized: "Oh, how much easier it is for a person to think than to act. Now, with a dog it is right the other way."—Boston Traveller.

While treasurer of the Maine Central Mr. Linscott always made his own bank deposits, taking the immense amounts in bills wrapped in a newspaper under his arm as he rode up town on a street car.

A Gentle Maiden.
Friend—So Miss Beaufi refused you? De Sappe—Yes, but she did it very gently.

It is curious that Devonshire, England, is one of the few counties where the Duke of Devonshire owns no land. His estates, covering more than 198,000 acres, are scattered over fourteen counties, but Devonshire is not among them.
