Mr. John Cook of San Francisco, formerly of the Baldwin hotel barber, arrived in the city last evening, and will occupy a chair in Mr. Fisher's tonorial parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Faurie, late of Ill., have located in Fossil. They are in all probability be able to report to others in the sucker state that Inland Empire of Oregon is a very profitable locality for bona fide settlers.

A carpenter in La Grande is reported as a point of death from having applied his lips to the faucet of a whiskey barrel and drinking for ten minutes continuously. The prevailing opinion is that he wished to commit suicide and would think of no happier death than an overdose of whiskey.

Mr. T. H. Johnston, one of the active business men of Dufur, is in the city today, working up the new Tygh county scheme. He says Dufur is alive to the project of a state portage around the dalles of the Columbia, and stand prepared to furnish convincing data as to the feasibility of the plan proposed and formerly indorsed by Portland influence.

The press of the state very generally is outspoken in favor of such an appropriation for the militia as will render the organization of our citizen-soldiers complete and effective. The members of the O. N. G. in the meantime look on with practical unconcern; willing to serve the state if desired, but also perfectly willing to be disbanded if no encouragement is shown the organization.

About Forfeited Lands.

People not residing on forfeited railway lands they desire to purchase are warned not to delay contemplated filings. A dispatch from Washington today says that in both houses of congress efforts have been made to relieve persons who have claims upon lands forfeited within the railroad grants. Senator Dolph said today that persons not actually residing on their lands, and entitled to purchase forfeited railroad lands, should make entry and payment for their lands at once, and not depend on legislation extending the time. He has not succeeded in getting a report upon his bill in the senate from the interior department as yet, and is not sure of securing favorable consideration of the bill in the senate. He has learned from Mr. Hermann that there is no possibility of passing the bill in the house. He makes this statement to warn purchasers not to permit the time to expire without completing their purchases.

Mr. Merrill Fish came up on the noon train from Portland.

Latest reports say Mr. Blaine has experienced another astonishing and unexpected improvement in his condition.

Gen. Ben Butler died at his home in Washington city yesterday. His death created an immense surprise, as it was not even known he was ailing any more than any man who had lived and labored so long would.

An Idaho diamond hunter who has hitherto relied on the industrious ants to bring his gems to the surface, intends to start a badger ranch and expects by next fall to have two or three hundred badgers flinging "first waters" to the surface.

The city pound is a point of attraction again. This morning there was one horse and a cow brute within its fold. No doubt some will kick, while a good many will be thankful that the visiting cow will no longer seek her living in our streets and door yards.

The Idaho legislature this winter will hardly be so exciting as the preceding session, when the Gem of the Mountains stocked up with an over supply of United States senators. Nevertheless Gov. McConnell may be relied upon to keep the boys from going to sleep.

Wild Goose Stories.

Last fall when wild geese were super-abundant in supply up in Sherman county, a farmers boy shot one which was only disabled by a broken wing. He took the goose home and doctored it, and it soon became so tame as to follow the boy wherever he went, eat from his hands and even poke his head into the boys pockets for wheat. Soon after this incident, a band of wild geese flying over the premises and making their usual clatter attracted the attention of the domesticated gander, which gave an outlandish display of quacking and shrill yells in goose language, which had most startling effect with the band flying past. A fine goose was seen to leave the band and shoot down until it landed in the yard at the side of the pet, and the meeting was demonstrative to an exciting degree. Their gabbling, quacking and amusing antics afforded as much fun for the boys, who witnessed the meeting, as they could have found at a circus. The new arrival, which is probably a mate of the now tame goose, refuses to leave, but will fly over the fence when the two are approached by the boys and then fly back to the mate when the boys step aside. There is a band of wild geese in The Dalles, owned by Capt. Johns, so tame that they can be driven through the streets, but Mr. Johns raised these from the eggs. These incidents go to show that our Inland Empire will geese may be domesticated.

Another New County.

Mr. Van Woodruff of Tygh valley informs us that the citizens of the southern part of the county are bestirring themselves and are preparing a petition for the foundation of a new county to be known as Tygh county, with the county seat at Tygh Valley city. They propose to make the Des Chutes the eastern boundary, 15-Mile, Dufur the northern and Crook on the south, with the summit of the Cascades for its other boundaries. They say that they see no reason why they should not have a county government of their own, as well as other portions of the country. They have as good material for county officials, and as many as other aspirants for new creations.

CRATER LAKE UNDER SNOW.

A Cerelean Gem Whose Snowy Setting is Rimmed by the Horizon.
From the Klamath Star.]

Crater lake in the winter is a spectacle few white men have witnessed. In the winter of '87 Dr. C. K. Smith, then the agency physician, Bird Loosley and Indian Pedro climbed up there, dragging a sled over the hard snow-crust. They remained one day at the lake, the doctor returning disappointed by some peculiar action of the light which prevented his camera from catching a picture of the lake. G. J. Farnsworth, who arrived yesterday from Prospect, came by way of the wonderful lake on snowshoes. He describes it as grand. In order to make this awful chasm a very gem of sublimity, Nature must fill all its clefts and cover all its spurs with snow. Then the lake must be frozen and snowed over, as seen from the dizzy slopes of snow is narrowed to the appearance of a dark cerulean gem whose snowy setting is rimmed by the horizon. One would expect to see this gem on the breast of one of the Titans sung by Hesiod in his Theogony. A monstrous giant who could heap up mountains to scale the sky would look magnificent with such a breastplate glittering in the moonlight.

According to Farnsworth's account of the travel between Prospect and Crater lake it is not exactly the country for lolly ludes or piano tuners. If anything is ever planted around there it ought to be the adulterated seeds that are prepping into the market just now, but no dude nor anything healthy could grow there. No doubt Mr. Farnsworth thought as he sat there under the blue and pitiless heaven how he'd like to sit down in the warm agricultural college at Corvallis and tell the professors that the fruit pest is unknown around Crater lake, especially in the winter season, and that canned fruit could be raised there several thousand feet above the level of the sea. The country up there is wrapped in a mantle of deep snow.
