A Lapse of Memory

"Humph! It's very clear that I am not in the proper vein today," growled Mr. Scribbler as he threw aside his pen and substituted a stumpy lead pencil in its place.

"What's the matter now?" asked Mrs. Scribbler as she left her ironing to come to his assistance.

"It's only that Christmas story I started to write for The Echo. I can't for the life of me get beyond the opening sentence."

"Let me see what you have written," said his wife as she looked over his shoulder and read from the paper on the table: "It was bitter cold. The poor little match girl on the corner shivered in the biting blast. Why, that's all right. Go on," she said encouragingly.

"But I can't seem to remember what comes next," remonstrated Mr. Scribbler.

"Let me see! Um—in the biting blast—and drawing her ragged shawl about her slender, frozen body, timidly offered her scanty stock of wares to the passers by."

"That's it!" exclaimed the author as he drew his wife to him and kissed her tenderly. "What a help you are, dear. I suppose I have written that thing hundreds of times, and yet I had utterly forgotten it."—Life.

A Freak of Science.

An English chemist who was at a Washington hotel exhibited a little microphone he had made which would render audible the footsteps of a fly. It was only a small affair and consisted of a box with a sheet of thin straw paper stretched over the upper side. By means of a little electrical device, consisting of two carbon disks, a carbon pencil and a weak battery, the sheet of paper over the top of the box was caused to produce vibrations when a fly walked over it strong enough to react energetically on an ordinary telephone transmitter when held close to the latter.—Washington Post.

Radical English Fashions Don't Go.

The recent refusal to sanction with the customary prompt enthusiasm several of the most radical changes in the regime that have been made of late years by London swells has had a decidedly disconcerting effect upon our English consins. Their confidence of leadership has received naturally a severe shock in consequence. From all accounts the London swell mob is passing through a period of experimentalism. As a result men's fashions abroad have not been so unsettled in fifty years.

The heavy swells continue groping aimlessly after the elusive innovation. For their independence at this time, therefore, Americans have cause for self congratulation—the more particularly so on account of the very divergent character of some of the foreign ultra speculations. Advanced copies of the recent London fads in coats and top coats, had they been tried suddenly on the New York public, would have created almost a riot in the streets. The English swell, be it known, can dress himself up as his fancy dictates and the yeomanry makes no outcry.

Now that we have thrown off the shackles of slavish emulation and blithely accept or reject what we want, or what does not appeal to the sense of the fitness of things, the English fashion framer will come down from his oracular eminence and in the future pose with ameliorated despotism in the light of guide, philosopher and friend. I am aware that the sentiments above set forth would have been regarded a few years ago as rank heresy, but they verify the aphorism of Brer Rabbit that "the world do move."—Clothier and Furnisher.

How Thread is Made.

To make a spool of thread the very best Sea Island cotton is used. This is taken in the raw state and torn to pieces by a machine called a breaker. It is then freed from its impurities by several other machines, after which it is taken up by a "spinner" and twisted into soft yarn. Several strands of this are twisted into one line thread; three of these are then twisted together, making the six-cord thread, which, after being bleached, is ready to sell.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Women's Luncheons.

It is noticeable that at the luncheon rooms of the several woman's exchanges, as well as at several of the restaurants in the shopping districts, broken orders are possible. This is especially true of the menus of the exchanges, which are managed by women solely for women. It is a concession to an accepted fact that women ordering and eating alone greatly dislike to pay for a mouthful more than can be consumed. One croquette, a half serving of salad, chocolate without bread—these are some of the ways a woman adjusts her bill to her appetite.—New York Times.

Mr. C. F. Davis, editor of the Bloomfield, Iowa, Farmer, says: "I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all sufferers with colds and croup. I have used it in my family for the past two years and have found it the best I ever intended. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists."

What She Saw While in a Trance.

A full revelation of her experience while in a trance has been made by Mrs. W. M. Barber, of Freedom, Pa. She claims to have been with God and expects to receive many future revelations and declares she will shortly begin to work miracles. Mrs. Barber's statement, made to a reporter, was as follows:

All that I saw and learned while my body lay helpless I do not remember. It will come back to me as I grow stronger, and I shall also receive more light, and in future trances, or by some other means, I know the Lord will reveal much more to me. I do not know where I was, but I was not in heaven nor in hell. I caught a glimpse of heaven, though, and saw God. I cannot describe him except to say that he appeared all light. All the time of my seeming unconsciousness he was making things heavenly known to me. It seemed a long period of time that I held this spiritual discourse with him. Hell I did not see, except that it appeared as it were on one side of me—blackness and smoke.

I saw my dead mother. She appeared as in life, even to her clothing. I could not reach her nor speak to her. The Almighty seemed to stand between us, but I know that before my death I shall clasp hands with her in the spirit land. I saw also and recognized my little brother, who died before I was born. I did not see my father, but I expect to learn before long whether or not he is saved. I saw no other persons than my two relatives. The angels and saints were not visible, but I shall grow in faith until I see them and until I can walk upon the water.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Guest (at restaurant in moist weather)—Waiter, I can't get any salt out of this salt cellar.

Waiter—You've forgotten to unscrew the top, sir.—New York Weekly.

Cholera in Pennsylvania.

Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholera, as our physicians called it, in this place lately and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhoea for two or three weeks were cured by a few doses of this medicine.
