Red Astrakan apples and Alexander peaches are reported ripe in places in this city.

While returning from The Dalles Thursday with a load of freight Jasper Wright had the misfortune to lose a very fine mare. She got one of her legs broken and the injury was so severe he was compelled to kill her.

The fruit growers of this vicinity and county are requested by some of our horticulturists to meet at the city hall on Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. Some important matters which require attention at once is to be looked into. A full attendance is desired.

Olinger & Bone, Hood River liverymen, have got out a number of neat advertisements, costing $5 apiece. They are photographs of Mt. Hood, Cloud Cap Inn and the Coe glacier attractively arranged around the advertisement for their livery accommodations.

The telephone company have set their poles up to the city and are now digging the holes for them within the city limits. Cross arms were nailed on them today. Three wires will be strung, two copper and one galvanized wire. The copper wires show prettily in the sunlight.

The 6-year-old son of Mrs. Vice Daugherty of Buck Hollow, came near being scalded to death about noon on Saturday. One of the Kelsay girls was scrubbing the floor and had a tub of scalding water sitting in the kitchen. The little fellow was sitting on the edge of the tub, and by some accident slipped and fell backwards into the water. He was snatched out immediately but not in time to prevent him from being frightfully scalded.—Antelope Herald.

"So your son is home from medical college, Mr. Littlupll; will he begin practice here in his native town?" "Er—well, no, I reckon not; not right away. You see, Bill Mason's boy fell off the fence and broke a bone, and my son went down there and set the wrong leg. He says if I'll send him back for a post-graduate course, he'll shake the Glee club, swear off on foot ball, and never touch another mandolin or banjo as long as he lives."

Mrs. Wilson Returns.

Mrs. E. M. Wilson has returned to the city and is stopping with her daughter Mrs. J. T. Peters. A reception was given Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. C. McFarland, who has also just returned, this afternoon by the Ladies Aid Society at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Rinehart. The interior and table decorations were elaborate and the lunch very delectable.

Mrs. Wilson's address before the women's congress at the world's fair has been pronounced a magnificent effort, highly instructive and fascinatingly entertaining. At its conclusion, while receiving numerous congratulations, she was besieged for the manuscript of it, and injudiciously surrendered it, without knowing who the party was who showed her so great honor. She will perhaps never see it again, but some newspaper or magazine will have a great "scoop" on its cotemporaries.

Kingsley News.

The warm showers of the last two days make the farmers of this neighborhood wear a very smiling countenance. The grain that was yellow and short from the effects of frost is now turning to its natural color and stretching upwards. I believe the Ridge will market its usual number of bushels this fall.

The people of Kingsley were called upon today to perform the sad duty of burying the late John Baxter in the Kingsley cemetery. Mr. Baxter was well known here for a number of years, and was loved by all that knew him. BRUNO.

Remedy for Poison Ivy.

A correspondent writing to the Scientific American says: Bean leaves bruised and applied will afford instant relief and arrest any further progress of the affliction of poison ivy. I have found a decoction of dried bean leaves quite as satisfactory; so that the prudent may always have the remedy summer or winter. J. A. PALMER.

Use Mexican Silver stove polish.

Mr. Geo. Brown and the street commissioner are overhauling the water fountain at the postoffice. It is a public necessity and convenience which is appreciated.

There are some patent medicines that are more marvelous than a dozen doctor's prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything. Everybody, now and then, feels "run down," "played out." They've the will, but no power to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor wouldn't do for less than five or ten. We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

We claim it to be an unequalled remedy to purify the blood and invigorate the liver. We claim it to be lasting in its effects, creating an appetite, purifying the blood, and preventing bilious, typhoid and malarial fevers if taken in time. The time to take it is when you first feel the signs of weariness and weakness. The time to take it, on general principles, is now. Ask your dealer for Mexican Silver Stove Polish.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Amos Root of Mosier is in town today.

D. B. Kelly of Mitchell is in the city.

Mr. R. F. Gibbons is off to Portland on a flying trip.

H. Herbring and Otto Kieemann arrived from Sprague today.

Miss Mabel Lewis of Portland is a guest of Mrs. F. Sherman.

Father Bronsgeest left today for the east via the Canadian Pacific.

Miss Maggie Roberts of Pendleton is visiting Mrs. Isaac Joles and daughters in this city.

Miss Sande of Red Bluff, California, is visiting the family of Judge Geo. A. Liebe in this city.

Mrs. H. Heppner and daughter Ruth of Albina are in the city visiting relatives and friends.

Misses Grace and Annette Michell went up to Columbus on the noon train, where they will spend a few weeks.

Mr. Alex. McLeod of Kingsley has returned from a visit to friends and relatives in the east, also a ten days' visit to the world's fair.

Edward W. Werick, who has been stenographer for Mays, Huntington & Wilson for several months, leaves for Buffalo, his old home, tomorrow.

Yomer Lauretson, the boy who had his collar bone broken yesterday, is resting easily today. Dr. G. C. Eshelman is the attending physician, instead of Dr. Rinehart, as accidentally stated yesterday.

Hon. George T. Myers, president of the Oregon world's fair commission, has returned to Portland after a very pleasant trip to Chicago. He speaks in the highest possible terms of the great exposition. "It is something grand," he exclaimed, enthusiastically: "It is simply paralyzing."

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

Columbia—S Jamison, G Reaser, Mrs Scott, Charles Smith, T Johnson, G Taylor, R A McVilly, Charles Hunter, Portland; James Woods, Grants; John Lent, Collins; Albert Bertiche, Joseph Silver, Folds; Albert Kayser, A J Webb, Blockhouse, C E Porter, and wife, Prairie City; William Kennedy, Chenoweth; A Nave, Tacoma; Jacob Falk, J Purrie, Seattle; J O Williamson, Oregon City; P McDonald, Arlington; Otto Cure, Lyle; W Baker, Cascades.

A Great Convenience.

Worlds fair visitors travelling via the Northern Pacific Railroad, and Wisconsin Central line, are landed at the Paid Central station in Chicago.

This magnificent fire-proof building, located in the heart of the city has been fitted up as a hotel, run on the European plan, with about 200 rooms handsomely furnished and each room is supplied with hot and cold water, electric lights, etc.

The charges for accommodations are reasonable and parties can secure rooms in advance by calling upon agents of the Northern Pacific railroad.

By taking the Northern Pacific through car line to Chicago, visitors will avoid the discomfort of all transfer in that city, and can also travel between the Grand Central station and world's fair grounds by trains which run direct between the two points. 2td1wlm-7-12

SHARPSBURG, Pa., Jan. 27, 1892.

ME J. J. KEEL, Sharpsburg, Pa. DEAR SIR—I have used Krause's Headache Capsules for some time and want to testify to their value. I tried various well recommended medicines, but got no relief until I used these, and now would not be without them for ten times their cost. Yours respectfully CHARLES T. SEDGWICK.

JUDGE DENNY.

A Man Who Has Benefitted the World for Living in It.

Judge O. N. Denny called at THE CHRONICLE office this morning and had a very pleasant chat with the editor, who dates his acquaintance back for a period of over 30 years. Time tells but slightly upon the familiar features and the Judge is the same affable, kindly gentleman as of yore. His home is now in Lafayette, Or., where he has extensive farming interests and upon which he has recently toiled alongside his hired hands, the doctor having prescribed hard work as the best panacea for a disordered stomach, and his hands give evidence of how faithfully he has followed the doctor's prescription. Mr. Denny was appointed a consul to China in 1877, and was afterwards promoted to consul-general at Shanghai, and was perhaps nearer to the viceroy, Li Hong Chang, than any other foreigner. So broad-minded and liberal, so clear-sighted and trustworthy, it was not a matter of wonder that he became very intimate with the rulers of the Orient, and his services were successfully petitioned as the adviser and director for the king of Corea. Judge Denny, as much as any other living man, has made America, in the estimation of China, Japan and allied countries, a reputation for fair statesmanship, liberal views and generous consideration.

With a natural love for sport, it is not to be wondered at that the many beautiful birds of China, with their brilliancy of plumage, should awaken a desire to have them introduced in the United States, and in 1881 he imported 18 hens and 10 cocks of the ring-necked pheasants, which have now become fairly plentiful throughout the Willamette valley, and proving that the climate is favorable to their development.

On another occasion Mr. Denny brought 90 pheasants from Japan of different varieties, 32 golden, 8 silver, 16 copper, 12 Japan green pheasants and the remainder of another variety. These were placed on Protection island, and some of them have thriven enormously.

There are 13 varieties of pheasants in China known to Mr. Denny, and in making the selection for a colony for the United States there was much to be considered. The Swinnoes pheasant has a brilliant plumage; the Elliot, Amherst and Darwin pheasants are less showy and more destructive; the hand-somest is the Reeves pheasant, having a predominance in color of old gold, with markings of white and brown, and having a tail five or six feet long. The names of these pheasants were all derived from Englishmen who were first to discover them; of course they have their proper ornithological names, properly catalogued, and warranted to be unpronounceable. The pheasant which has been known as the Chinese pheasant is no more Chinese than these twelve other varieties, and since the others were named after English discoverers, it is due Mr. Denny, who not only discovered them, but conferred an inestimable blessing upon his countrymen by introducing them, to name them after himself. Denny pheasant it shall henceforth be termed in THE CHRONICLE, and should be adopted by every newspaper on the coast. The bird is valuable on account of its insect-destroying proclivities, and the introduction of a number of them on the Warm Springs reservation would satisfactorily solve for the Indians the cricket pest. An instance will suffice of the estimation in which they are held by the Chinese themselves. While Mr. Denny was out hunting with an interpreter attendant, he came upon a Chinese small farmer, who requested him to spare them, although they were quite plentiful.

"Why," said Mr. Denny, "they are in your cabbage patch."

"True," said he, "they are, and they eat a little of the cabbage, but here is what they are after," and turning up the under side of a cabbage leaf, the Chinaman caught hold of a long green worm and held it up to view. "Now, these worms destroy more cabbage in one day than the birds will in three months."

Mr. Denny left for Arlington on the 1 o'clock train, but promises to stop on his return trip. He is an old timer in The Dalles, and was one of those men, few here thirty years ago, who maintained that this section of country was good for something else besides bunchgrass and sunflowers, and that the barren hillsides south and east of us would some day grow fields of waving grain. His prediction has achieved a glorious fulfillment. Oregon takes the lead at the world's fair for her fruits, and Wasco county secures first honors of Oregon for her horticultural display. Mr. Denny has lived a long life of usefulness, and it is fitting that he should retire to his Oregon home to spend the remainder of his years. May they be many and pleasant, is the sincere wish of THE CHRONICLE.
