SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

John Stevens and Mrs. Stansbury Perhaps Fatally Injured.

Last evening about 10 o'clock a hack, filled with people, backed off the bridge about half a mile below Dufur, and two of the occupants had a narrow escape.

John Stevens of Dufur and Mrs. Stansbury of Portland, the mother of Mrs. Andrew Dufur. The occupants of the hack were in attendance upon the camp meeting. The stream at this point runs very swiftly, and in the darkness the rescue was very difficult.

Mrs. Stansbury is in a more serious condition than Mr. Stevens, but both are suffering acutely and are dangerously ill.

ALUMNI REUNION.

One of the Pleasantest Entertainments of the Season.

There is something very cheering about the word reunion, and as the term alumni reminds one of the happiest days of life—school days, taken together they form a pleasing combination, especially to those who were permitted to meet with the alumni of Wasco Independent Academy last evening at Fraternity hall.

Interspersed with the social intercourse were two instrumental solos by Mrs. Grace Condon and Mr. Nicholas Sinnott, a piano duet by Miss Lang and Miss Nona Ruch, a piano solo by Miss Brooks and a reading by Mr. N. Sinnott, which were greatly appreciated.

The guests were soon invited to the parlors below, where tables were spread in such a manner as to fairly take the breath, but not the appetite, as was proven, while the mandolin and guitar club favored them with the sweetest music.

Another happy hour was enjoyed after lunch, and it is safe to say no present ever spent a pleasanter evening than that with the alumni of Wasco Independent Academy.

Among the guests were Prof. Brown, Miss Leora Slutz and Miss Bessie Holcomb, constituting the faculty of the academy, and Mrs. Mary Myers, who is always welcomed by every student of that institution. The one regret of the evening was that out of an alumni numbering sixty members all but the following were unavoidably absent:

INDIAN AGENTS.

The President has Gone Back on his Former Ultimatum.

Grover Cleveland has gone back on his manifesto, and has taken another bull by the horns, and has decided to appoint Indian agents outside of the war department. Among those expected to be appointed are: Boniface Brentano, at Grande Ronde, Ogn.; W. L. Powell, of Seattle, at Neah Bay; Lewis T. Irwin, at Yakima, Wash., and Joseph Robinson at Nez Percés, Idaho.
