The grand jury will not be discharged until Monday.

The latest from Umatilla is that the river at that point is rising.

Fifty cents for the round trip to the Cascades tomorrow on the Regulator.

Another supply of artesian water has been struck near Boise at a depth of 405 feet, the well flowing at the rate of 150,000 gallons per day.

Monday, June 6th, there will be given for the benefit of St. Paul's Sunday school, a magic lantern exhibition, with a short musical program.

The Regulator company tendered free transportation to the State Grange tomorrow, but few accepted as they were anxious to return home.

There will be an open meeting of the Grange tonight in the court house. Speeches will be made by several prominent members of the order.

Three gun carriages passed through on the freight yesterday, to be used at Fort Canby for mounting the monster guns to be used at that point.

Fifteen wool teams were unloaded at the Wasco Warehouse today. Five four-horse teams were loaded at that warehouse for the interior merchants.

Rev. Cephas Clapp will preach at the Congregational church next Sunday morning. He will be at the Christian Endeavor society at 6:30 p. m. in the main room. Come all.

The Dalles Mercantile Co.'s and the Columbia feed yards are full of freight teams today that have brought wool to the warehouses. These will load with merchandise for interior merchants.

A very pleasant lunch party was given by Mrs. Cushing yesterday afternoon. The favors were dainty ivorine napkin rings, hand-painted by Miss Mattie Cushing. Those present were Mesdames Curtis, Gibbons, Morgan, Pease, Bradford, Patterson, Condon, Marden, Hobson, Herbert, Sampson and Brooks.

"Billy" will tell the historic story of his connection with the rebel prisons during the war on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week. "Dick," his confere, is now east, minus a leg and an arm, as a result of that experience. The lecturer wears a badge containing the names of the seven prisons through which he went in war times.

OUR CASCADE LETTER.

A Plea for Double the Present Service of the Regulator.

CASCADE LOCKS, May 24, 1893.

Special Correspondence.

The ancient saw "more rain more rest" does not apply to the locks. Work goes right along despite the Cascade-concentrated Oregon mist; and as for the rain, it keeps right along, also, doing business at the old stand.

The railway to the Herman creek quarry has been completed, and the quarrymen are busily getting out very superior rock, a gray basalt.

Supt. Hobart, of the state portage, has taken all needful care of the state property, so that there is very little danger of any of it being carried nearer to Salem by the freshet. Nothing short of a mandamus can move it under its weight of ballast.

Our people miss the boats very much, and I am asked to put in a special plea for more service. If the Regulator could make two trips a week, say Wednesdays and Saturdays, it would help them out very much.

Our butcher has been getting all his beef cattle up the river, and feels cramped now, and others all along the line, who have been prospering under the benign influences of cheap freights and squarer service, join in asking for the boats. If two trips a week are impracticable, then let the Saturday's trip be an all day one, starting earlier in the morning and staying at the Locks until 4 or 5 o'clock.

This would give your people a regular excursion day; time to visit here, and a good day at any of the beautiful landings on the middle river for fishing, etc. Camping would be encouraged and a fine business built up. Excuse our suggestions, but we are true friends of the Regulator line. The U. P. would be doing double its business in Oregon, if it had paid more attention to its way points in the state. This is too big a country to be bottled up, and the folks who help to uncork it will help themselves as well as the country.

The hills back of town were covered with a new coat of snow yesterday morning. Messrs. Day have ordered an electric light plant and work will be pushed day and night as soon as it is placed in position. NAN EACH.

Fast Time.

Douglas Dufur and Frank Menefee had a type-writing contest this morning. It resulted in a tie, both making the remarkable time of 107 words in sixty seconds. If they continue to improve, short hand experts will have to cast about for other employment. But then, this is about the swiftest work possible. If they would spell phonetically and invent abbreviations for prefixes, suffixes and a few of the common combinations of letters, they could, in fact, take down verbatim any ordinary dictation or speech.

Injunction Granted.

Judge Burnett announced last evening his decision on the Soldiers' Home injunction case. It was brief, and only granted the preliminary injunction as applied for. This leaves the rights of the parties without prejudice until the hearing for a permanent injunction at Albany in June. Judge Burnett was seen by a reporter, but said he had nothing further to say than that he had granted the temporary injunction. This action does not indicate in any what will be the final outcome of the case.

Clarke's Berries.

Fred A. Clarke of Pleasant Home, Or., called this morning. He is the originator of the now famous Clarke's seedling strawberries, early and late varieties. These berries have proved the most remunerative of any variety yet found. They are of uniformly large size, handsome and of delicate flavor.

Hood River is indebted to this variety for an almost national reputation, though The Dalles beat them this year. Clarke's varieties do splendidly without irrigation on hill land, but the method employed at Hood River is by irrigation. Mr. Clarke, accompanied by Hon. T. R. Coon of Hood River, was driven out in the country in the afternoon to inspect several of the fruit farms.

Worth Looking Into.

W. H. Frasier, assistant general manager of the New England National Building, Loan and Investment Association of Portland, is here for the purpose of organizing a local branch of the company. It is the usual custom of those who contemplate making loans to wait till they are pushed to meet their obligations before making application. It is a good plan to make preparation in advance of such wants, to avoid delay and annoyance. People who do not want to build now can avail themselves of a good safe investment and be prepared to borrow in the future, should an opportunity present itself. Hard times is no excuse for a person not to better their condition, when so little is required on their part. Joel G. Koontz is the local agent of the company, in whose office Mr. Frasier will be found, ready and willing to fully explain the plan. Please get in-and-help to establish a good strong board. It is safe and profitable to old and young alike.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Horace Rice is in the city from 15-Mile.

Chris Cummings and W. J. Davidson of Enderby are in the city.

STATE GRANGE. The Twentieth Annual Session Adjourns Today—Business Transacted.

Afternoon session opened about 2 o'clock. A little important business was transacted, and then Mr. W. S. U'Ren of Milwaukie was invited to address the patrons on the Swiss Initiative and Referendum system of making laws. He delivered quite an interesting and instructive address.

The Grange will appoint a committee to confer with similar committees that have already been appointed by the Farmers' Alliance and Knights of Labor to meet and discuss the merits of the Initiative and Referendum systems.

A resolution, introduced by A. D. Leedy, regarding the free coinage of silver resolution, that was presented by the finance committee, caused considerable discussion.

Considerable time was consumed in offering and considering various amendments to the original resolution. Some amendments to our by-laws were offered but were not thought of enough importance to be adopted.

The proposed amendments were discussed mainly by J T Jolly, W M Hillary, John Medlar, P P Underwood, H E Hayes, Mrs A Canfield, R P Boise, Mr Tigart and Mr Coleman.

The Northwest Pacific Farmer was adopted as the official paper of the order.

Joseph Casto, A S Roberts, A C Jennings and others spoke of the necessity of farmers taking agricultural papers that are friendly to their interests.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session was devoted to the secret work of the order. All parties present enjoyed themselves greatly.

FRIDAY MORNING.

This is the last day of the session. Opening roll call showed nearly all delegates in their seats.

Among several resolutions that were passed this morning, was one instructing the members of this order to do all in their power to have the Columbia river opened to free navigation.

There was a resolution passed censuring President Cleveland for setting aside a United States law that was made to regulate Chinese immigration, and then calling upon Western governors to look out for the consequences.

The report of the Resolution Committee, "thanking the people of The Dalles, and the press, especially the CHRONICLE, for their generous treatment of us during our sojourn among them" was passed unanimously.

A report that was laid on the table yesterday was taken up and discussed at considerable length.

The duties of certain officers were explained to enquiring parties, and then the Grange was favored with recitations by A. S. Roberts, Geo. Stephenson, Miss Orla Luper, W. M. Hillary, and others.

The twentieth annual session of the Oregon State Grange closed at noon today. The session has been harmonious throughout and the members will go home to their subordinate granges encouraged to work more than ever for the success of our great educational and reformatory movements. All have enjoyed their short stay in the representative city of the Inland Empire, and speak highly of their treatment at the hands of our citizens.

Facts About Ireland.

The population of Ireland in 1891, according to the revised returns just issued, was 4,681,248. The natural increase of population, or excess of births over deaths, for the year was 22,117, and the loss by emigration was 39,929; 21,475 marriages were registered within the year, and it is significant of the religious feeling which exists in all parts of Ireland that only 399 were by civil contracts in the registrars' offices.

A London School of Housewifery.

A new scheme of housewifery has been organized by the committee of the London school and city guilds by which elementary schoolgirls receive instruction in housewifery arts, and an examination has been held of the work done during the past year. The course includes the elementary principles of ventilation, hygiene, sanitation, thrift and recreation, and the students are girls not more than thirteen years of age. The sense and intelligence of the answers, the readiness and neatness with which the girls executed the practical part, were evidence of the appropriateness of such education for those that would become the heads of working-men's homes.
