A SHANGHAI FARM.

Not a Place for Breeding Poultry, as Its Name Might Imply.

A Retreat in California Where Men Are Abducted and Shipped as Sailors While Under the Influence of Drink.

A few people here will no doubt be greatly interested in knowing that there is a "shanghai farm" within a few hundred miles of them, says the Oakland (Cal.) Times. Very few people have any idea of the manner in which a man is abducted and put on board a vessel in the stream, and fewer still have any idea that a great deal of such work is done from the Oakland side, because there is no water front patrol here.

The manner of shanghaiing is very simple. When a captain requires a crew the law demands that he shall sign them before a proper officer. This is done, and each man is asked if he is satisfied with the manner in which his account has been settled by the boarding master. The answer is invariably in the affirmative, and the captain leaves the shipping office. He knows that if he has signed twelve men twelve men will be put on board his ship when he is on the eve of sailing, but he gets one-half of the actual men he engaged he will get more than the average. The other half are partners of the boarding master, who have probably been before the same shipping master twice in the one week. It is these dummies who are substituted by men who are shanghai'd, the latter being, in many instances, so unlike sailors that it is considered advisable to keep them out of sight. It is quite a common occurrence for three or four of the crew, after they recover from their stupor, to have to go to the mate and find out the name under which they are sailing.

Additional light has been thrown on the matter by the publication of a story in a Santa Rosa journal of the existence of a "shanghai farm" located near that town. "There is one industry," it says, "located near Santa Rosa of which most people have no knowledge. It is a 'shanghai farm.' A clever mortal of San Francisco, who has various interests in water-front boarding houses and is under contract to furnish sailors to shipmasters, is the proprietor of this industry.

"The retreat is located in the hills over in Lincoln valley, about five miles from town. There is plenty of whiskey kept on tap, and all who enter therein are invited to drink to their heart's content. In most every town between here and San Francisco the 'shanghai farm' is in collusion with some beer-joint proprietor. This is the way the scheme is conducted: The victim has been at work, and on Saturday night comes to town with his earnings. He is in for a good time, and joins convivial crowds wherever he finds them. He finally gets into the spider's web. His money is all gone, but still he is given drink. He is told of the joys and comforts of a mountain home near by, owned by a philanthropic friend of the barkeeper, where the weary may rest from their labors and drink good whiskey. He is fascinated. He is kept in a nasty reeking drunk all night. Next morning he wants to sober up on whiskey. He is half dazed. He is invited to take a ride in a buckboard by a friend who appears on the scene, and gratefully accepts the offer. They drive to the shanghai retreat. A big barrel of whiskey stands sparkling in the cellar. A half dozen vagabonds are lying around. The victim gets thoroughly drunk, and so remains until a new vessel arrives at the San Francisco port, when the proprietor comes up and escorts the bevy and places them aboard the vessel. When the victim realizes his whereabouts he is sailing over the bounding main."

HOPE FOR MANITOBA.

A Winnipeg Man Thinks It Will Yet Be the Granary of the World.
"If the horse could stand it," said a well-known resident of Winnipeg, Manitoba, to a reporter for the Washington Star, "a man could leave Winnipeg and ride one thousand miles west and north-west over a level prairie before he would be obstructed by the mountains. This gives an idea of the great territory lying west of Winnipeg, which, to the eastern man, seems way out of the world. The soil of this prairie produces the finest spring wheat grown anywhere, and the enormous plain I've just mentioned will in a few years be the great granary of the world. Eastern people have a misty idea of our expansive territory. We are just commencing to grow wheat compared to a decade hence, though our crop two years ago was thirty million bushels. We have but little snow, and in the many years I resided in Manitoba I never saw the tops of the bright prairie grass covered. Cattle fairly roll in fat, and we are becoming a great cattle country. While most of our settlers are from across the water, yet the number from the western states is yearly increasing. We have no wild west frontier scenes. There are no settlers killed over disputed claims, as has been an everyday story in the west for years. Our homestead laws require a three years' residence of six months each. Land may be preempted, too. Gold has been discovered in wonderfully rich quartz deposits a few miles east of Winnipeg, and paying mills have just been erected by Minneapolis capitalists. I predict a 'rush' to the Lake of the Woods district next year. Winnipeg has thirty-five thousand inhabitants and is a thriving city. Our winters are cold, but we do not mind them. The atmosphere is dry and the days are clear, murky weather being almost unknown."

It will cure sick headache, indigestion, constipation and drive malaria from the system. Satisfaction guaranteed with each bottle or the money will be refunded. Price only 50c. per bottle. My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson, of C. J. Knutson & Co., Kensington, Minn. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Patent medicines differ—One has reasonableness, another has not. One has reputation—another has not. One has confidence, born of success, another has only "hopes." Don't take it for granted that all patent medicines are alike. They are not. Let the years of uninterrupted success and the tens of thousands of cured and happy men and women, place Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription on the side of the comparison to which they belong. And there isn't a state or territory, no—nor hardly a country in the world, whether its people realize it or not, but have men and women in them that're happier because of their discovery and their effects. Think of this in health. Think of it in sickness. And then think whether you can afford to make the trial if the makers can afford to take the risk to give your money back, as they do, if they do not benefit or cure you.

CLEVER idea that, of the man who carries an expensive umbrella. He has the handle made so that it can be taken off, and whenever he has occasion to leave the umbrella in a public place he takes the handle off and puts it in his pocket. Of course nobody would care to appropriate an umbrella without a handle.

The more Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used the better it is liked. We know of no other remedy that always gives satisfaction. It is good when you first catch cold.
