A Wonderful Opportunity, Closed This

The surprising opportunity of securing the great Encyclopedia Britannica, elsewhere presented, closes, so far as this paper is concerned, with this week. Our arrangement with the publisher was for four weeks only, and this is the last of the four. It is the great genuine Encyclopedia Britannica, over 20,500 pages, 10,000 illustrations and 100 maps, in good cloth binding, all for $20.00, and even that payable (with $1.00 extra) in the state circuit court at Portland of installments of $1.00 every twenty days. some trouble and expense. A large audience assembled at the court house last night to listen to the contest for a silver medal. Walter Reavis won the medal, his selection 3, section 36, tp 1 n, r 13 e. Considerabeing "Patriotic Prohibition." His voice was well suited to the oratoric demands of the piece, and gesture and expression were not wanting. The judges professed great difficulty in assigning the prize, and with justice. Their position was not enviable. "The Deacon's Match," by Fannie Cheeseman, was admirably rendered, the selection to a single individual. Persons ordering abounding in incident and dramatic will please state whether they desire action. Equally as well did Jessie Butler in "How to Curtail the Liquor ceiving seed potatoes are expected to re- Traffic," a semi-humorous, semi-serious port as to yield and value, when desired temperance recitation. Joseph McNeil, in his dialect piece, perfectly imitated Enterprise pays. Just look at the ests of the state. Address all orders to the broken English of the Dutch, but & Mays. lacked a certain enthusiasm which is required to make such pieces catchy. Miss Alice Ball, in "Not Dead, but Dying," while her intonation and emphasis were perfect, evinced a consciousness of her surroundings which is always hard to overcome, and which detracts from a meritorious rendition; further practice will, however, make her a formidable contestant. WAS IT MURDER?

Some New Facts Brought to Light in the Kennefick Case.

John O'Leary, who arrived in town yesterday from Moro, throws more light on the Kennefick mystery, who was reported last week to have died through injuries received by being thrown from a horse. It is now thought he was murdered.

It seems that on Wednesday of last week a gathering was had at the house That Prices are placed of Joe Elliott, at which whisky was freely drank. Boy for general work in store. Pease

There's a good deal of guarantee business in the store keeping of today. It's too excessive. Or too reluctant. Half the time it means nothing. Words-only words. This offer to refund the money, or to pay a reward, is made under the hope that you won't want your money back, and that you won't claim the reward. Of course.

So, whoever is honest in making it, and works-not on his own reputation alone, but through the local dealer, whom you know, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee. The business wouldn't stand a year without it.

What is lacking is confidence. Back of that, what is lacking is that clear honesty which is above the "average practice."

Dr. Pierce's medicines are guaranteed to accomplish what they are intended to do, and their makers give the money back if the result isn't apparent.

Doesn't it strike you that a medicine which the makers have so much confidence in, is the medicine for you.
