

To Our Friends and Patrons.

WE HAVE rather neglected our Advertising of late, not because we had nothing to sell; but we had nothing especially new to offer, and preferred to wait until we could say something of interest. We are, and have been for some time, busily engaged in placing our orders for Spring and Summer Goods and feel justified in announcing that we shall have the FINEST ASSORTMENT and the BEST GOODS in all our lines that has ever been seen in The Dalles. We have secured some genuine novelties in the Dry Goods Department, and the ladies will certainly consult their best interests by deferring their purchases until after their arrival of which we shall give you due notice. Keep both eyes on this space and we will certainly surprise you, not only with the goods, but the prices at which we shall sell them. We mean business and propose to have your patronage, if LOW PRICES and the BEST GOODS will accomplish it. Yours Respectfully,

PEASE & MAYS.

The launch of the steamer Regulator and Western Queen did not come off today according to programme, in consequence of the fact that there was no water in sight. Folco admitted having written the letter, but denied that it was of an obscene nature. The commissioner, however, saw fit to give the letter an obscene construction, which was contrary to the meaning intended by Mr. Folco, as he endeavored to explain it. Folco gave the required bond for his appearance and was set at liberty.

It is now stated for a fact that Gov. Penney says he "would not have vetoed the Raley bill." A correspondent of the east Oregonian says "the governor believes the state should not make this appropriation, as the government engineers have given it out that they will report favorably and urge the government to build the identical road which the state is now talking of building." This may all be true. But we don't want any more 20 years' waiting to capture the bird in the bush. "The bird in hand" is provided for by the Raley bill. If there is a decad apprehension that the United States government is in danger of doing anything QUICK! to open this river, by building a portage on top of the state railway, the matter might be readily adjusted by a proviso that: In the event of such an unlooked for incident, on the part of congress, the state could gracefully retire from the work and let Uncle Sam go ahead.

MISTAKEN ECONOMY.

An Error Which Should Have Been Discovered a Little Sooner.

From The Oregonian, 27th.)
The defeat of the bill for a portage railway around The Dalles is to be regretted. This was not a local project, though it was defeated by local influences. Its benefits would have been shared by the whole state. The obstruction this improvement is designed to circumvent lies across the main route of communication between Oregon and the east. Increased cost of transportation due to it affects every part of the state which trades with the east, whether situated on the lower Columbia or the Willamette. Reduction of the cost of shipment by this route would bring down cost of shipment on all competing routes, through whatever part of the state. It is an error to conceive the Columbia river merely as a route for shipments for Eastern Oregon wheat to the sea.

It is the one great channel of direct communication between all of Oregon and the rest of the United States; the main land conduit of all our domestic trade, both import and export. Cost of transportation by this route cannot be reduced without compelling reduction of rates on all other routes, whether through the state of Washington or Southern Oregon. The whole state, indeed the whole northwest, is interested in the opening of the Columbia river. It was shortsighted and mistaken economy to organize the senators from Southwestern Oregon against the portage railway bill. There is hardly any equal expenditure of money from which the whole state can realize equal benefit.

* * * Thousands of dollars have been appropriated for wagon roads, which have been of less real benefit to the people of the localities directly affected than would be the effective opening of the Columbia river to the people of the remotest corner of the state. It seems easier to get money from the state of Oregon for local jobs and sentimental extravagance than for large public benefits.

The appropriation committee has agreed on a pension appropriation bill. It carries an appropriation of $165,400,000, an increase of $20,662,650 over the appropriation for the current year.

The ballots at Olympia yesterday show a loss of three for Allen, and one for Turner. It stood as follows: Allen, 48; Turner, 24; Griggs, 26; Teats, 9; Dunbar 1.

Dr. Rinehart finished moving into his elegant residence, at the head of Laughlin street yesterday. The doctor deserves congratulations on having one of the most picturesque locations and the handsomest residence in the city. He has, in addition to all the modern improvements, put electric lights in every room, from basement to attic. There are but few cities on the coast of the size of The Dalles that can boast of as many beautiful houses as this can.

Yesterday's CHRONICLE quotes a Portland paper, as saying that, the cold was so severe at that place, as to freeze the words on the telephone wires, and intimating that it surpassed the incident reported from the east, of the engineer who was frozen at the throttle. The Dalles is generally found in the procession, and a case is reported here of a man who was actually "frozen out" during the recent cold snap, while sitting by a red hot stove, trying to enjoy himself in a game of cards. He lost his last nickel.

Trapping the Gully.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Franqueville, the examining magistrate, has found true bills of accusation against Deputy and ex-Minister of Finance Rouvier; Senator Albert Grevy, brother of the late president of the republic; Senator Reral, Senator Deves and Senator Leon Ranauld, on charges of corruption in connection with the Panama canal committee. Proceedings against Rouvier and other defendants originated through the discovery of counterfoils of the so-called Thierré checks, which were supposed to have been burned. They were discovered in the following manner: A committee appointed by the chamber of deputies to investigate the charges of corruption in connection with the Panama investigation received an anonymous letter declaring that the counterfoils had been photographed, and giving the name and address of the photographer. The matter was followed up and the commissary of police at once found the missing counterfoils.

Down on The French.

PANAMA, Jan. 27.—The newspaper El Porvenir, of Cartagena, publishes a letter from Panama, revealing an alleged violation of the contract on the part of the Panama canal company in the transfer of material to the Panama railroad. The letter states that in August last the company effected the sale of 951 cars and 28 locomotives for $400,000. This, according to the letter, is regarded as a fraudulent attempt to swindle the republic of Colombia. The newspaper Observador, of Panama, is opposed to further negotiations with the French. It is said their dealings are dishonorable, and no good can result to Colombia from negotiating with them.

When a new member was initiated into the Westphalian vengerichte and swore to keep the secrets of the society from wife and child, father and mother, sister and brother, from fire and sword, from the things warmed by the sun or nourished by the rain, he did so with the thumb and two fingers of his right hand upon the cross hilt of a sword. An oath so taken was held to be irrevocable and not to be annulled by even the pope himself. Chambers' Journal.

Great Britain seems to have the everlasting cinch on Egypt. A revolt by the Egyptian government would probably be seized upon by Downing street as a pretext for further occupation, under the plea of protecting the British bondholders. That game worked to perfection when Arabi Pasha rose in insurrection.

This will furnish irrigation to every farm on the flat, and will make that portion of Wasco the garden spot of the county.

Her breath— you could smell it afar,
She had ringing and dizziness oft in her head,
And the cause of it all was catarrh.
