JUNE JOTTINGS.

Fifth and Point Paragraphed by Our Pencil Pushers.

The garden hose, the firebrand, the bootjack and the gun. As cat dispensers I have tried. And found success in none. But their extermination's sure if you will loudly play. Upon an old accordion, Tatar-boom-de-ay.

Salmon are running better again. The rye crop about Bake Oven is quite good.

Wool continues to arrive. A large lot came in today.

A rise in the river is predicted toward the last of the week.

Alfalfa is ready to harvest on Hay creek, Crook county.

Hay creek school will have a picnic on the 24th or 25th of this month.

M. A. Moore has been appointed postmaster at Prineville, Crook county.

The vote for mayor was very close, proving that both candidates are popular citizens.

Cross Keys is a new postoffice on Trout creek in the northern part of Crook county.

Deputy Jamison took nine U. S. prisoners to Portland this morning for selling liquor to Indians.

Four hundred and fifty crates of strawberries were shipped to Montana from Hood River yesterday.

It is estimated that one in every 180 Americans owns or rides a bicycle. The other 179 do the dodging and swearing.

Linotypes are being used by several papers on the Pacific coast. The use of such machines reduces the compositorial force about three-fourths.

The roads between The Dalles and Prineville are in good condition, and great quantities of wool are being freighted over them to The Dalles.

A couple of boys were fooling with a 22-caliber revolver yesterday in the east end, and the weapon was discharged, boring a hole in the hand of one of them.

One of the nicest orchards in Oregon is owned by Mr. E. G. Bolter, the postmaster at Cross Keys. Mr. Bolter has a good Lombardy poplar wind brake on the west side of his orchard.

The green aphid, a very small green bug, is ruining the fruit crop up in the Mitchell country. The apple trees in Mr. Boardman's fine little orchard are polluted with the little pests and a very thin fruit crop will be the result.—Antelope Herald.

It is reported that Dr. Hollister was in Washington at the time the Ford theater collapsed and was just about to enter the door when the crash came, and fortunately escaped.

Miss Kate Cooper is teaching the Nansen school, and has eleven pupils enrolled; but only two small boys and five girls were present when Supt. Troy Shelley visited it last Wednesday.

Center Ridge school, district No. 33, will be out in August. Miss Grace Hill is teacher, and has sixteen pupils—seven girls and nine boys. There are two young ladies and no young men at this school.

There were 634 votes polled yesterday. This is not a fair representation of our population and there have been much heavier votes polled. A great many of our citizens are in the east, in the coast towns and throughout the country.

Geo. H. Knaggs has received an appointment in the customs office at Portland and will shortly enter upon the discharge of his duties. He says of himself that he is hardly good enough to keep and yet too good to throw away.

Mrs. Helen Urquhart, mother of A. A. and Andrew Urquhart of The Dalles, died at her home in Napavine, Wash., June 19th. She was born in Scotland in 1825 and has lived in Lewis county ever since 1854. Her husband survives her.

Strawberry raisers hate to see the robins helping themselves to such a goodly share of the crop, but the toll they take is well earned for the good work they do earlier in the season in destroying the cut-worms and a multitude of other injurious insects, which would be far worse without the robins.

Miss Minnie Crooks is teaching at Cross Keys, where the sage rats play about the school-house. Miss Crooks has two good classes in mental arithmetic and only one pupil in each class. Five girls and three boys were present at this school when a CHRONICLE reporter called last Friday. The school-house at this place is sadly in need of a good blackboard.

The Antelope Herald cheerfully announces the possible demise of a citizen as follows: "Judge Keaton had a touch of paralysis the first of the week and was confined to his bed for several days in consequence. Judge is the oldest man in this end of the county, and it will not be long until he will be numbered with the departed pioneers. He is now in his 70's." What a perpetual source of sadness it would be to the Herald if the Judge should live to be 100.

J. B. Havelly-Boyd is in the city today. He states that the health of the people is very good, and that the prospects for crops were never better. Asked about the camp meeting being held there, he stated that there were many conversions under the leadership of Rev. R. C. Motor, H. T. Johnston and A. K. Dufur. There are nearly half a dozen churches represented in these meetings, but all are working in unison.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpshurg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "la grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free trial bottles at Snipes & Kinserly's. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.00.

Moster News.

MOSIER, June 19, 1893.

The weather is quite pleasant today. Mr. Robt. Hardwick is building himself quite a sizable barn.

Mr. S. D. Fisher has returned with his belongings to his ranch. His lady is visiting her parents in Hood River.

Sunday, June 11th, which was children's day, we met on the grounds, where the camp meeting was held last summer. The children had recitations and singing; also singing by the choir. A collection was taken up for missionary purposes. We had a short intermission to eat our lunch. Preaching in the afternoon by Mr. F. Wilson. The meeting was strictly religious. It was not a picnic. There was no festivities, whatever.

Down here in Strawberry Vale, at Robt. Hardwick's, Friday 16th, the strawberry festival came off. Cake, strawberries and cream were plentiful, and all seemed to enjoy themselves very pleasantly. Many thanks are due to the ladies who contributed so liberally in the line of cake and cream. Neither do we forget the strawberry growers, (Mr. and Mrs. Kramer, C. Fisher and Mr. James Brown) for their generosity in supplying us with the luscious berries which enabled us to raise $9.30 towards the organ. Thanks to all from Mrs. R. HARDWICK and Mrs. JAMES BROWN.

Resolutions of Thanks.

The following resolution passed the Washington State Grange at their recent session in White Salmon:

Resolved, That the hearty thanks of the state grange of Washington be especially extended to The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Transportation Company, and especially to the general agent of this company, for special trips made by their steamer Regulator, for the accommodations of this body, and that we as patrons give and persuade others to give their support to this company and we also extend the thanks of this state Grange to the press of The Dalles, the Hood River Glacier, the Klickitat county Courier, the Leader of Centerville.

CROSSED IN LOVE.

Miss Caroline P. Harker Leaps Into the Willamette River.

Disappointed in love and despondent, Miss Caroline P. Harker ended her life at 5:30 last evening by jumping from the Stark-street ferry into the waters of the Willamette river.

She left her home at No. 153 Thirteenth street about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, leaving a note for her sister, saying:

"I can't withstand the impulse. Good-bye. CARRIE."

She boarded the ferry at the West Side approach, and walked nervously up and down inside the north rail of the ferry until a little past the middle of the stream, when she leaped overboard.

L. L. Flynn, an extraman in truck company No. 7, who was on the boat, was the first to collect himself and offer assistance. Flynn jumped overboard and caught the girl before she had sank. He succeeded in holding her head out of the water for several minutes, while a rowboat from the shore was rapidly proceeding to the rescue. While the rowboat was yet quite a distance from them Flynn sank with the girl, but a moment later arose, still holding to his burden. Finally, however, becoming exhausted, the body of the girl slipped from his clutches, and Flynn himself was only saved by a man named Daniels jumping from the rowboat and catching him as he sank.

The body of the girl sank to the bottom, and although the rowboat was kept in the vicinity for several minutes it did not rise to the surface. Returning to the shore, a party with grappling irons went out, followed shortly after by Hugh Brady, the most successful grappler in Portland. He grappled from 6 o'clock to 10 last night without success, and returned to the work shortly after daylight this morning. At 8:45 his efforts were rewarded and the body of the unfortunate young lady was recovered. The body was found within a few yards of the spot where it sunk the last time. One of the grappling hooks caught in her hair, another in her coat and one in her open umbrella, which she still clutched in her hand. The remains were brought to the west shore and Coroner Hughes notified. The body was at once removed to the morgue where an inquest was held at 11 o'clock this morning.

Miss Harker was 22 years of age, and was engaged to marry a gentleman residing in California, named James T. Bartaell. Mr. Bartaell was here two years ago, but the young people were not engaged until after that time. Since about April 1st, Miss Harker has been very nervous and melancholy. The verdict was to the effect that she came to her death by drowning in the Willamette river and that she committed suicide in a fit of despondency. There was no evidence before the jury to justify an official censure of any one on the ferry for not taking more active measures to rescue the young lady.—Telegram.
