And Other Sawed-off Paragraphs Hastily Constructed.

Oh, sad is the life of the type-writer girl. She must work like other poor folks. And then, with the dude and the mother-in-law. Be dashed up for newspaper jokes.

"I spotted you!" as the sun said to the freckled girl.

The funeral of Emery Campbell yesterday was largely attended.

The river is 8 feet 1-10 above zero, having risen 1.4 feet since Saturday.

The river is very muddy, and in consequence, no salmon are being caught.

The vexed question of the location of the branch asylum for the insane of Oregon will probably be settled by the first week in May.

W. J. Kerr, of Kerr & Buckley, is in the city today. Mr. Kerr says that of 3000 ewes, the increase lacked only five of being 100 per cent.

The Wasco Warehouse company loaded four double teams for Prineville merchants, and one double team for Antelope with freight today.

There were two runaways yesterday which resulted in smashing vehicles up in bad shape but did not injure the occupants who were out for a drive.

The weather has changed for the better of late and vegetation is pushing ahead rapidly. Wild currants and service berry bushes are out in full bloom. Mr. Lawell has built a catamaran and gave it a trial last Saturday during the heavy storm and from his experience while out on the river is satisfied with his craft.

We are pleased to say that the attachment against Stacy Shown caused but temporary trouble, and that gentleman's store was later in the afternoon open for business.

E. Jacobsen and Chas. Haight were at Dufur Saturday. On the road going they found it to be dusty and returning the water was pouring down the hillsides in all the natural depressions in perfect torrents.

The "Flower Queen" operetta will be given on Thursday evening, the 4th of May. Mrs. Lochhead is training the children and young ladies very carefully, and promises a musical treat to all who attend the entertainment.

The Odd Fellows of Dufur are going to give a grand picnic on May day. Prof. Frazer is one of the leading spirits of the proposed event and he, as well as many others there, are determined to make it one of the meriest of occasions.

The contract for the building of a Campbellite church has been let to John Elton, to be completed by the first of September. The contract price was $2,000. It will be located on Court street, between Eighth and Ninth.

The Statesman has already begun to agitate the question of holding a chrysanthemum show in Walla Walla next fall, and a number of rare varieties of this much admired flower have been planted this spring with a view to their exhibition at that time.

A fierce rain was general throughout Eastern Oregon yesterday amounting in some places almost to a water spout. How far south it extended cannot be learned. A report comes from Wasco to the effect that all the bridges between that point and Biggs have been washed out.

Many acres along the Columbia will be set out to fruit trees this spring. Experiments have shown that almost all kinds of fruit flourish on this land, formerly considered of a desert character, and it will be but a short time until the river will be fringed with valuable orchards.

An up-river canneryman says that the boats of his cannery are averaging five fish, but thinks the average will be decreased as soon as all the men go out. At Elmore's ten boats brought in thirty-three salmon, while among the other cannerymen of small catches per boat is the rule.—Astorian.

DESECRATING INDIAN GRAVES.

Agent Lucky Announces That It Will Have to Be Stopped.

EDITOR DALLE'S CHRONICLE—Frequent complaints have been made to me at various times by Indians under my care of the inhuman and sacrilegious way the graves of their people, on the upper and lower Memaluse islands of the Columbia river, are desecrated by white vandals and I feel constrained, in justice to the living as well as the dead, to issue a warning that I shall certainly prosecute, to the full extent of the law, any future act of piracy that may come under my notice. It is well known that the Indians are accustomed to wrap their dead in such furs or robes—many of them at times quite valuable—as were the property of the deceased or their family. In these, too, are wrapped the personal belongings of the dead, such as guns, knives, beads and other trinkets. The Indians justly complain that these wrappings have been ripped open and everything of any value, as an Indian relic or otherwise, carried off. It has even been reported to me that one person carried off 100 skulls and sold them for a dollar a piece. It is perfectly natural that the Indians should complain. The Indian is by no means destitute of affection for his dead, and if white men will not respect this affection, the law must be evoked to compel them to.

ARMED TO KILL.

Indians Secreted Near Memaluse Island to Defend Their Dead.

It may be well for Indian grave robbers to heed the communication of Agent Lucky in another column, or something might happen both quicker and more severe than the ordinary penalty of the law. The Indians are very much agitated over the robberies of their dead. It is their custom to bury every personal effect of a dead Indian with him, even to money, thinking, with a persistence born of superstition, that the deceased is entitled to everything he acquired during life and will need it in future. A white man is not expected to sympathize with him in this belief but he is expected to have a regard for the belief of others, no matter what it is, in reverence for the dead. A $5 gold-piece was recently found in the mouth of a dead Indian and ever since vandals have been looking for more money. The Indians have grown indignant over this treatment and some of them openly declare that they will defend with their lives further robberies, philosophizing that the safety of their effects in the future is of more importance to them than the present. As a consequence it is reported that some of them are in hiding near the burial ground armed with guns and will shoot the first white intruder.

VIENTO'S BURGLARY.

And Other Newsw Notes From the Little Railroad Station.

VIENTO, April 22, 1893.

Engineer Nickell and Fireman Wilson, accompanied by the four brakemen on work trains, left for Albina today to spend Sunday with their families.

Fireman Wilkes and Watchman Gorrill will be left in charge of camp Sunday, while the rest of the boys are making love to their wives and sweethearts.

The state board of railroad commissioners passed over the Union Pacific from Portland to Huntington during the past week inspecting buildings and bridges.

The heavy rains that have prevailed throughout this vicinity have not interfered in the least with the work trains. They have been working steadily and in a short time will have filled in all trestles between Hood River and Cascade Locks.

Conductor Reznor, who has charge of the work train and shovel at this place, moved his family up from Albina a few days ago. Conductor Reznor is highly esteemed by the officials of the company, and is making a splendid success of the important work entrusted to his care.

As small a town as Viento is she enjoys the distinction of having a genuine burglary. Some unprincipled miscreant effected an entrance into the commissary and supply department kept here by Steward Jerry and succeeded in making off with a ten gallon keg of wine and several boxes of fine cigars. The thief evidently intends to return, as it was discovered after his departure that the keys were also missing.

HOMES AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

There is no reason why any one should be deterred from visiting the world's fair by reason of possible inconvenience and uncertainty attending the securing of satisfactory hotel accommodations.

The Northern Pacific railroad will in one time publish low excursion rates to Chicago and return for this occasion, with its double daily passenger train service, including through sleeping cars of both classes (Standard and Tourist) to Chicago, will as usual be at the head of the list in every particular.

To help you in fixing in advance upon your place of residence while attending the world's fair, we have placed in the hands of our agent at your station a book compiled by perfectly trustworthy parties, called "Homes for Visitors at the World's Fair." This little book, which you can purchase for 50 cents, contains a list of about 9000 private families who will accommodate visitors in Chicago during the time of the fair, viz., May 1 to October 30; gives their names and addresses, and number of rooms each will have to spare. The book also gives a list of the hotels and their locations; has 12 full-page, large-scale maps, each representing a section of the city, so that with this information before him the intending visitor himself can, at leisure, select the quarter of the city in which he would prefer to stop, corresponding in advance with one or more families in that locality with regard to rates and the accommodations desired.
