WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

The Boston Advertiser, speaking of Gov. McKinley's recent losses, pays a high tribute to his personal worth, which says: It will probably have to be admitted that William McKinley is not a shrewd and cautious business man so far as his personal affairs are concerned; at any rate that in putting at hazard, with no hope of pecuniary reward, but solely to help and oblige a friend, "all his living," making himself thus liable for another man's debts to the extent of $200,000, he allowed his heart to get the better of his head. But whatever the error may have been, it was such as only a large-hearted man would have committed. He deserves sympathy a thousand times more than he deserves reproach.

Gov. and ex-Congressman McKinley is one of the most estimable men in public life today. The admiration felt for him by millions of American people is thoroughly well deserved. It is deserved on both political and personal grounds. It has been growing for many years past, is growing all the time, and nothing has occurred that tends in any degree to diminish it. True, the economic policy now popularly identified with his name has been for the time being placed in check. The latest presidential election resulted adversely to protective principles. We do not dispute the assertion that, judged by the only test which our constitution provides, the test of November ballots, "McKinleyism" has received a set-back. How far the choice of Grover Cleveland and the choice, once and again, of a national house of representatives having a majority of its members attached to Mr. Cleveland's party, was in truth an endorsement of free trade in distinction from protectionist ideas, and how far those results were brought to pass by other issues and influences, is now an idle question. The fact remains that this country was never, in all its history, so prosperous, contented and happy as it has been under the operations of the McKinley bill. Our firm opinion that within the next four years the people will see their mistake and take effectual means to rectify it may stand for whatever it is worth. We are satisfied to await the event.

Regarding Mr. McKinley as a man, a gentleman in the fullest meaning of the word, there is no room for two opinions on the part of those who know him or really know of him. His honesty is undisputed. The purity of his private life commands the respect of all who honor unsullied character. His abilities are extraordinary. He is a statesman of whom Americans, whether they agree or disagree with him in matters of party politics, have reason to be proud. In his present difficulties he is the object of that ungrudging sympathy which his worth and his misfortunes merit.

President Harrison will come to the coast. He has accepted the Stanford university offer, and will shortly be known as Professor Harrison.

The Indiana will be ready for service and turned over to the government in about a year. She is designed especially as a vessel to fight, not to run away at all. She will be fitted with searchlights and torpedo netting, and will cost $3,000,000. The Indiana is known as a coast line battleship. She is built of steel, and has a double bottom for the distance of 196 feet, extending for the length covered by the machinery and magazine spaces. All the vital portions of the ship are thus protected. Her length is 348 feet, breadth 69.3, displacement 10,238 tons, maximum speed 16.2 knots and has a 9,000 horse power. She will be the watch dog of the entire eastern coast.

President Harrison approved the car-coupler bill yesterday. The car coupler now in general use on freight cars is a very primitive affair and has cost more loss of life and maimed limbs than any other device known to railroads. There is no dearth of better ones, for about 2,000 patents have been granted in the United States alone on car couplers. The reason none of them have been adopted furnishes a commentary on the stupendous magnitude of the daily business done in America. To replace the old coupler for a new one would require at least a day's stop in freight traffic all over the United States. Of course it must be done simultaneously. On passenger service it is different, as each line owns their own cars and a change could be effected with comparative ease. Now that the car coupler bill has become a law, an end will be accomplished that will save loss of life and limb, besides inspiring hope in the heart of some 2,000 inventors, one of whom will suddenly make a colossal fortune.

Specimen Cases.
 S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him. Edwd Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at Snipes & Kinersly's drug store.

A building up of the entire system follows the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial and bracing nerve—and a certain remedy for all the functional derangements, painful disorders or chronic weaknesses peculiar to women. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. For periodical pains, internal inflammation and ulceration, leucorrhoea and kindred ailments, it is a positive specific—a guaranteed one. If it fails to give satisfaction, in any case, the money paid for it is refunded. No other medicine for women is sold on these terms. With an ordinary medicine, it can't be done. That's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, No. 688 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

 EXTRACTS FROM THE DAILY PRESS:

From the Daily Chronicle of Feb. 18th.
Of Interest to Merchants.

The suit of A. S. Collins and Mrs. A. S. Collins against H. Herbring of this city, which was to come before the jury yesterday morning, was again postponed. This suit against one of our oldest and best-known dry goods merchants creates considerable comment in commercial circles. It appears that Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Collins obtained under false pretenses and promises at the end of the year 1891, goods to the amount of $50.80 from the defendant; but instead of paying the bill, as agreed, they shortly afterwards left the city by night and moved to California. Last spring Mr. Herbring learned that all their household goods, etc., were in the hands of the sheriff of Wasco county, and consequently placed a second attachment upon the goods held by the sheriff. A portion of these goods were sold last December by the sheriff of Wasco county, as no compromise could be obtained by defendant. Add now come the plaintiffs and sue through their attorney, Judge A. S. Bennett, the defendant, for the sum of $175.00. We will watch this suit when it comes before the jury, as we think it is one of great interest to storekeepers.

From the Daily Times-Mountaineer of Feb. 24th.
Razor-Edged Technicalities.

The case of A. S. Collins vs. H. Herbring was on trial in the Circuit Court today, and the jury empaneled were E. W. Trout, Geo. Jones, A. Bettingen, Jr., Geo. W. Miller, S. B. Adams, James Harper, W. C. Hensell, John Wood. Argument was had this morning on a motion to non-suit, made by defendant's counsel, which was taken under advisement until afternoon, when the Judge overruled the motion. The facts appear to be that the plaintiff left this city owing Mr.

Herbring, and he attached property for the debt. After the sale of the attached property the defendant attempts to set aside the sale and sue Mr. Herbring for damages, claiming that the proceedings were not technically legal. The razor-edge technicalities of law, we presume, will always remain, but it works great hardships on creditors, in many instances, to be barred from collecting their just claims from the commission of a clerical error or the misinterpretation of a dubious statutory provision.

From the Daily Chronicle of Feb. 25th.
 The suit of A. S. Collins and Mrs. A. S. Collins vs. H. Herbring came to its termination yesterday afternoon, the jury rendering a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs. Mr. Herbring considers his defeat as a fair accomplishment, and is now more than ever convinced that he has to stick to his old rule and motto—to sell dry goods cheap and for cash only.
