FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1893

The high crime which was discovered in this city yesterday by the finding of the body of an infant deserves the sincerest condemnation. If the baby was the child of shame, which is more than probable, it did not deserve death at the hands of its mother. Whatever the social consequences the mother would have done far better in the eyes of the law, humanity and God, to have given the child a natural birth, and thenceforth have cared for it either herself or have placed it in the hands of one of the numerous institutions in the country for this purpose. Her lot can never be a happy one, with the fearful crime of murder unnecessarily added to the lesser one of adultery. There are some women who are strong enough to go through this ordeal of fire, who nobly survive the stings and taunts of "outraged society," and come forth yet strong in their humanity, and renouncing their evil, become the truest of wives and the most loving of mothers. But weaker ones shrink from the consequences, and so conceal their deed by added and higher crimes. The situation is complex. Society should be more lenient to fallen women striving for a nobler life. Yet it cannot afford to be at the cost of virtue.

Now that the Duke de Veragua has assumed the role of beggar, Americans will finally be disillusioned in their senseless adulation of the descendant of the illustrious Chris. There is nothing that falls upon the taste of our people sooner than solicitation of funds, and especially by those who have put on such airs as has the duke. The statement that he wants nothing for himself, but will accept money volunteered to his family will be received with a smile by Americans generally, who know what becomes of the wife's purse after marriage by nine-tenths of married couples. Spain is disgraced by this shameless conduct, although Christopher Columbus is too far away in the mists of the past for obloquy to reach him.

The religious and family weekly, of which H. W. Beecher was once editor, and whose editor-in-chief is now Mr. Beecher's successor, the Rev. Lyman Abbott, has changed its title from The Christian Union to The Outlook. In editorship, ownership, publisher, policy and character it will remain unchanged. The number dated July 1st is the first of the new series; it is printed from new type, contains 52 pages, and has several features of special interest.

South Carolina is now virtually a prohibition state, and liquor can only be bought from the state government under stringent regulations. The true test of this system will not come for some time, not until the private stock of liquors is exhausted, especially in the counties which have not provided for a state dispensary. It is a novel experiment in law and liquor, and deserves impartial study before judgment is pronounced as to its wisdom.

Perhaps the most significant thing, as showing the financial condition of the country, is the way in which the bankers and business men with one voice rejoice over the early calling of congress. Usually these interests are glad when the disturbing influences that gather round a session of congress came to an end. But now there is real need of congress, and these men realize it well.

The Canyon City News tells of a fourth of July celebration in that town along in the '60s, when John C. Luce arose to read the Declaration of Independence, and read in a rich, dark brown voice nearly half of the constitution of the United States before Hon. W. Lair Hill pulled the tail of John's coat and found the right page for him.

British India has not "demonetized silver," but has merely ceased its free coinage on private account.

SCIENTIFIC OBSERVATIONS.

A JELLY fish of ten pounds when dried weighs about ten grains. The occupants of a balloon a mile high command a radius of ninety-six miles.

The bones and muscles of the human body are capable of over one thousand two hundred different movements. Prof. SIMMONDS, of Hamburg, has proved that flies can infect catables, and especially saucers, with cholera germs.

The imperial health officer of Berlin says that the juice of both the orange and the lemon is fatal to the cholera bacillus in a few hours. The shark manifests a distinct liking for certain races, and will eat an Asiatic in preference to a negro, and a European rather than either.

INTERESTING INFORMATION.

In the United States 1,850 towns and cities are equipped with electric lights. SIXTEEN ounces of gold are sufficient to gild a wire that would encircle the earth.

The cuckoo never makes a nest, but lays a solitary egg in the nest of some other bird.

The average weight of the male infant at birth is seven pounds; of the female six and one-half.

For inflamed eyes: Into a little milk put a lump of alum, and hold it over a gas jet; when it curdles, lay the curd on a soft linen cloth and bind gently over the eyes.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY has 2,500 students, and has added eight new professors this year.

The University of Michigan has 500 women students, two Japanese girls being among the number.

Of the 60,000 students in the American universities and colleges, Ohio has one-tenth, New York ranks next, then Pennsylvania, fourth Illinois.

RUSSELL SAGE of New York has approved plans for a dormitory which he proposes to erect for the Troy female seminary. It will cost $100,000.

As good as new—that's the condition of liver, stomach and bowels, when Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. It's a work that isn't finished when you've stopped taking them, either. It's lasting. They cure, as well as relieve. And it's all done so mildly and gently! There's none of the violence that went with the old-time pill. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet's a gentle laxative—three to four act as a cathartic. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved and cured. As a Liver Pill, they're unequalled. They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—the smallest, cheapest, and easiest to take. They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more? That's the peculiar plan all Dr. Pierce's medicines are sold on.
