PENNOYER'S VETOES

Durham Bill Would Destroy Secrecy of Ballot.

ARTESIAN WELL BILL KILLED

The Governor Thinks That He Alone
Has the Right to Appoint a Game Warden.

SALEM, Feb. 23.—Governor Penoyer today filed the following vetoes:
Senate bill No. 55. The purpose and provisions of this bill are similar to those of house bill No. 154, already filed.
House bill No. 280. This is a duplicate of senate bill No. 85, already filed.

"To the house of Representatives: House bill No. 175, amendatory of the election law, is herewith returned with my disapproval. The present election law has only been in operation for the last two years. It has secured that which every citizen should desire, the secrecy and sanctity of the ballot. The citizens of Oregon have become familiar with its provisions, and objections plausible at the time of its enactment are fruitless now, after a successful trial. Although doubtless not intended, the effect of the change proposed by this bill would be to destroy, in a measure, the secrecy of the ballot, and to afford an opportunity for vote buying. The result it is most certain, would be desired neither by the legislature nor the people. I therefore veto the bill."
"To the House of Representatives: House bill No. 206 is herewith returned with my disapproval. It provides for an appropriation of money raised by a general tax for the sinking of artesian wells in the several counties of the state of Oregon containing arid lands. Such an expenditure of money is neither for governmental purposes nor for the general benefit. It would be an appropriation from the general fund for a local purpose, and would, therefore, be unjust, if not unconstitutional. Besides, under the terms of the bill, it would be in conflict with section 8, article 9 of the constitution. I veto the bill."

"To the House of Representatives: I herewith return house bill No. 110 with my dissent. The purpose of this bill is similar to senate bill 108, already filed. Both provide for the protection of game and fish, but while the senate bill provides for the election of a game and fish protector by the legislative assembly, the house bill provides for his selection by a commission thus elected. The legislature by the provision of the house bill would thus be delegating to a commission the right to select an officer to enforce state laws, a right which it is doubtful if it possesses itself, but which, if it possessed, it has no authority to delegate to others. This is a most unwarranted departure from the true spirit of the constitution, which compels the governor to make oath that he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and which therefore confers upon him instead of upon the legislature or upon a commission not recognized by the constitution, the appointment of all officers for the enforcement of state laws. I veto the bill."

The governor also vetoed house bill No. 103, which relates to foreclosure or satisfaction of mortgages.

The Kansas Muddle.

TOPEKA, Feb. 23.—The maximum freight-rate bill passed the populist house unanimously this morning. It cuts the present rates 25 to 35 per cent. and divides the state into three districts, each governed by three commissioners elected from the respective districts by a vote of the people of the whole state.

The house also passed a resolution setting forth that the capital of the state is now located near the eastern border of the state to the detriment of the western counties, which have been disfranchised by republican rule; that the conduct of the people of Topeka during the late unpleasantness was in defiance of the wishes of the people of the state; that the city of Kanopolis offers to duplicate the present statehouse without cost to the people, and declaring that as soon as possible the capital be moved to that city.

Sunday Opening of the Fair.
Communicated.

I believe the world's fair should be open seven days of the week because it is a world's fair. It is not a church nor a sectarian fair, and it should be a world's fair in every sense of the word, open to the world at all times, to come and go when they please, irrespective of my or any other person's sectarian belief. Us so-called Christians may be in the majority in this country, although I doubt it, but if we are, the minority has rights that we are bound to respect. In the United States, we have one and a half million Jews, and one-half million Adventists that have a different day from ours for their Sunday, and there are several millions that have no established Sunday belief. Now, are we acting like Christians when we say to these people and to millions outside of the United States, "We Christians don't want to go to the fair on our Sunday, and you shan't go." Does that show a child-like spirit? No, no, a thousand times no. Hades is chock full of such Christians. By all means let the fair be open on Sunday, and by that means let the world know that we are a civilized Christian nation; that we respect their beliefs and opinions; and that we are willing to grant them the same rights, privileges and freedom that we claim for ourselves. When we cannot do this, we are not fit subjects to live in a free country, we show ourselves to be too narrow-minded to touch the reins of a free government and that we are living in a wrong age, our time for earthly existence having passed six hundred years ago, and the quicker such narrow-minded, tyrannical heathens pass off and are forgotten, the better it will be for this progressive half-civilized country.

RIM ROCK.

Gave Her Ring to Uncle Sam for Liberty.

A young lady, a gold ring and a United States patent letter box were the central figures in a little sidewalk drama enacted at the corner of Joyner and Chelsea streets, Charlestown, which was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience.

A young lady in Charlestown went to drop a letter in one of the new patent letter boxes, with the tilting lever, and being evidently used to the old style of box, where it is sometimes necessary, in order that the letter be really dropped to the bottom, to push it through the slot with the finger, she followed the missive with her hand to be sure that it was safely deposited. Then, satisfied that her sacred epistle was all right, she started to withdraw her hand, when the ring on her finger held her hand firmly, and all her efforts to withdraw it proved in vain.

Some suggested that she try to pull her finger out of the ring, but the attempt proved unsuccessful. Then a few excited persons favored breaking the box with an ax, when a bright policeman appeared upon the scene, and viewing the situation, immediately went for a file with which to file the ring off the finger. It proved impossible to get the file into the box, and finally after half an hour the hand was extricated minus the ring.—Boston Cor. Chicago Herald.

Auction Parties.

Auction parties are something of a novelty. On entering the guest is provided with the means to purchase—little bags filled with beans, every bean taking to itself a dollar value. The "lots" are carefully concealed from view, and are being put in boxes and tied up in varicolored tissue paper. It is not safe to trust to bulky appearance, as often the most promising parcel reveals an insignificant result. Some of the purchases are dainty trifles, many absurdities and jokes. Funny catalogues add to the amusement of an auction party, which is really simply another way to bestow "favors."—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Brass in England in Chaucer's Time.

A metal resembling brass, but said to have been superior in quality, was known in England as "maslin" as early as the time of Chaucer, and in the reign of Henry VIII an act of parliament was passed prohibiting the export of brass out of England. Whether the earlier monumental brasses still to be found in our churches were made originally in England is not absolutely certain, the probability, according to some antiquaries, being that they were of French or Belgian workmanship.—Chambers' Journal.

A Snake That Swallowed a Man.

Large specimens of boa constrictors have been known to swallow men whole. The case is related by the traveler Girondiere of a criminal in the Philippines islands who hid from justice in a cavern. His father, who alone knew of his hiding place, went sometimes to see him and to take him rice for food. One day he found instead of his son an enormous boa asleep. He killed it and found his son's body in the snake's stomach.—Washington Star.

Great Coal Development.

An extraordinary development is taking place in the coal fields of West Yorkshire, England, and it is expected that the mines of that region will reach an annual capacity of 80,000,000 tons within the next three years.—New York Journal.

Penoyer's Appointments.

SALEM, Feb. 24.—Gov. Penoyer today made the appointment of Oregon world's fair commissioners as follows: W. F. Matlock, from the state board of agriculture, of Pendleton; R. D. Allen, from the state board of horticulture, Silverton; E. B. McElroy, from the state board of education; Geo. T. Myers, representing the fishing interests, Portland; Mrs. E. W. Allen, of Portland, from July 1 and Mrs. Dr. Payton, Salem, until July 1.

Reading Deal Affects Wanamaker.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The World this morning says that it was reported in this city yesterday that John Wanamaker had lost $2,000,000 in the Reading crash. In regard to it Henry Clews said:

"Mr. Wanamaker lost money, no doubt, but no such amount as $2,000,000. The facts of the case are these: Reading was largely owned by Philadelphia people. Just how much stock Mr. Wanamaker had cannot be ascertained, but it is well known that he has been a large holder. The Philadelphia people knew that the crash was coming, and they prepared for it as much as possible. I doubt if there is any considerable amount of Reading stock held in Philadelphia today. Between the time the stock was rated from 57 down to the Philadelphia holders deluged the market with their own stock in order to protect themselves. Even disposing of the stock at those prices, Mr. Wanamaker has undoubtedly been a heavy loser, but nothing in comparison to what he would have had he continued holding the stock. The persons who have been bitten in this drop are the New Yorkers. Mr. Wanamaker is a shrewd business man, and you may be assured that he would prepare as far as possible for the crash by disposing of his stock. The future of Reading stock is of much interest to business men now."

Russell Sage didn't think it possible Mr. Wanamaker could have lost $2,000,000. "There is no doubt," he said, "that he was a loser by the Reading crash, for everybody knew that he was a large holder of Reading; but when people talk about $2,000,000 in losses they are exaggerating."

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City, Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. He says: "I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy some fourteen years ago with much success, and concluded to try it again. When I got through with one bottle my cough had left me, and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others, and all speak well of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill., was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good; but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.

Will Ignore the Courts.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 23.—Late last night the populist majority in the senate put through a resolution declaring the supreme court had no jurisdiction in the house muddle, as the house, under the constitution, was the judge of the qualification of its own members. This action it is believed, foreshadows the intention of the populists to ignore the court's decision.
