Perhaps to the abnormal brightness of the weather, as much as to late election bets, is due reflection of so many new silk hats.

Miss Mabel S. Gray, daughter of Rev. D. B. Gray, formerly of The Dalles, was married in Portland on the 22d to Mr. Charles S. Fay.

The Regulator was loaded to the guards, so to speak, this morning. About 30 head of horses, several wagons, and a large lot of wheat.

The Regulator landing at Hood River, is being so fixed that hereafter passengers can land without the inconveniences which have hitherto been an obstacle at that point.

Mr. C. B. McKinstry, late of Little Rock, Iowa, has located in The Dalles, and formed a copartnership with Mr. J. M. Huntington, at the old stand in the Ruch building.

Wm. Ellis was taken to Portland by a deputy sheriff from Multnomah this morning, on a charge of skipping with a lot of chattels which he had mortgaged to other persons.

Slow progress is made in the trial of the Bergfeld case. There has been some pretty sharp sparring on the part of the attorneys on both sides today regarding the admissibility of testimony.

The ladies of the M. E. church of The Dalles will give an experience social New Years evening. The ladies are to each earn one dollar for the organ fund, and at the social will recite their experience in earning it.

Trains are now passing over the obstructions at Reeds on a trestle built above the buried track. The Geyser continues its work, but the stream has been turned into a canyon where it is thought no further trouble will be had with it.

A couple of Indians started for Warm Springs Agency Saturday with a huge zinc tank on their wagon. The tank measured twenty-one feet in circumference, and it looked somewhat dubious about their getting home with it safely.

Don't you know that the holidays are approaching and you will be expected to make some one a present? Then, if you do, take advantage of Pease & Mays' great reduction in prices in every department of their magnificent store. Don't stand in your own light and then kick yourself afterward for being so foolish.

The emperor of Austria has presented a silver medal to a female servant, who has, in his judgement, earned it by remaining seventy years in the employ of one family. In this country a servant who has been in one family seven months would be entitled to a silver medal. While one with a record of seven years should have a large gold one.

The barometer began falling here Saturday and last night reached 29.03 at 5:30 and continued stationary until this morning at 9:30. Since then it has risen to 29.11, and is stationary at 3 o'clock p. m. today. The wind is southerly and quite calm in movement. The rainfall is very light only .07 of an inch has fallen in the meantime.

Dr. Walker, who was a resident of The Dalles in early years, an army surgeon, was in the city last week on a visit. He bears the marks of Indian arrows upon his person, received in conflict with the savages in 1865, at cottonwood canyon. Arrows flew thick in that engagement, and to hear the story as Dr. Walker relates it, it was a narrow escape.

A New York paper gives an account of late record breaking by the Empire State Express on the New York Central railway, making the fastest time in its history with Engineer Edward Chase at the lever and Jim Stark as fireman, making the run from Syracuse to Albany, 147 miles, in 136 minutes. A four-minute stop was made at Utica, and during the trip the train was "slowed up" six times. This beats all previous world's records. The trial trip of this train, which astonished everybody, consisted of 148 miles in 146 minutes.

Mr. W. S. Chittenden, in a note to the editor, says he is delighted with Moscow. He says the region about there is the finest agricultural and stock country in the world. The Moscow artesian well furnishes the finest water he ever tasted, and in bonny supply. He took a tramp to the suburbs on the 20th, about which he says: "The city and surroundings are as beautiful as spring; the country is all a living green with freshness. 'As I looked upon it I felt a little green myself, that I had not come to this portion of the world sooner.'"

An interesting event occurred on board the steamer Dalles City last Friday. On that day a number of Indians went through from The Dalles, including a squaw with a baby. At Fisher's landing Mrs. D. P. Thompson went on board en route for Portland. Seeing the Indian woman with her papoose, Mrs. Thompson obtained permission from the mother to name the baby, and she named him Benjamin Harrison. After the ceremony Mrs. Thompson's attention was attracted to the necklace of beads and coins worn by the Indian mother, and the discovery was made that she had five Harrison medals, of the campaign of 1840, when the elder Harrison was elected to the presidency. Mrs. Thompson purchased two of the medals and will keep them as souvenirs of the christening.

For several years past Dalles City skaters have had no crystal congelation upon which to indulge their ambition and expertness. Last winter they had a few days and moonlight evenings, but the time was really too brief for anything like the pleasures of former seasons still remembered, hence it is not surprising that they are hopeful of a change, like the man in the time of adversity. Another class of our citizens who are thus hoping for a change, are the ice dealers and consumers.

"How to raise water by machinery for private use" is the subject up for discussion at the meeting of the horticultural society at Hood River next Saturday. From the amount of money spent for rams, mills and wheels it would seem that this subject is a very timely one, says the Glacier. Don't throw away $100 on something to raise water with and then find it will not fill the bill. Attend the horticultural meeting, and by listening and questioning find out just what you need before you buy. Discussion will be opened by H. C. Bateman.

Mr. Clary, a Kansas city gentleman who is taking in the Inland Empire on business, informs us there is still awaiting shipment at one city alone in the Palouse region 500,000 bushels of wheat, not one third of which is in warehouse, but is piled up on platforms on the outside. Six thousand cars of wheat have passed Ellensburg en route to Tacoma alone. Coupled with this statement is the fact that a great amount of wheat is still held by the farmers of eastern Washington for better prices, and yet not one-fourth of the wheat land is in cultivation. Taken as it is the situation plainly shows that with the Columbia river alone will be able to ship the products of the Inland Empire in anything like reasonable time annually in the near future.

Married.

At Chicken Springs, Oregon Nov. 25th, 1892, Mr. W. O. Cox of White Salmon to Miss Sophia Cloener of Clackamas Co. Rev. Baker, of Dufur officiating. Mr. Y. C. Stucky of Albany and Myra Helm acting as best man and bridesmaid.

Immediately after the ceremony a bountiful dinner was served after which a few social hours were spent in music and other entertainments when the happy couple left for their home at White Salmon in a shower of slippers and rice with best wishes and congratulations for a long and prosperous life of congenial happiness. #### The Comet Disappearing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Professor J. K. Rees of the Columbia college observatory was busy watching the comet to-night and also on the lookout for meteoric showers. At 9:30 o'clock he said the comet was scarcely visible and rapidly disappearing straight above the earth. "Tomorrow night," said Professor Rees, "I expect a brilliant display of falling meteors and probably on Monday night also. The best time to see the heavenly display is between the hours of 12 and 2 a. m., though it may commence earlier."

CHASED BY COUGAR.

An Exciting Incident Recorded by Juniper Flat.

Mr. Samuel Patterson has charge of two cougars, which were captured by a late arrival from the east, and while in the act of feeding them, they became enraged and jumping out of the cage, which was a frail affair, made of pine slats, they started for Mr. Patterson, who took to his heels, and made straight for the nearest juniper tree, which he climbed in great haste. It not being out of the cougar's line of business to climb, they too ascended the tree. Just at this stage of the game Mr. Patterson's screaming for help could be heard for miles, and the gentleman who captured the cougars happened to be on the ranch and hastened to the scene with a Winchester rifle in hand, with which he commenced firing. At three shots both cougars rolled to the ground dead. Mr. Patterson could stand the strain no longer; his eyes commenced to roll, and he fell to the ground unconscious. A little cold water is quickly administered and he returns to the land of the living. In regaining consciousness, he looked around and seeing the two cougars lying prostrate on the ground, he drew a long deep sigh of relief, staggered to his feet with the aid of his friend and took refuge in the house. Though not seriously ill, he is still very weak, and remains within doors by the orders of his family physician. J. F.

BORN.

At Salem, Oregon, Nov. 22d, 1892, to the wife of S. L. Fritz, a daughter. Weight 11 pounds.

They poulticed her feet and poulticed her head, and blistered her back till 'twas smarting and red, tried tonics, elixirs, pain-killers and salves, (though grandma declared it was nothing but "nerves.") And the poor woman thought she must certainly die. Till "Favorite Prescription" she happened to try. No wonder its praises so loudly they happened to hear. She grew better at once and was well in a week.

The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of "female weakness," yield like magic to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of woman. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms and relieves the pain accompanying functional and organic troubles. It's a legitimate medicine—an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nerve, and a positive remedy for "female weakness" and ailments. All functional disturbances, irregularities, and derangements are cured by it. There's nothing like it in the way it acts—there's nothing like it in the way it's sold. It's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or the money paid for it is promptly refunded.

Read the guarantee on the wrapper. You lose nothing if it doesn't help you—but it will.

Spraying is Essential.

Hillsboro Independent. The idea seems to prevail quite extensively among the apple growers of Oregon and Washington that it is useless to attempt to save apples from the ravages of the Codlin moth by spraying. Correspondents have in two or three instances lately, written letters claiming that no practical good results come from such spraying. These writers seem to forget that apples are raised and the codlin flourishes in a great many other places as well as in the Pacific northwest and that the orchardists of the leading apple growing districts do save a very large proportion of their apples from the ravages of the codlin moth by spraying with arsenite. What can be done elsewhere can be done here and, in fact, is done here. Reports have been made by a number of fruit growers in Oregon who have saved the greater part of their fruit by spraying. The reports of the results of the experiments at the Oregon Agricultural college have never been discredited, and Prof. Washburn reports that they have saved 85 per cent. of their apples by spraying this year. The proposed plan of trapping the worms of the codlin moth is an excellent one as far as it goes, and ought to be universally adopted. Until it is universally adopted and followed it will be necessary to spray the fruit because the moths which lay the eggs will not confine their operation to the orchard in which they developed but will fly also to the orchards in which all the worms have been trapped.
