THE AUSTRALIAN LESSON.

The Spokane Review has the following very readable and sensible article on the financial question, especially valuable for the style in which it is written, the writer apparently not being afraid of making himself intelligible:

Those who imagine that the gold standard in all its severity is a shield against financial trouble are afforded a fine field of information in the Australian collapse. That country has become a synonym for gold. It has produced hundreds of millions of the yellow metal and only a mere trifle of silver; and it has also borrowed gold furiously. With a total population short of that of New York state, it has coaxed $750,000,000 out of John Bull alone. This borrowed capital it threw into all sorts of wild ventures—railroads into the wilderness, irrigating canals into unpopulous regions—trusting to renewals to carry it through, and deceiving itself with the belief that British credulity and liberality would last forever.

The first installment of these loans was paid with comparative ease; the second pinched; the third brought the crash. Eleven of the fifteen banks closed their doors, and the remaining four are shaky. The collapse has shaken London violently, and in her distress London is pursuing precisely the course that is pursued by a bank when it finds itself in trouble. She understands that it is useless to press her bankrupt debtors for money, and turns for relief to her debtors in the United States. The bank pushes the men capable of responding; it wastes no time on worthless paper. For the same reason England turns with her securities to the American markets. That and the adverse balance of trade are the prime causes of the prevailing stringency. With silver in reserve we are meeting the demands, not without some suffering, but withal with advantage. This strain over, we shall have the confidence of the investigating world, precisely as the individual who responds to the pressure brought to bear by a local bank wins the confidence of that institution and turns it to advantage in better times.

This experience, though, ought to demonstrate to the dullest mind the wisdom of the demand for a more liberal and yet safe circulating medium in the United States. The science of banking declares as an axiom that the banking institution of large liabilities requires a large reserve. The United States, as a debtor nation, has heavy liabilities. A collapse in Argentina, a panic in the antipodes, starts a run upon our reserve. And yet it is seriously contended that the United States, with all these heavy liabilities, does not require a circulating medium half as large as that carried by France, although France has comparatively all in bills receivable and nothing in deposits, whereas in the United States the converse is the case. In banking this would be condemned as the apotheosis of folly by the very men who are contending that in statesmanship it is wisdom.

The latest reports state that prices abroad for wool hold very firm. This probably marks the turning point for the better. Buyers have stated that they were unwilling to pay a price above the free wool basis, but they were unable to state what they considered such price to be, and it has perhaps already underreached such a point. The major part of this year's clip has been held back, and it is only a question of a short time when overtures must be made from the manufacturers, who are compelled to have wool, and the market will rise again.

Leland Stanford was 69 years of age. No man on the Pacific coast is more widely known; indeed, his fame as a philanthropist, railroad magnate, blooded horse-raiser and farmer is known all over the civilized world. He served six years in the United States senate, two years as governor of California, and held the highest positions he chose to accept in the gift of the golden state. His magnificent gift of the $20,000,000 memorial university at Palo Alto is a standing monument to his name.

THE TIDE HAS TURNED

Once More Gold Is Shipped From London to the United States.

NO EXPORTS IN PAST THREE WEEKS

To Relieve the Stringency the Government Will Anticipate the Payment of Interest Due in July.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The shipment of gold from London to New York, news of which was received this morning, is looked upon as showing the tide in gold exports has turned. For the past three weeks no gold has been exported, and, as a consequence, the treasury department has been gaining in gold during that period. The net balance today was $94,050,310.

New York, June 21.—Owing to the low rate of sterling exchange the first importation of gold for some time will leave Southampton for this port tomorrow to the amount of $500,000. It is reported that $1,600,000 has been ordered.

California's Capital Case.
WOODLAND, Cal., June 21.—Superior Judge Grant today decided in favor of Sacramento and against San Jose in the state capital removal case. The constitutionality of the act of the recent legislature in submitting an amendment to the constitution, allowing the change of the capital, was sought to be tested in his court and the act is declared void. The case will doubtless be appealed.

A Still Lower Rate Expected.
ST. PAUL, June 21.—The Great Northern has no announcement to make this evening toward meeting the Northern Pacific's $25 and $18 rates, but it is understood it will make a rate of $20 first class and $15 second class tomorrow.

Oakes' Letter.
NEW YORK, June 21.—President Oakes, of the Northern Pacific, said today:

"March 1, last, Mr. Villard handed to me his resignation, requesting that it be submitted to the board of directors. To this I made a reply requesting him to hold the matter in abeyance until the floating debt could be provided for.

This now being accomplished by the actual formation of a guarantee syndicate, which Mr. Villard and friends took more than one-half among themselves, he now insists upon his resignation being accepted, believing that he can now be justified in taking a long rest and travel abroad.

What Your Great Grandmother Did.
She hatched the flax and carded the wool, and wove the linen, and spun the tow, and made the clothes for her husband and ten children. She made butter and cheese, she dipped tallow candles, to light the house at night, and she cooked all the food for her household by an open fire place and a brick oven. Yes; and when she was forty years of age, she was already an old lady whose best days were over. Her shoulders were bent and her joints enlarged by hard work, and she wore spectacles and a cap.
Her great granddaughter, with all the modern conveniences for comfort, refinement and luxury, may be as charming and attractive as forty-five as at twenty. Especially is this true if she preserves her health by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which wards off all female ailments and irregularities, cures them if they already exist, keeps the life current, healthful and vigorous, and enables the woman of middle age to retain the freshness of girlhood upon brow and cheek, the light of youth in her eyes, and its elasticity in her step.

Go to your drug store, pay a dollar, get a bottle and try it—try a second, a third if necessary. Before the third one's been taken you'll know that there's a remedy to help you. Then you'll keep on and a cure'll come. But if you shouldn't feel the help, should be disappointed in the results—you'll find a guarantee printed on the bottle-wrapper that'll get your money back for you. Can you ask more?

THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its dashing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturing center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be excelled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment
