FOR COAST DEFENSE

The Great Ship Indiana in the Naval Review.

THE SHIP'S POWERFUL ARMAMENT

She is the Strongest War Vessel Ever Constructed by the American Government.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The Indiana will participate with a host of others, new and old, in the naval review in New York harbor on the 27th inst.

The Indiana is the eighth warship that the Cramps have launched and is the largest ever sent from their ways. Up to this time the New York, with a tonnage of 8,000, was the largest. The Indiana is the first of the first-class battleships to be launched, and her sister ship, the Massachusetts, which is from six weeks to two months behind the Indiana in construction, will be the next. The Indiana is 345 feet long on the water line and is 50 feet 3 inches beam. Her displacement is 10,400 tons, but with a full supply of coal and stores on board she will draw 24 feet and displace 11,000 tons of water. She will be propelled by twin screws and her engines will be three in number, having 10,000-horse power. They will be of the triple-expansion type and will be built abreast in water-tight compartments, and will give a speed of from 15½ to 16 knots, the guaranteed speed being 15 knots. The armor will be as nearly impervious to shot as it can be made. The water-line armor belt will be of 18-inch nickel steel and will extend 190 feet along each side amidships. At the ends of the armor belt is an armored bulkhead athwartships which is to be 14 inches thick, and above that and the water line is to be a casemate belt 5 inches thick.

Above the athwartships belt will be two redoubts, one at each end, forming the basis of the revolving turrets. These redoubts will be 34 feet and 6 inches outside diameter and 12 feet high. Over the armor belt and over the bow and stern will be a flat protected deck plated with 2-inch steel. At each of the four corners of the 5-inch casemates rise up a redoubt 8 feet high and plated with 8-inch steel. These redoubts will be surmounted by turrets, each 8 inches thick, and besides the armored turrets there is to be an armored pilot house or conning tower. The total weight of the armor is to be 3,635 tons.

The armament of the Indiana will be as follows: Four 13-inch guns, 40 feet long, mounted in pairs in the two main turrets; eight 8-inch guns, mounted in pairs in the four turrets at the corners of the casemate; four 6-inch guns, mounted in broadsides with special inter bulkheads back of them; twenty 6-pounders and rapid-firing guns; eight 1-pounders and Gatling guns and 6 torpedo tubes. The armament has some strong points possessed by none of the battleships or cruisers now afloat. One is the height of the guns from the water line, which will enable them to successfully attack the unarmored ends of foreign warships. The 13-inch guns are 18 feet above water line and the 8-inch guns are 23 feet above the water line. Another feature is that the armament of either the Indiana or Massachusetts will throw a greater weight of metal than any vessel afloat. Either will be able to throw 6,400 pounds at one discharge of her main battery alone, which is 1,000 pounds more than any other warship, foreign or native, is capable of discharging. There will be a single military mast, with two fighting tops and a lookout, and means will be provided for going up inside the mast.

The Indiana is one of three sister ships, including the Massachusetts and the Oregon, authorized by act of congress of June 30, 1890. The general designs for the three steel ships were ready on the day the act authorizing them was approved. Three months later the bids for constructing them were opened. The Union iron works of San Francisco offered to build one for $3,240,000, or two for $3,400,000; the Risdon iron and locomotive works, also of San Francisco, one for $3,275,000; the Bath iron works, one for $3,149,000; the Cramp & Sons company, of Philadelphia, one for $2,990,000, and the other two for $5,780,000. The latter company also bid $3,120,000 for a ship twelve feet longer than in the department's plans, which were followed exactly by all the preceding bids, and $3,040,000 for the other two. This last bid being lower than that of any other, was accepted for the Indiana and Massachusetts. The law required that one of the vessels should be built on or near the Pacific coast, if it could be done at a fair cost. The Union iron works, in view of the bid of the Cramps, agreed to build the Oregon, also adding twelve feet, for $3,180,000, and this was accepted as reasonable on calculating the cost of carrying to San Francisco material only obtainable in the east. The Indiana's keel was laid in 1891.

A Former Nun Will Wed.

HARTFORD, CONN., April 8.—It was announced today that Miss Louise Marie Wilcox, formerly of this city, and Dr. Thomas P. Conlon, of Brockton, Mass., will be married in the hotel Bartholdi, New York, May 11. The announcement was a surprise. Nearly 10 years ago Miss Wilcox, who is very pretty, entered Mount St. Joseph's convent. When she was graduated it was with the honors of her class. In 1885 she became a sister in the convent and two years later took the black veil. Her name in religion was Sister Celesta. A year ago she said she had tired of her life as a nun, and wished to mingle with the world again. She secured a special dispensation from Pope Leo XIII and left the convent. Miss Wilcox then removed to New York, where she has since been a teacher of music. Her mother said today that she had met Dr. Conlon in New York, and that the marriage would be a love match.

Elegant Headquarters for Californians.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The finishing touches are being given today to the interior of the spacious mansion on Michigan avenue to be known as the California Columbian Club, and which will be the headquarters for visitors from the Golden Gate during the coming summer. It is a six-story structure, with luxurious cafe, drawing-room, smoking-room, billiard-room and library.

ELECTRIC FLASHES.

The U. S. senate will adjourn Tuesday.

The president notified the senate of his desire to raise the rank of James B. Eustis, lately confirmed minister to France, to that of ambassador.

It is suggested that at each place in the country where Arbor Day will be celebrated this year that a tree be planted in honor of the new secretary of agriculture.

It was expected that at 8 o'clock this morning every union man working for the World's Columbian Exposition company would quit work. The force is estimated at between 4,000 and 5,000 men.

Unusual interest is being taken in the coming session of the trans-Mississippi congress, to meet at Ogden the 24th inst. Letters and telegrams from prominent men from all parts of the West indicate there will be a large attendance.

Eleven hundred machinists, boiler-makers, blacksmiths and helpers in the shops of the Santa Fe road struck this afternoon for an advance in wages and other demands with the fellow-workmen in the same lines along the entire system. From Boston comes a dispatch to the Evening Post stating that William Lloyd Garrison and other leading independents there are thoroughly disgusted with Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Maxwell's rapid removal of republican postmasters, and that there is earnest talk of a public protest soon unless the policy of the administration is changed.

Secretary Hoke Smith has rendered a decision on the question of revoking the permits recently granted to the Big Blackfoot Milling company and the Bitter Root Development company to cut 50 per cent. of the timber from government land in Montana. The permit is modified so as to restrict the cutting to four sections, and the time to January 1st, 1894.

In the matter of the late Choctaw war Agent Bennett said the Choctaw government will never bring their would-be murderers to a trial, but will uphold them in their unlawful acts, and that it will be assisting in a so-called judicial murder to permit the militia to make arrests in the Choctaw nation. In view of these facts he strongly urges that the nation be placed under martial law.

THE PERU INCIDENT

No Attack Was Made Upon the United States Consulate.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE AFFAIR

The Riot Was Started by an Anti-Masonic Element, and Several Were Injured.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables that he has investigated the report that a United States consulate in Peru had been attacked by a mob, for which an apology has been demanded by the United States government. He says the attack was mainly directed against Free Masonry. He says the correspondent at La Paz telegraphed him the following account of the affair:

"March 27th a party of American students who were on the way to the Chicago fair, attended the funeral of Senor Cazadia, a Chilean merchant of La Paz. The funeral services were held in the Masonic temple. This enraged the anti-Masonic populace, who attacked the building. They were armed with revolvers and stones. The attendants at the funeral were driven out and the ceremonies were suspended. The mob then set the building on fire and it was burned to the ground. The residence of Senor Mendez, a custom-house official, who was believed to sympathize with the Masons, was sacked and burned. Six soldiers fired on the mob and wounded several of the rioters; but the authorities on the whole remained inactive. The attack was mainly directed against Free Masonry. There were no attacks upon or demonstrations of any kind against the American consulate."

The Distribution of Seeds.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Morton has already begun to realize some of the vexations attending the seed distribution assigned by law to the department of agriculture. Seedsmen are anxious to know what will be the policy of the department in regard to the purchase of seeds for distribution. In reply to inquiries addressed to him on the subject, Secretary Morton has said his policy would be to purchase seeds grown in the United States in the open market, the quality and price being the only question he would consider.

A Decision Favoring the Engineers.

MACON, GA., April 8.—Judge Emory Speer today rendered a decision in the United States circuit court here upon the petition brought by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, praying the court to direct the receiver of the Georgia Central railroad to carry out the contract with the Brotherhood which was in force when the receiver was appointed. The petition was granted.
