It is not to be wondered at that women who have the courage to go into business are successful. A woman who has such courage must have a determination to succeed, and is devoted to her duties. The trouble with many women who work for a living is that they do not do the best they can. The poor woman who takes in washing is late in sending for the clothes, and is behind hand in returning them, even if she does make them spotlessly clean. All women know how rare are good dressmakers who can be depended upon to do as they promise, as well as make garments that fit. Whenever you see a dressmaker, or even a washerwoman who attends to her business properly, you see a woman who can have all the work she wants, and she can charge a little better than the average for doing it, too. It is just so in almost every other work that women take up. If they go into the store, or office, or factory, they do not pay so much attention as they should to mastering all the details of their work. There is not enough intensity of purpose in them. They fail to show the thoroughness that all must show before promotion comes. This lack of interest in the work is one reason why women so often get smaller wages than men. When a woman puts earnest purpose into her work, she can do as well as a man almost every time, and often she can do a great deal better.

The Ashland Record, a populist organ, rather gloats over the present financial stringency. It says: "When we have a cheap and stable currency the element of uncertainty will be largely eliminated from business, and prosperity will again flow through the channel of industry." A "cheap and stable currency" would be something of a novelty; in fact, we would think, an unknown quantity. However the Record probably can explain what kind of a commodity it will be.—Ochoco Review. The Record has made the mistake of putting into cold type the fiery harangues of cheap stable currency. Those who are deluded by this kind of talk are frequently other than editors, and once in a while you will come across a combative neophyte who wants to challenge the Americanism of every individual he meets who is not in love with his peculiar fallacies.

Hoke Smith seems to be a versatile cuss. One day last week he lectured at Asbury Park, on the care of children. The secretary of the interior said a most sensible thing when he told his audience with a good deal of emphasis that the American father would do well to devote less time to money-making and more to training and education of his sons and daughters. Here is a glaring defect in the national character. What the rising generation needs is not money to live in idleness, but the equipment to earn a living for itself. Hocus ought to retire from the interior department suggests the Review, and take to the lecture platform with his ideas on bringing up the American youngsters.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has been gathering statistics and estimates that $20,000,000 have already been lost to the wool growers of the United States since "the change" in November. In addition their flocks, which they yet retain, are also to be sacrificed should "tariff reform," as interpreted by the changelings, get full sway. This is indeed an object lesson of rigorous import.

The president some months ago suspended, and still refuses to enforce the provisions of the Geary law as to the Chinese in the United States. As an offset to this, and in order to make some capital for their party on the other side of the question, a lot of cheap partisan underlings of the administration on this coast are exhibiting great zeal in persecution of the Chinese.—Oregonian.

An Unseemly Custom.

Dr. George R. Palmer, of the Onarga Leader and Review, gives the following in a recent issue of his paper: "Forty years we have been convinced that the exposure of the face of the dead at funerals to the gaze of the public was as unseemly as in some respects revolting. We do not know how the custom came into vogue nor why it continued. If the deceased was so near a friend as to make the sight something to be desired, it is well for that friend to go to the home of the dead, and, in the quiet of the chamber of death, take the last sad mute farewell. Unless it is in the discharge of some duty to the dead friend or some member of the household, we never look at the face of a dead friend. We are so constituted that we preserve in our memory the thought of our dead friends as we last saw them. It is much better, for ourselves at least, to preserve in our thoughts the memory of the living rather than the dead. It is not pleasant to hold through the years the dead form of a loved friend. For ourselves only we speak, when we say, we want no open coffin and tread of feet and gaze of strange eyes. All that paraphernalia seems to us unseemly. There is more of morbid curiosity in it all, as it strikes us, than any respect to the dead or living friends. We hope to see the custom become much less common than it now is."

Shiloh's cure, the Great Cough and Croup Cure, is for sale by Snipes & Kinersly. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses, only 25c. Children love it. Sold by Snipes & Kinersly.

The Portland Banks.

We have received notice this week that the banks of Portland have decided to not receive checks on outside banks, and already our citizens who do their banking business with banks nearer home have begun to feel the inconvenience of this arrangement. It is evidently the intention of the Portland banks to precipitate a run on the interior banks, with the object of capturing their trade. Merchants of this and adjoining counties should cooperate to defy this combine, and when paying for goods purchased of Portland wholesale men, issue checks on their home banks as usual. If the Portland merchants will not accept these checks, our home merchants can find wholesale men in other cities who will be glad to get their trade, where the banks are not so particular, and carry money enough to accommodate the legitimate demands of business. In view of the recent drop in freight rates from eastern points, it would seem as though Portland were trifling with a homerang.—Fossil Journal.

La Grippe.

During the prevalence of the gripple the past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures not only in cases of la grippe, but in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, and has cured cases of asthma and hay fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free trial bottles at Snipes & Kinersly's drug store.

THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp-ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, sightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its rushing streams and water falls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturing will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be excelled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already made, you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
