An Epidemic of Hiccoughs. What is called an epidemic of hiccoughs is reported as prevailing on the Maryland and Delaware peninsula, and in some cases it has proved fatal. The case of Richard Cole, colored, who resided near Middletown, Del., baffled the physicians, as have others, and he fell a victim after coughing violently for four weeks. His death has attracted much attention from physicians. Edward Pardee, a farmer residing in Jones Neck, was stricken sixteen weeks ago with the disease and has hiccoughed incessantly since. At times his life is despaired of, but the attacks become less violent and he rallies. He is now slowly improving. Every mail has brought letters to the family of the sufferer for many weeks, the writers advising the use of different remedies, all of which have been tried to no avail .- Cor. Baltimore Sun.

A Man Cremated Alive in a Furnace. A frightful accident occurred at the North Lonsdale Iron company's works at Ulverston. A man named John McAllister was working on the top of one of the blast furnaces, and when tipping in a barrow of limestone he stumbled and fell headlong into the burning furnace. The furnace was immediately damped down, but nothing more was seen of him. The burial service held on the top of the furnace was read by the Rev. Father Allan. It will be remembered that a similar fatality occurred recently in the neighborhood of Carnforth, and that there the burial service was also read by a clergyman on the top of the furnace. - London Tit-Bits.

In Geneva county recently a jury by its verdict settled the value of kisses in this state. A young fellow named William Horton was indicted for assault and battery on Miss Sallie Jones. The testimony of the young woman was that Horton had laid violent hands on her and kissed her against her will. Horton testified that the kiss was with Miss Sallie's free will and consent, and that he had kissed her 150 times before. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty and as a fine of $150, stating that kisses in Geneva were worth one dollar each.-Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Emperor's Other Arm Burt. The fact that the Emperor William met with a rather serious accident during his recent shooting excursion has been kept very quiet indeed. The emperor, while engaged in a wild boar hunt, slipped and fell heavily on his right arm, which was so severely bruised and sprained that it had to be kept in a sling for two days, and his majesty was a line for two days, and his majesty was the severe severy sabeling for two days. The severe severy sabeling for two days, and his majesty was the severe severy sabeling for two days. This accident might have had grave results, for the emperor's left arm is absolutely useless.-London World.

Swift Justice.

A North Carolina tourist, in Cuba, had This watch stolen on the street. In less than two hours a police judge had sentenced the robber to three years' imprisonment. He also awarded the North Carolinian twenty-three dollars damages for the injury sustained by his watch in the struggle for its possession, and or-dered the convict to work it out. -Philadelphia Ledger.

The Oldest Gunner Dead.

The oldest gunner in the United States navy, the venerable George Sirian, died the other day in Portsmouth, Va. His life was full of romance and adventures. Born in 1817, on the Greek isle of Ipsalia, he was made a homeless orphan by the attack and massacre by the Turks of the inhabitants of that island in 1826. The bombardment of the Turks by the old Constitution-"Old Ironsides" saved the lives of a large number, and he was among eleven boys who survived and were brought away by that gallant old vessel. He was brought home by Lieutenant Randolph, of Richmond, the executive officer of the ship.

Later he was taken by Mr. Marshall, gunner in the United States navy, from Lieutenant Randolph and by him taught gunnery and pyrotechnics. At the age of twenty he entered the navy as a gun-ner, and in many a hard fought battle afterward showed that the blood of the Greeks, famous at Marathon and Thermopyle, at Platea and Mycenæ, still lived in his veins.—New York Ararad.

Kept Money in the Parlor Stove. One of our well known school teachers and her mother met with quite a loss recently, and a novel though costly one it They had saved some money during the summer, and had placed it for safe keeping in the parlor stove, this stove being unused, of course, during the summer. With the coming of the cold snap a fire was lighted, the money for the time being forgotten. When the purse was thought of, it had been entirely consumed. The ladies lost fifty dollars. They had used the stove be-fore for a saving place, but everything had turned out well.—Lawrence Amer

Thanksgiving Day in New York City. It used to be that Thanksgiving day in New York was, like the day all over the eastern part of the country, a day which centered around a dinner. This dinner was inevitable, and the families saw each other then that never saw each other in a group at any other time. The prodigal returned for it; the poor relation looked forward to it and praised it as it progressed heavily through its different courses; and the several members of the family tried to be more polite and genial and loving toward one another at that meal than at any other of the three times 365 other meals of the year. There are some who like family dinners, and there are other wicked ones who sympathize with the young woman who assented to having a family dinner by saying, "Yes, and let us have any family but our own!" It is an awful and solemn ceremony in many homes, and it is made more so, as a rule, by some one of the elder of the poor relations, who endeavors to enliven the general gloom by trying to be "the life of the dinner." He does this by growing reminiscent over the younger members, and telling how pretty they were as children, and how they used to make him tell and retell the old story of the roast pig he stole the night before Gettysburg, with which introduction he promptly tells the old story again.

It may not be so everywhere, but around New York city this has all changed. It is not that the families around the great metropolis love each other less, or that they have less cause or less desire to be thankful, but a great and powerful and fascinating rival has come te take the place of the Thanksgiving day dinner, and it is known not only in New York, but from Texas, or wherever else a Yale man is carrying a transit, to Canada, or wherever else the Princeton man is building a bridge, as the Thanksgiving day game.

And now everybody goes out to see Princeton and Yale decide the football championship, and instead of boring each other around a dinner table, grow hourse and exhausted in shouting for their favorite son or the college of their son. Harper's Weekly.

The Husband Should Be Boss.

Judge Finletter, in charging the jury in a case tried in common pleas court, gave an opinion emphatically sustaining the rights of husbands to rule their homes.

The suit was that of John Yates against Christiana F. M. Greaves, brought to recover damages for false arrest and malicious prosecution. Miss Greaves boarded in Yates' house. She was ordered by him to leave, but Mrs. Yates, to whom Miss Greaves paid her board, told her to stay. Yates subsequently, upon coming home, quarreled with his wife and, it is alleged, choked her, and when Miss Greaves interfered, it is alleged, he threatened her. The next morning Mrs. Yates went with Miss Greaves to a magistrate's office. where the latter swore out a warrant charging Yates with threatening her life. He was locked up, and spent the night in a station house. Miss Greaves did not appear against Yates the next day and he was dis-charged, but in her behalf it was alleged that her nonappearance was due to a solicitation by Yates' brother-in-law, who said that he couldn't get bail. After his release Yates brought the present guit against Miss Greaves. Judge Finletter said that Miss Greaves should have obeyed the direction of Yates to leave. She had no right to remain in the house against his wish. The jury would therefore have to find a verdict for the plaintiff. In arriving at the damages they should consider the condi-tion in life of the parties, but in finding for the plaintiff they should not "fix their verdict for him for a few dollars or a few cents, making it ridiculous by the small amount, but they should give him such a sum as would show that in Philadelphia every husband has the right and nust rule his own household." The jury after a short deliberation re-turned a verdict of $500 for the plaintiff. -Philadelphia Press.
