EASTERN OREGON'S HOPE.

If those people in the valley who are so very anxious to see the state put up $400,000 for the Willamette falls canal and locks are in earnest, they must give the people of the Inland Empire credit for just as much honesty of purpose in the pursuit of our plan to open the Columbia river by the enactment of the Raley bill for the dalles portage railway. The Columbia is one of the natural highways of this nation, and its improvement opens up an empire of territory; it is a work for the United States government to perform, but the people are sick and disgusted with waiting. The canal and locks at the cascades of the Columbia will be finished next year by the general government, and the Inland Empire cannot afford to wait another twenty years for some kind of relief above The Dalles. These people have asked for the temporary relief which may be afforded by the construction of the portage railway provided for in Mr. Raley's bill. This measure is certainly of as much importance to us as the proposition to purchase the Willamette canal and locks at $400,000 is to the people of the valley. We are a unit on the proposition, however, of having the state own the canal and locks at the Willamette falls; Eastern Oregon has never wavered in her support of any meritorious act for the benefit of any division of Oregon, and we expect equal fairness from others. In another column today is reproduced an article from the Oregonian yesterday which might have done this region much good had it appeared before the supposed death of the Raley bill on the 25th. In this connection we take pleasure in copying the following from the Telegram of last night:

"Eastern Oregon has made a gallant fight for the portage railway bill. Their forlorn hope made a hard struggle, but it was outvoted. Portland cannot help sympathizing with the Inland Empire, and it is doubtful if part of the Multnomah delegation thoroughly represented the wishes of their constituents when they voted against the bill. It may be that the majority did right in defeating the measure, and its reconsideration ordered yesterday will probably not result in its success, but still Eastern Oregon must be given credit for sincerity in supporting the bill and having excellent reasons in urging its passage. That section will also keep record of those men who favored or opposed it, for future use when they may be running for office. Unless a person has closely followed the sentiment of Eastern Oregon, observed the feelings carefully of the towns there and the farming sections, he cannot appreciate how much they longed for the passage of this bill. Its defeat is a bitter pill for them. The national government is so slow that its methods are tantalizing and irritating, and the appeal to the state is the cry of the people who are in need. In the portage road, Eastern Oregon saw an aid to business and impetus to growth that would far counterbalance the cost of construction. The senators from the Willamette valley evidently failed to see the question in that light. It cannot be expected that all important and expensive legislation is to benefit the whole state, nor should the fact that Portland as well as Eastern Oregon would be benefited act as a selfish check. If the state is to make any large appropriation, there are few improvements more worthy than this."

The best of men have troubles, and in refraining from public mention of domestic matters of this kind, in Seattle and Portland, THE CHRONICLE is simply actuated by one motive; which we wish might become more universal, with malice to none.

A dispatch from Corvallis notes the arrival there of E. C. M. Rand, of New York; Henry Wood, of Tacoma, and C. H. Gest, of Seattle, with C. E. Bowen, stenographer, constituting the expert commission chosen by the eastern bondholders of the Oregon Pacific railroad company to examine the property of the road. They will remain until Monday, when they will begin their duties of inspection along the line.

There are 378 idle men in the penitentiary. This legislature must do something besides contract for the putting of a jute mill, or these men will remain idle for many months—and it would cost over $500,000 to put in a jute mill big enough to employ them all. It is an easier matter to talk about settling this question than to settle it, as we have often remarked before. If the 90 men who have the matter in hand could come to a conclusion satisfactory to all the other men who would be left more

A CHILDLESS HOME.

Smith and his wife have every luxury that money can buy, but there is one thing lacking to their happiness. Both are fond of children, but no little voices prattle, no little feet patter in their beautiful home. "I would give ten years of my life if I could have one healthy, living, child of my own," Smith often says to himself. No woman can be the mother of healthy offspring unless she herself is in good health. If she suffers from female weakness, general debility, bearing-down pains and functional derangements, her physical condition is such that she cannot hope to have healthy children. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign and guaranteed remedy for all these ailments. Worn-out, "run-down," feeble women, need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It builds them up. It's a powerful, restorative tonic, or strength-giver—free from alcohol and injurious drugs. The entire system is renewed and invigorated. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, gives refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. It's the only guaranteed medicine for women, sold by druggists.

WINANS

THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large slightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil, pure cold water and shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort and for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is also unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse power in its rushing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturing will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be excelled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
