HAWAII'S CONSPIRACY

The Plot Against the Provisional Government.

SOME SENSATIONAL STATEMENTS

Claus Spreckels Was to Give the Royalists $1,000,000--- Many Were in the Alleged Plot.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 .- The following advices have been received from Honolulu under date of June 29th : Yesterday afternoon's developments quite sensational. The preliminary examination of Crick, Walker and Sinclair went on, and as each successive witness ment's case appeared to be. Simon von Topax, a soldler in the provisional army, testified that Walker had approached him on several occasions and, after predicting the return of the queen will pay expenses." to power, offered him a position in the custom-house as soon as the old order of things was restored if he (Von Topaz) would give him a list of the soldiers who would turn traitor. Walker said he could easily overthrow the provisional government, as he had 1,000 armed men, and told Von Topaz to advise his company to lay down their good backers in the persons of Claus clair was with Walker on several occasions when these statements were made, also John Bowler on one occasion. Walker said his plan was to prevent the volunteer forces of the provisional government from approaching the executive building, and, relying on the co-operation of members of the to the building through an underground passage. A mass meeting of royalists had been called, but the natives did not attend, and only 300 whites and half whites were present. Sam Nowline, a half white was to be one of the leaders of the crowd. The fact that a list of the conspirators is in possession of the provisional government has leaked out, and there are many uneasy royalists in town. It is the hope of the government that Steamer Regulator leaves The Crick, Walker and Sinclair that these off themselves. It is not believed that Spreckels entered into the conspiracy, but that Walker used his name in order$2.00 to influence the soldiers to turn traitors. While the sugar king openly fought 3.00 against annexation, he is believed to be too shrewd a man to join with men like those on the trail. All three of them are men of dissolute habits who went about boasting of what they intended to accomplish, and it is no wonder that
