G. B. McAulay and Van B. DeLashmunt have sold their stock in Cour d'Alene mine to G. B. Markle, Barney Goldsmith and others of Portland. The Wallace American reports that a new company has been formed, with G. B. Markle president and D. F. Sherman secretary and treasurer. The new company will immediately commence extensive improvements and developments of the property.

The venerable Elem Snipes, long and favorably known in the regions of the Inland Empire died at his residence near Goldendale on Friday last, aged 82 years. He has been a resident of Klickitat county since 1863. His birthplace was North Carolina, from which he came to Oregon. He leaves an aged widow and a large family of sons and daughters, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Mr. Ben E. Snipes and Mrs. James M. Smith of Seattle; Mrs. H. H. Allen, of North Yakima; Mr. George R. Snipes of this city, and Mr. Ed. Snipes of Goldendale, are the children who survive him.

Among the freaks to be seen in the east just now the strangest and most interesting are Mile, Aama and sister. The former is seven feet eleven inches in height, is yet but a mere girl of sixteen and growing at an enormous rate. Last year she grew three inches and physicians believe that she will reach the height of nine feet by the time she is twenty. This giant requires five meals a day to live comfortably and drinks about twenty-five quarts of water. Nothing less of a freak is her sister who is five years older, but 2 1/2 feet high. The contrast is most striking. The freaks belong to the Jura mountains in France, and their father is but a small man.

Mr. Folco got the cigars, in the attachment suit before Judge Tom Ward yesterday. The trial of the case was a most aggravating one, and at times counsel became warmed up to the pitch of battle. White's side was hotly contested by Judge J. B. Condon, and as strongly opposed by Messrs. Myers and Riddell. It was made clear to the jury that the attached goods belonged to White, and that his attempt to get them out of the way to avoid payment of his debts was fraud. The attachment holds the cigars, and the Sheriff puts up for the jury, and there was consequently no strike. Otherwise the jury intended to hold its verdict as compensation of fees.

Mr. George Belshaw, the famous wheat grower of Eugene now has the most magnificent collection of wheat he has ever raised and it will be placed in the Oregon exhibit at the Columbian exposition. This collection includes 200 bundles and eighty sacks of as many varieties of wheat. Many of the bundles of wheat stand over seven and a half feet high. Mr. Belshaw has been engaged for many years in testing varieties of wheat under a system of high culture and has experimented with over 200 varieties. As indicating what his skill, in conjunction with the favorable natural conditions found in Oregon can do, is the fact that wheat grown by him took the first place both at the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia in '76 and at the New Orleans exposition. He considers his present exhibit superior to any that he has ever made before.

The Roslyn gang are all safely held for trial in the Kittitas county jail, in bonds of $10,000 each; but they are of such a notorious band of outlaws that there will be plenty of chums to swear them out falsely. They have been a holy terror to the Inland Empire ever since they set up in business in what is known now as Gilliam county. At different times members of this gang have been arrested; but no jury can be found that will convict them. Some time ago one of the Zachary boys and George Roe were caught in the very act of killing and selling a stolen steer to a butcher. Roe skipped out, but was arrested and brought back. The evidence against him was of the strongest kind, and he was convicted. But did he go to the penitentiary? He was simply fined $1,500, which the gang paid. His partner in crime, equally guilty, was not even arrested, although the testimony showed that he helped butcher the steer and received half of the proceeds of the sale.

"Not Guilty."

The arguments in the Birgfeld case were finally made and the case went to the jury at midnight last night. The jury were out fifteen minutes, and returned a verdict of "Not Guilty."

The opening argument was made by Prosecuting Attorney Wilson, before adjournment yesterday evening. He spoke an hour and 30 minutes, and the court adjourned till 7:30 p. m., at which hour the court room was filled with spectators. Half an hour was taken up by counsel on a point of reading from references not admitted as evidence, when Judge Bennett took the floor and addressed the jury for two hours and twenty minutes. He was followed by Mr. E. B. Dufur, on the part of the prosecution, in a speech of an hour and ten minutes at which time (11:45), Judge Bradshaw briefly charged the jury and they retired with the result as above stated, and thus terminates one of the most intensely fought criminal actions ever produced in the courts of the Inland Empire.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A Very Large Vacancy in the Court Room Today.

The most noticeable thing in the circuit court room this morning, after the experiences of the past week was "vacancy." The hitherto well filled seats and crowded aisles had few occupants, but the court was pursuing its wonted way in a business-like manner. The case of M. M. Baldwin v. Wm. Snyder, for possession of property on Main street was decided by a verdict of the jury for plaintiff.

This afternoon the suit of the Water Supply Co. of Hood River v. W. Ross Winans is on trial. Mr. Winans considers that the water supply company are taking undue liberties with his property; that they would destroy his valuable water power at Winans, ruin his summer resort, impoverish him and lay waste all his plans of future development at the new town referred to in another column. Mr. Winans proposes to try the case and ascertain whether he has any vested rights which his would be neighbors are bound to respect, and for this purpose has employed counsel and empaneled a jury of his peers.

FIAT JUSTITIA.

Our Fellow Townsman Linus Hubbard and His Open Columbia River Work.

From the East Oregonian.]
With the Columbia river open and free the people of the great Inland Empire would be more prosperous and the country better developed. Cheaper transportation would make lands profitable which are idle at present, would encourage enterprise which is dormant now; would make men energetic who are listless today. It would do much to make the desert blossom as the rose. Several prosperous towns would spring up along both sides of the Columbia river, affording labor and opportunity to thousands in search of work. In short, it would be a progressive step which would never be forgotten. It would build up an Empire.

Among the foremost workers for an open river is Linus Hubbard, of The Dalles. He never wearies in his efforts; he breathes the air of the future free and open river; he proclaims from the hill tops the benefits it would bestow. Mr. Hubbard is a practical man, one who knows a thing or two, who has traveled and observed. He feels no hesitancy in declaring the greatest work of the time to be "An Open River." He has recently sent out photographs giving views of the steamers plying on the lower river, with appropriate remarks and a statement of facts existing on the river prior to the state opening the river below The Dalles. If the state will use the same means to open the river above the dalles the price for transporting wheat from points on and near the Columbia would be materially lessened. Undoubtedly the producers of Umatilla county would receive at least ten cents more per bushel for their grain than they do at present. This means at least $250,000 a year more in the pockets of the farmers east of the mountains. On this account an open river is very important and every citizen of the Inland Empire should do his utmost to assist in bringing it about.

Salmon Out of Season.

The arrival of fine Chinook salmon in the Columbia river, at the present time teaches the importance of a change in the close season. Their spawn cannot hatch during the open season, because of the miles of lead lines hauled by the tides across the spawning sands. The fish coming in now were hatched after the close of former seasons. Common sense would seem to dictate a change of the time for fishing. Close the present open season; let the fish have a chance to come in unobstructed and spawn for three years; and fish in the present close season. A Portland paper says of the present run: "Following close after the first lot of Columbia river smelt as usual, the first Chinook salmon made its appearance in the market yesterday. It was as plump as partridge, and as bright as a silver dollar, and had just come from the ocean. Fish sharps are at a loss to account for the unusually early arrival of the smelt and chinook salmon. Some say the flood in the river has brought them up, but a flood at this season is no unusual thing, and has never brought the fish up so early before. Early springs are not uncommon here, but it is hardly possible that spring has come before winter has set in. Probably the fish will find that they have been a little too previous and will go back and wait till their usual season comes around." A man cannot be very much of a "fish sharp" to be unable to account for the "unusually early arrival." The fish simply hatched later in the season, probably three or five years ago, have matured, and come home to spawn. That's all there is to it.

Married.

In Dayton, Wash., Nov. 24th, Miss Julia Southwell of Wasco county, and Mr. Herman C. Bade, of Dayton.

Two doctors of an Eastern town, To learning much inclined, Were called to see a gentleman, Whose health was undermined. The first one used his stethoscope Upon his patient's neck. "I find," quoth he, "one lung is gone! You cannot live a week." To this the other wise M. D. Vehemently objected. "I see," quoth he, "as all may see, Your kidneys are affected." These wise men argued loud and long, Yet the patient over recovery (Not to those doctors, but to— Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.)

There are some patent medicines that are more marvelous than a dozen doctors' prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything. Everybody, now and then, feels "run-down," "played out." They've the will, but no power to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor wouldn't do for less than five or ten. We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. We claim it to be an unequalled remedy to purify the blood and invigorate the whole system. It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, no matter how many doses are ordered for a dollar. Why? Because it's sold on a peculiar plan, and you only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more?

While There is Life There is Hope.

East Oregonian. It looks as if the Indian depredation claims presented by residents of this locality, which have been hanging-fire for a long time and have occasioned the visits of several government agents to Pendleton, will soon be settled by Uncle Sam. It is reported that several parties are receiving vouchers, which, after being duly signed, will be followed by warrants. The names of two were learned. Last Saturday Frank S. Landry received a voucher for $941. During the Indian war of 1878 the redskins destroyed his house and all its contents. He was then residing on Owen's creek, about midway between Willow Springs and Beasley's mill. Mr. Landry found it convenient to be absent about the time the Indians made their informal call. G. D. Richardson is also in receipt of a voucher. He will be paid about $200 for property which the swashes confiscated.

Blaine is Improving.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—It is said at Blaine's residence this morning that he continues to improve. There has been no set-back since the first, and at the present rate of discovery, he will be able to ride out as soon as the weather becomes fair.

Good Prospects.

La Grande Chronicle. More wheat will be sown this year than ever before, and next harvest, with a favorable season, there will be a vast amount marketed. The demands for an open river are becoming more urgent every year.
